A Legacy of Excellence

140 Years

Nineteen hundred and ninety-six marks the 140th year of Seton Hall University's proud LEGACY OF Excellence in preparing young men and women to face the many personal and professional challenges of adulthood. Four years ago, amidst a great deal of excitement and anxiety, the Class of 1996 became part of that legacy.

As freshmen, we wondered what would take place during our college years. We soon learned that we were expected to assume countless new responsibilities. As we became first intrigued and later challenged by our individual fields of learning, we also began to build personal LEGACIES OF Excellence academically, socially and spiritually.

In the course of our college years, we found ourselves facing many obstacles. Although these may have seemed overwhelming at times, we persevered and, most often, accomplished our goals. While doing so, we laughed, cried, loved, learned and grew. Most importantly, we matured into young men and women.

The time we have spent here at The Hall, both inside and outside of the classroom, has prepared us well for the years which lie beyond graduation. As we face the future, we are confident that we are now prepared to carry Seton Hall University's LEGACY OF Excellence proudly into the 21st century.

The Papal Visit

On October 5, 1995, members of the Seton Hall community had the chance to be a part of a very rare opportunity. Pope John Paul II, the spiritual leader of the Catholic Church, conducted a special mass at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, New Jersey.

When Pope John Paul arrived at Newark International Airport, he was greeted by trumpets and cheers, as well as the President of the United States. President Clinton said: "Your holiness, it is a great pleasure and honor to welcome you to the United States. All Americans are happy to see you."

The 75-year-old Pontiff looked to be in excellent health as he responded: "It is a great joy for me to return to the United States. Thank you for coming today and extending your hearts with virtue and hospitality." The Pope then showed his sense of humor when he remarked that he always seems to bring the rain when he comes to the US.

The President and the Pope then took separate motorcades to Sacred Heart Cathedral for a 20-minute private meeting, followed by a 5 p.m. prayer service. More than 1,800 people attended the service, which was broadcast live. Among the 1,800 attendees and participants were several Seton Hall community members, all of whom were amazed by the Pope's presence.

The Mass at Giants Stadium the following day turned out to be a truly awesome event. Despite the rain, the spirit of the 80,000 plus spectators wasn't dampened. The Mass was covered live by all of the local TV networks as well as Seton Hall's radio station, WSOU. About 150 Seton Hall community members attended the Mass.

Peter Fritz, liturgy coordinator for Campus Ministry, said "I think it was fantastic, uplifting and joyful. For me, it was like seeing St. Peter - someone who stood for all that I believe in as a human being and as a Catholic."

Senior Al Tesoriello said: "It was awesome and inspiring. It was great to see 90,000 people all celebrating the same thing singing, cheering, praying and worshipping."

Junior Kylee Barron said "The thing that affected me the most was how wonderful it was for all of America to see that a large number of youth are not shooting people or doing drugs. Many of the people at Giants Stadium were young people committed to morals. National television was able to witness that much of the youth of America is on track."

Despite the rain and the sometimes carnival-like atmosphere, including a wave around Giants Stadium and the spectacle of the "Pope-mobile," the message in the Pope's homily was not lost. The Pontiff called for Americans to come to the aid of the less fortunate and the unborn. He also reminded attendees of the values which the nearby Statue of Liberty stands for. Above all, the Pope's message was one about the value of life, a message that Seton Hall was blessed to have heard from such an important person.

Investiture of the President

Monsignor Robert Sheeran

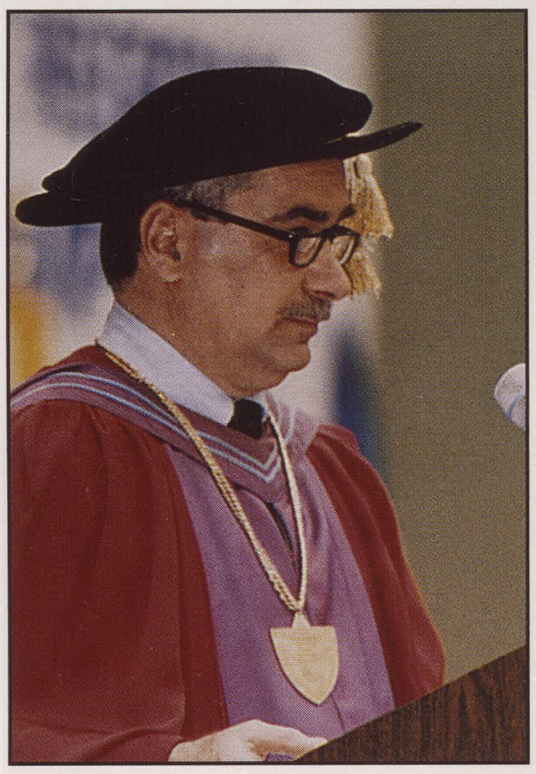

On March 27, Monsignor Robert Sheeran was officially invested as the 18th president of Seton Hall University during the Charter Day celebration in Walsh Gymnasium. Most Reverend Theodore E. McCarrick, Archbishop of Newark; Very Reverend Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., University chancellor; and Frank Walsh, chairman of the Seton Hall Board of Regents, presided over the Investiture and presented Monsignor Sheeran with the Presidential Medallion as 800 faculty, staff, students and friends looked on. Also in attendance were Monsignor Sheeran's mother and other members of his family.

Originally presented to then - Monsignor John J. Dougherty upon his inauguration as University president in 1960, the Presidential Medallion bears the original seal of the University as adopted by the Board of Regents in 1864.

Following the Investiture, Monsignor Sheeran received symbolic presentations from leaders of campus constituencies such as the Student Government Association, faculty, administrators and staff.

During the ceremony, Monsignor Sheeran delivered the Charter Day address. "I am very mindful of the confidence placed in me by the Regents and of the high expectations," he stated. He spoke of his commitment to the students, and of the momentum and vitality that marks Seton Hall. Monsignor Sheeran said that he sees Seton Hall as continuing on a quest to be the best Catholic university in America. Sheeran said in his address to the crowd, "My goal as president will be to work with you to provide a vision of what Seton Hall can be." Sheeran said, "Students are what Seton Hall focuses on best and what Seton Hall has done best over the past 140 years."

Faculty and Students Honored with the Presentation of the McQuaid and Ramon Ramos Medals

On March 27, 1996, three employees of the University community were honored with The Bishop Bernard J. McQuaid Medal for Distinguished Service and one undergraduate student received the Ramon Ramos Medal of Courage.

The McQuaid Medal is awarded, on nomination of the president and approval of the Board of Regents, to members of the faculty, administration and staff who have rendered outstanding service to the University. Professor of Art Edwin Havas, Track and Field Coach John Moon, and University Printer Eberhard Grosse were honored with the McQuaid Medal for Distinguished Service.

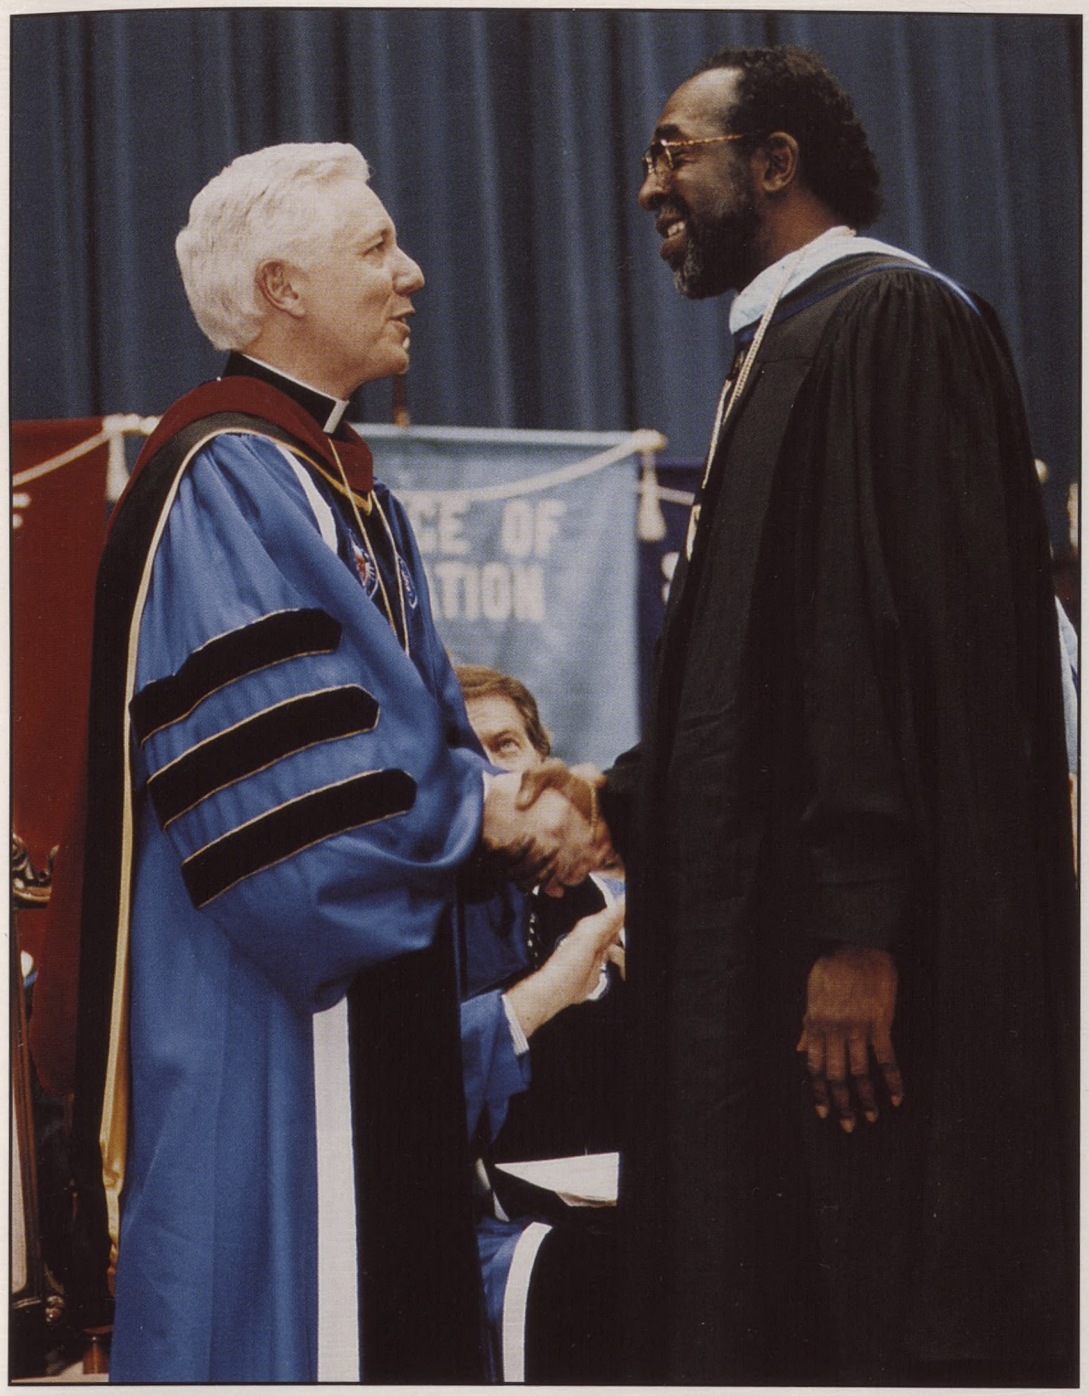

Linda Boeye, a senior, received the Ramon Ramos Medal of Courage. The Ramos Medal is awarded annually to the student who exemplifies extraordinary courage and ability in overcoming life's challenges. Ms. Boeye suffered a back injury that forced her retirement from the military and then from a career as a registered nurse.

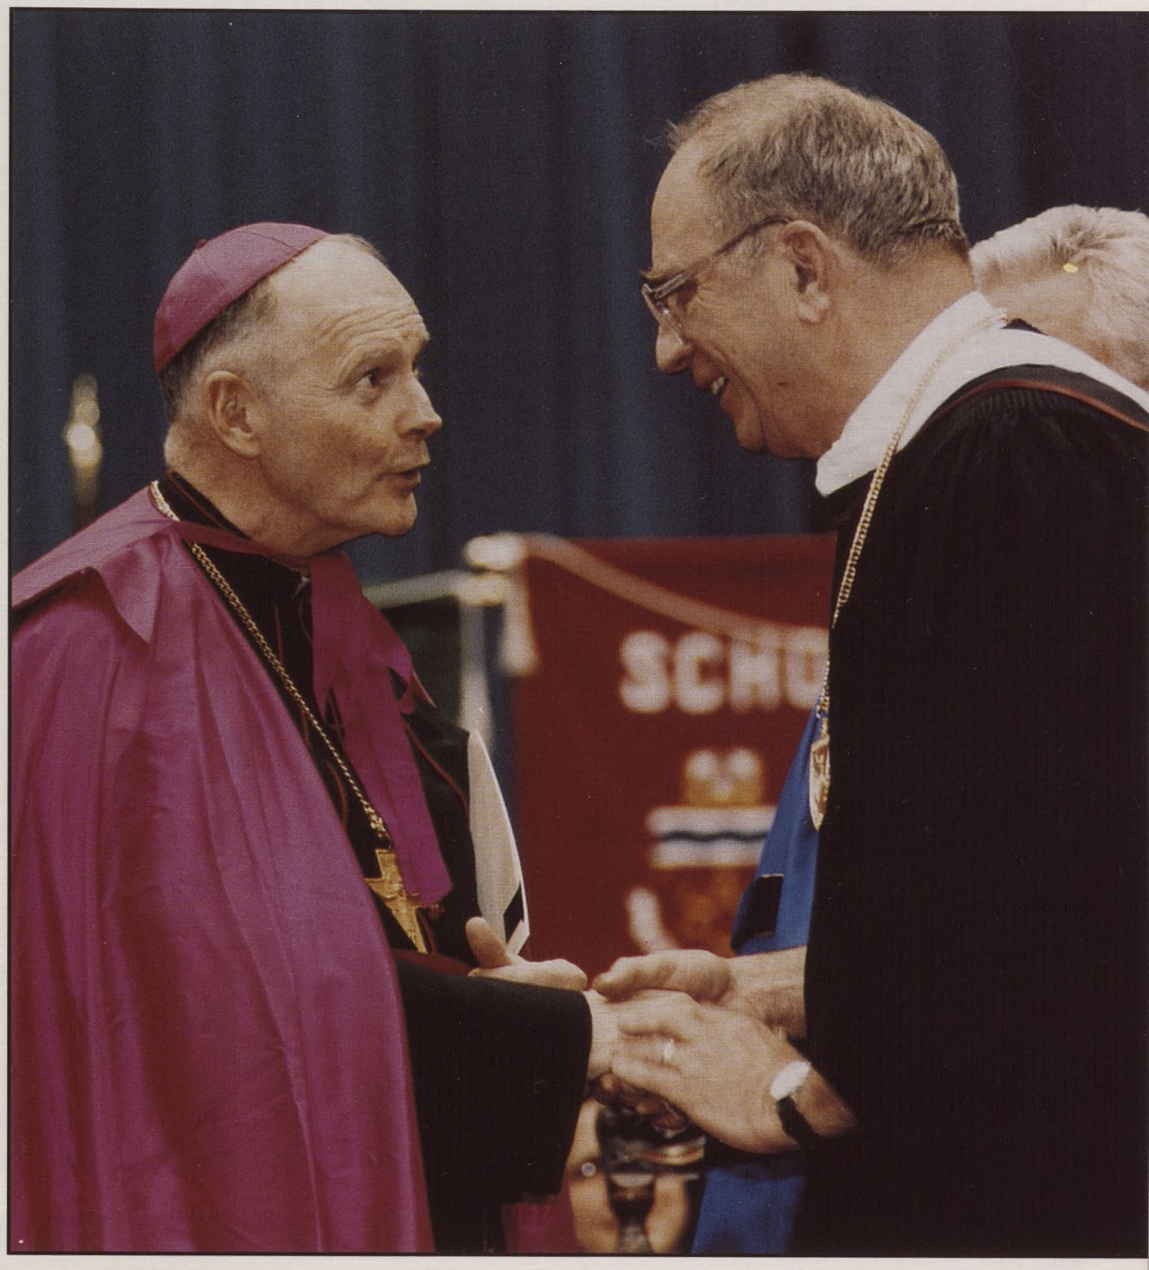

Twenty-one faculty members were recognized at the Charter Day ceremony. Dr. Bernhard W. Scholz, University provost, recognized the faculty members for their outstanding contributions in the areas of scholarship, research and community service.

PROCLAIMING OUR FAITH

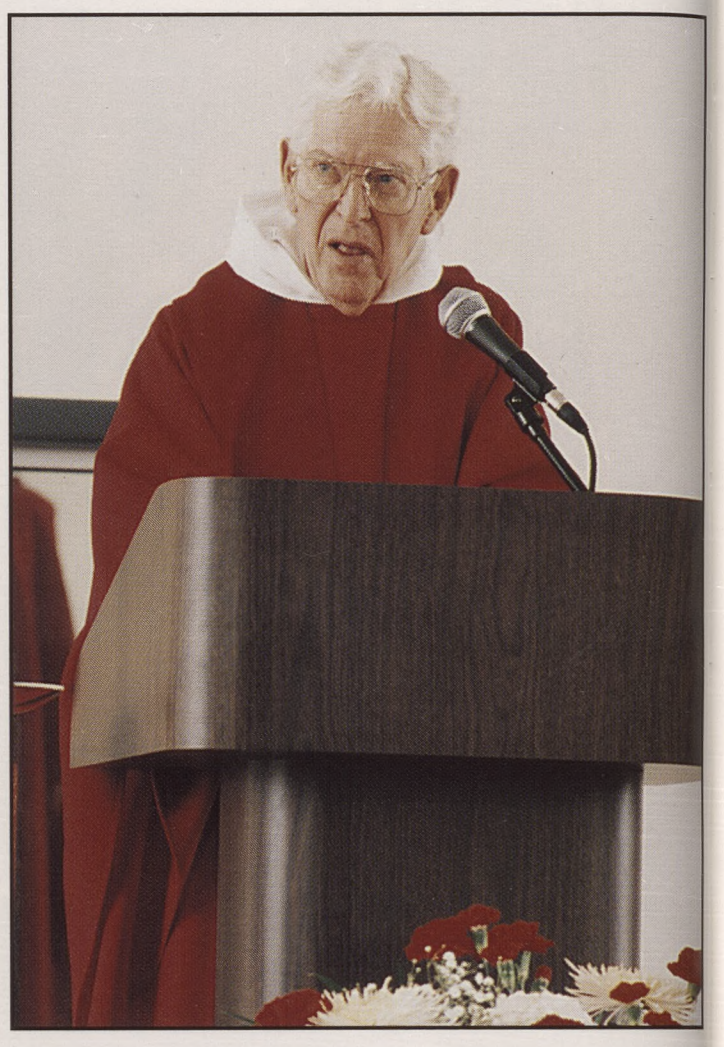

The Seton Hall Community Gathered to Celebrate The Opening of a New School Year at the Mass of the Holy Spirit

A part of belonging to Seton Hall University is the opportunity to take part in religious ceremonies throughout the year that celebrate special times. One of these times marks the beginning of the new academic year. The Mass of the Holy Spirit was celebrated in the Bishop Dougherty Student Center on Wednesday, September 13, 1995. The Main Lounge was filled by Seton Hall students, staff, faculty, administrators and friends. The University Choir was present and filled the lounge with hymns. People from every aspect of campus life were there to share in the event.

The purpose of the Mass was to embrace the Holy Spirit and to welcome the new academic year. Members of Campus Ministry were on hand to help celebrate the occasion. Most Reverend Michael A. Saltarelli, D.D., the Auxiliary Bishop of Newark, joined Very Reverend Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., Chancellor, as celebrant. The Mass was presented in English and in Spanish to allow the meaning of the service to reach more people.

One of the things that makes Seton Hall so special to so many people is the fact that it is a Catholic institution. The event served as a reminder to students, staff, faculty and administration to be grateful for the opportunity to share in Christ's message throughout the academic year.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES FAIR

With the beginning of the new school year came the excitement and anticipation of learning about clubs, meeting new friends and acquiring free gifts handed out by various organizations. On September 15, 1995, clubs and organizations from every part of campus life-- from the campus radio station, WSOU, to the Young Republicans--had tables set up on the University Green to attract new recruits.

The fair, which was held on a beautiful Friday afternoon, provided an opportunity for freshmen and upperclassmen alike to take full advantage of their college experience. At numerous tables, groups offered information and pictures about past projects, applications and handouts about future endeavors. The friendly hosts did their best to convince students to sign their names and phone numbers on the organizations' clipboards.

This was the way for new students to find out about clubs or organizations and "get the scoop" on what they're about. Some organizations went all out to attract the attention of the wanderers. Free food and other items were available all around the University Green.

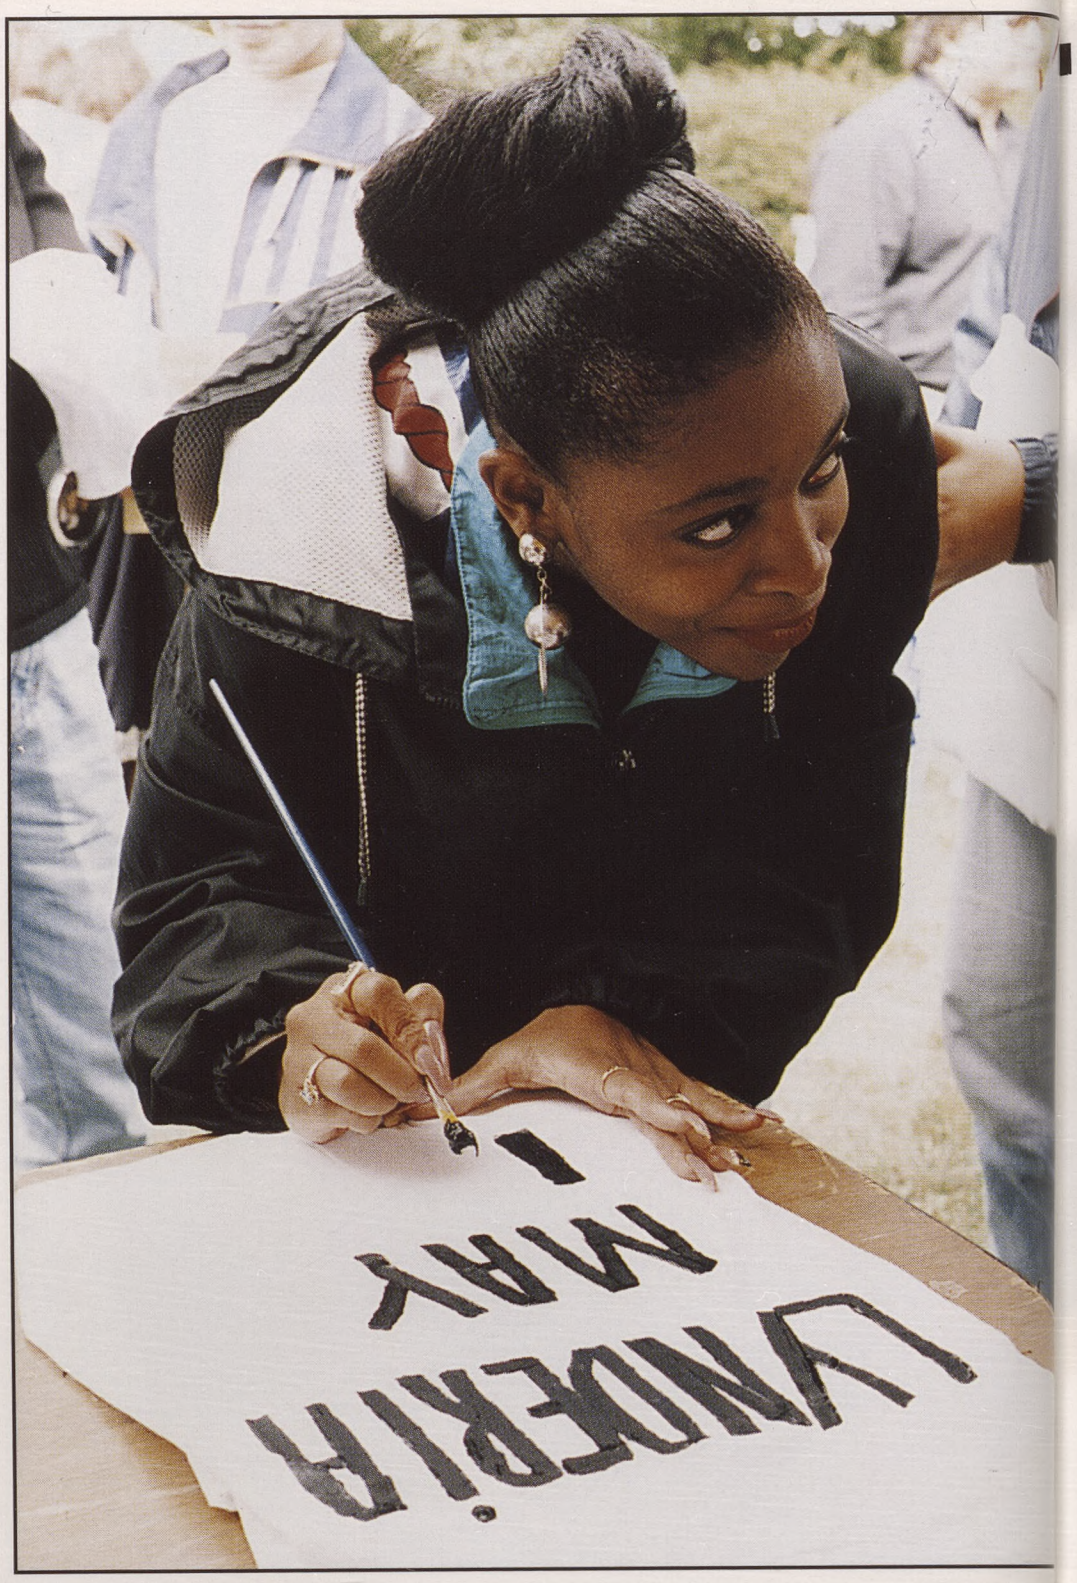

Whether it was the free food, the promotional items offered by the clubs, the music or the nice weather, the fair was well attended. Kristi McCann, assistant director of student activities, commented, "The day went well, and the clubs did a wonderful job promoting the activities Seton Hall has to offer its students."

University Day

Students, parents and alumni gathered to mark Seton Hall's version of homecoming.

On September 23, 1995, the 11th annual University Day was celebrated at Seton Hall University. Some 3,500 parents, friends, alumni, faculty and students all came together to take part in the activities and to enjoy the new school year. For some, it was a trip back to visit their alma mater. Some came to meet up with family to spend an entire day taking part in the events set up for the occasion.

For those who were up to it, there was a 5k run starting from Farinella Gate. This was a quick way to get a tour of the campus. Also, parents and students got a chance to talk over the brunch sponsored by the Annual Fund.

For the rest of the afternoon, tents, booths, and tables were set up on the Green and around campus. There was something to do for all ages and interests. The Galleon Room had an international pavilion with food samplings beyond the normal cafeteria food. There were dunk tanks, a speed pitch booth, and a foul shot contest in which the winners received free men's basketball tickets to the Seton Hall-St. Peter's game. Campus organizations also had booths set up to let people know what they were doing on campus. Special children's activities, such as face and T-shirt painting, an inflatable maze, an air walk, a ball crawl and a button-making booth helped to ensure that the little ones were occupied and added to the carnival-like atmosphere.

To conclude the day's activities, Mass was celebrated in Walsh Gym, followed by a reception in the Richard and Sheila Regan Field House, located in the Brennan Recreation Center. After the reception, The New Jersey Pops performed a "Musical Salute to World War II Veterans." The concert was attended by nearly 1,000 people.

The CBS College Tour

On September 14 and 15, 1995, the CBS College Tour visited Seton Hall's campus for the fourth year in a row. The tour was originally created in 1990 by CBS Television to promote its daytime programming on campuses across the country.

The booths and tents were set up on the Galleon Lawn. Sponsored by the Student Activities Board, the tour brought interactive games about CBS's television shows. In the games, participants were able to win prizes from sponsors like Walt Disney, Nestle, Halls and L'oreal. However, the biggest contribution from a sponsor came from Ford Motor Company, which provided the opportunity to win a 1996 Ford Mustang.

Students helped set up the events, worked in the game booths and took down the events while they earned a little extra money. Throughout the two days, people stopped by to play a few games and win some prizes, such as notepads with the tour's logo. Even for those who didn't win anything, it was a great chance to take a break in the fresh air and view the latest movie previews.

Midnight Madness

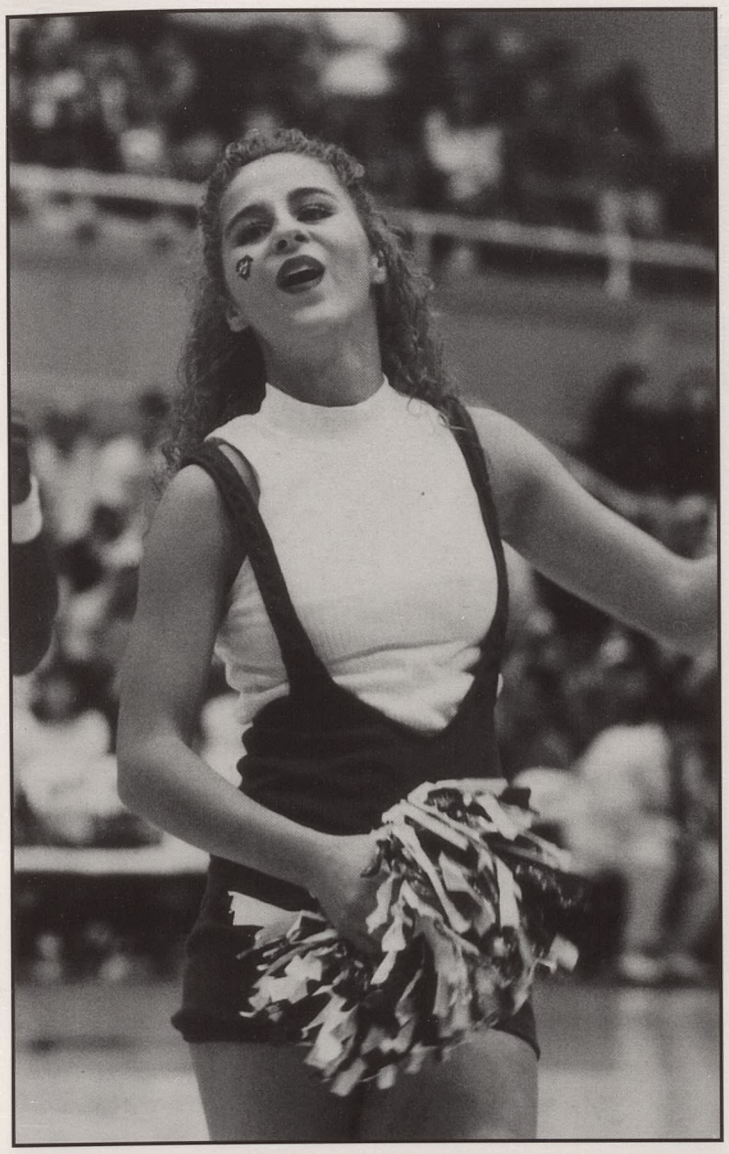

When Gyrating Joe retired last year, many students felt lost without their fearless painted belly to rally the Pirates to victory. On October 14, however, Seton Hall students were given one more chance to see that legendary belly as Joe came out of retirement for one last performance. His purpose was to leave his legacy to the school in selecting a new jiggling belly. While many participants came out for the contest, some had a little more belly than the others!

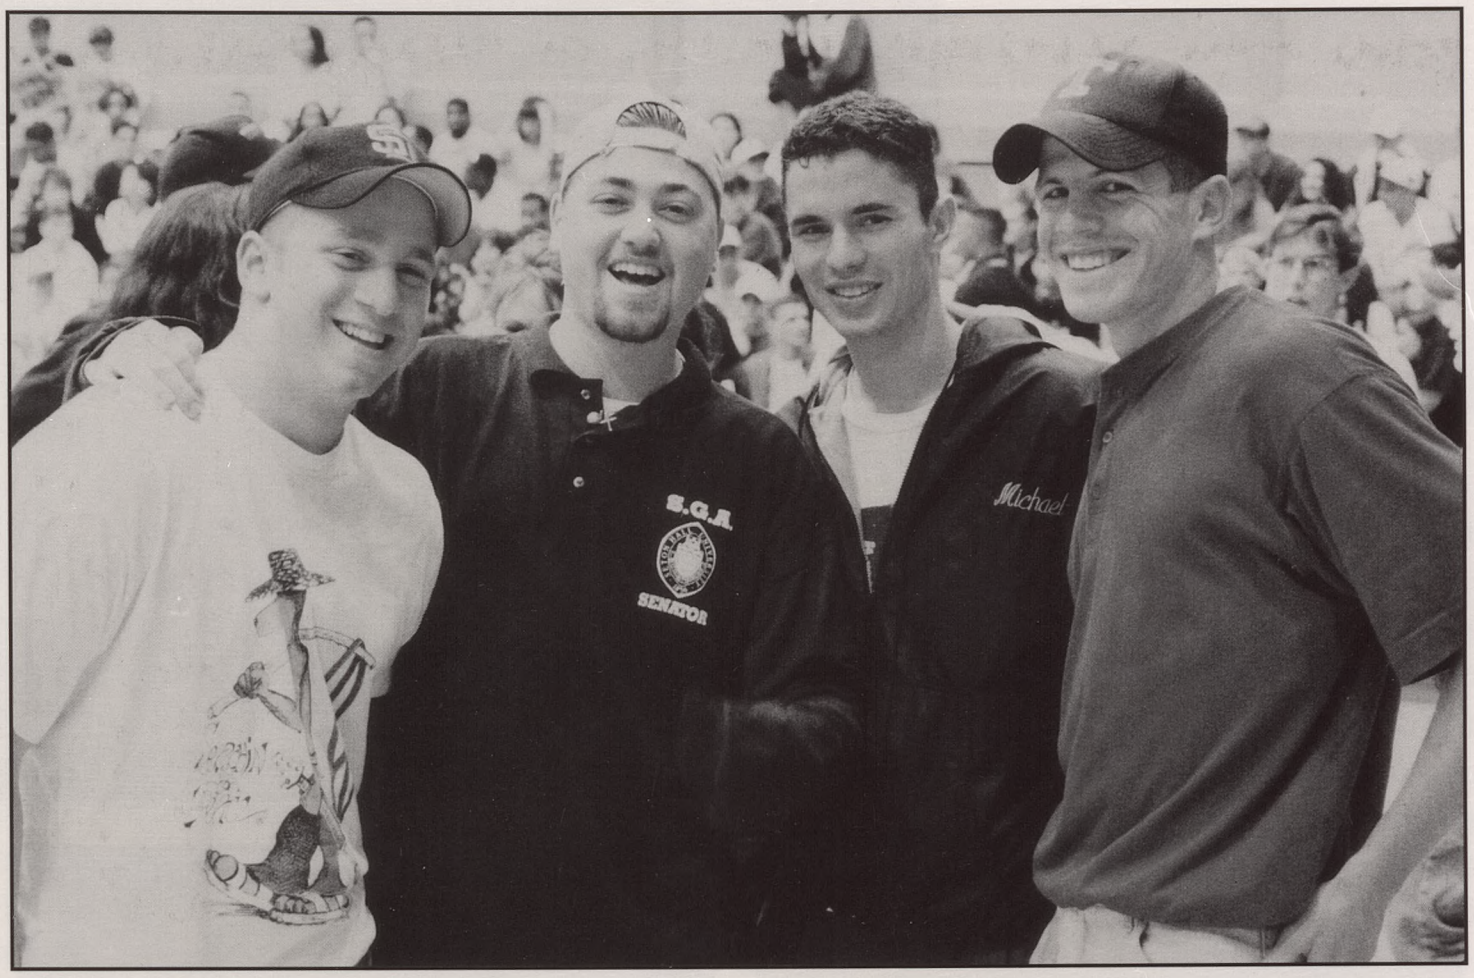

The night also consisted of a basketball-dribbling relay race, won by the Phi Kappa Sigma team, and various shot-making contests for prizes such as trips and front row basketball game seats. Eight lucky contestants were able to shoot for the Grand Prize Shot Contest of $25,000. These activities, with the addition of the renowned Flip City Tumblers, proved to be effective in increasing the crowd's enthusiasm as the clock ticked closer to midnight. The band and cheerleaders continued the excitement with music and cheers. Finally, at 11:55 p.m., Walsh Gym vibrated with noise and excitement as the students waved glow sticks in the darkened venue. WABC was on hand to assist in the countdown, and when midnight struck, Cinderella had by no means been reduced to rags. The women's team was greeted with loud applause and recognition, surpassed only by the mania that ensued as the men took the court.

The Pirate Queen

Seton Hall University once again was on a quest to find its queen. On October 18, 1995, the seventh annual Pirate Queen Competition was held in the Main Lounge of the Student Center. The event, sponsored by the brothers of Phi Kappa Theta, was part of a fund-raising activity for the American Cancer Society. Twenty-six candidates competed for the crown. Linda Keshishian, representing Phi Delta Pi sorority, won. The first and second runners-up were Lauren Williams, representing Alpha Phi sorority, and Angela Ferrari, representing Freshman Studies.

The evening was divided up into different rounds. The women modeled business wear, beach wear, and formal wear. The 26 candidates were then narrowed down to nine finalists for the final event, a question and answer period. Master of Ceremonies Ryan Masenzio asked each finalist a random question. Answers were judged by a panel of judges from Seton Hall's campus community.

The six judges of the competition were: Gerri Budd, Freshman Studies mentor; Steven House, biology professor; Jennifer Kempton, Aquinas Hall director; Stuart Sparuier, Complex halls director; William Traub, Phi Kappa Theta alumni president; and Vanessa Zipfel, American Cancer Society program director for Essex County.

In addition to being crowned the 1995-1996 Pirate Queen, Linda Keshishian won a trip for two to the Bahamas. Lauren Williams won a dinner cruise around Manhattan, and Angela Ferrari won dinner for two at a local restaurant. All of the contestants got a chance to publicize the organizations they were representing. Above all, each had the opportunity to shine in front of her friends for a good cause.

The Goo-Goo Dolls and Universal Honey

Everybody knows their name, but not everyone gets to see them live. This was not the case for Seton Hall students when the Goo-Goo Dolls performed in the Main Lounge. More than 700 students stayed on campus over the weekend to enjoy the performance.

The Goo-Goo Dolls, a rock band from Buffalo, offered a sampling of their music to a near-capacity crowd. The highlight was the hit song, "Name," which topped the music charts.

Opening for the Goo-Goo Dolls was a lesser known, but equally talented group,Universal Honey. Hailing from Canada, the band was well received by both the crowd and the Goo-Goo Dolls, as they opened with the song, "Find Yourself." It wasn't long before students began crowd surfing.

After a 20-minute intermission, the three members of the Goo-Goo Dolls ran out on stage. Their first song, "Just the Way You Are," sent Seton Hall students into a moshing frenzy. The band continued to perform 22 songs and received an overwhelming response. When the night was over, the fans as well as the band walked out drenched in sweat displaying wide smiles of satisfaction. The night was a definite success!

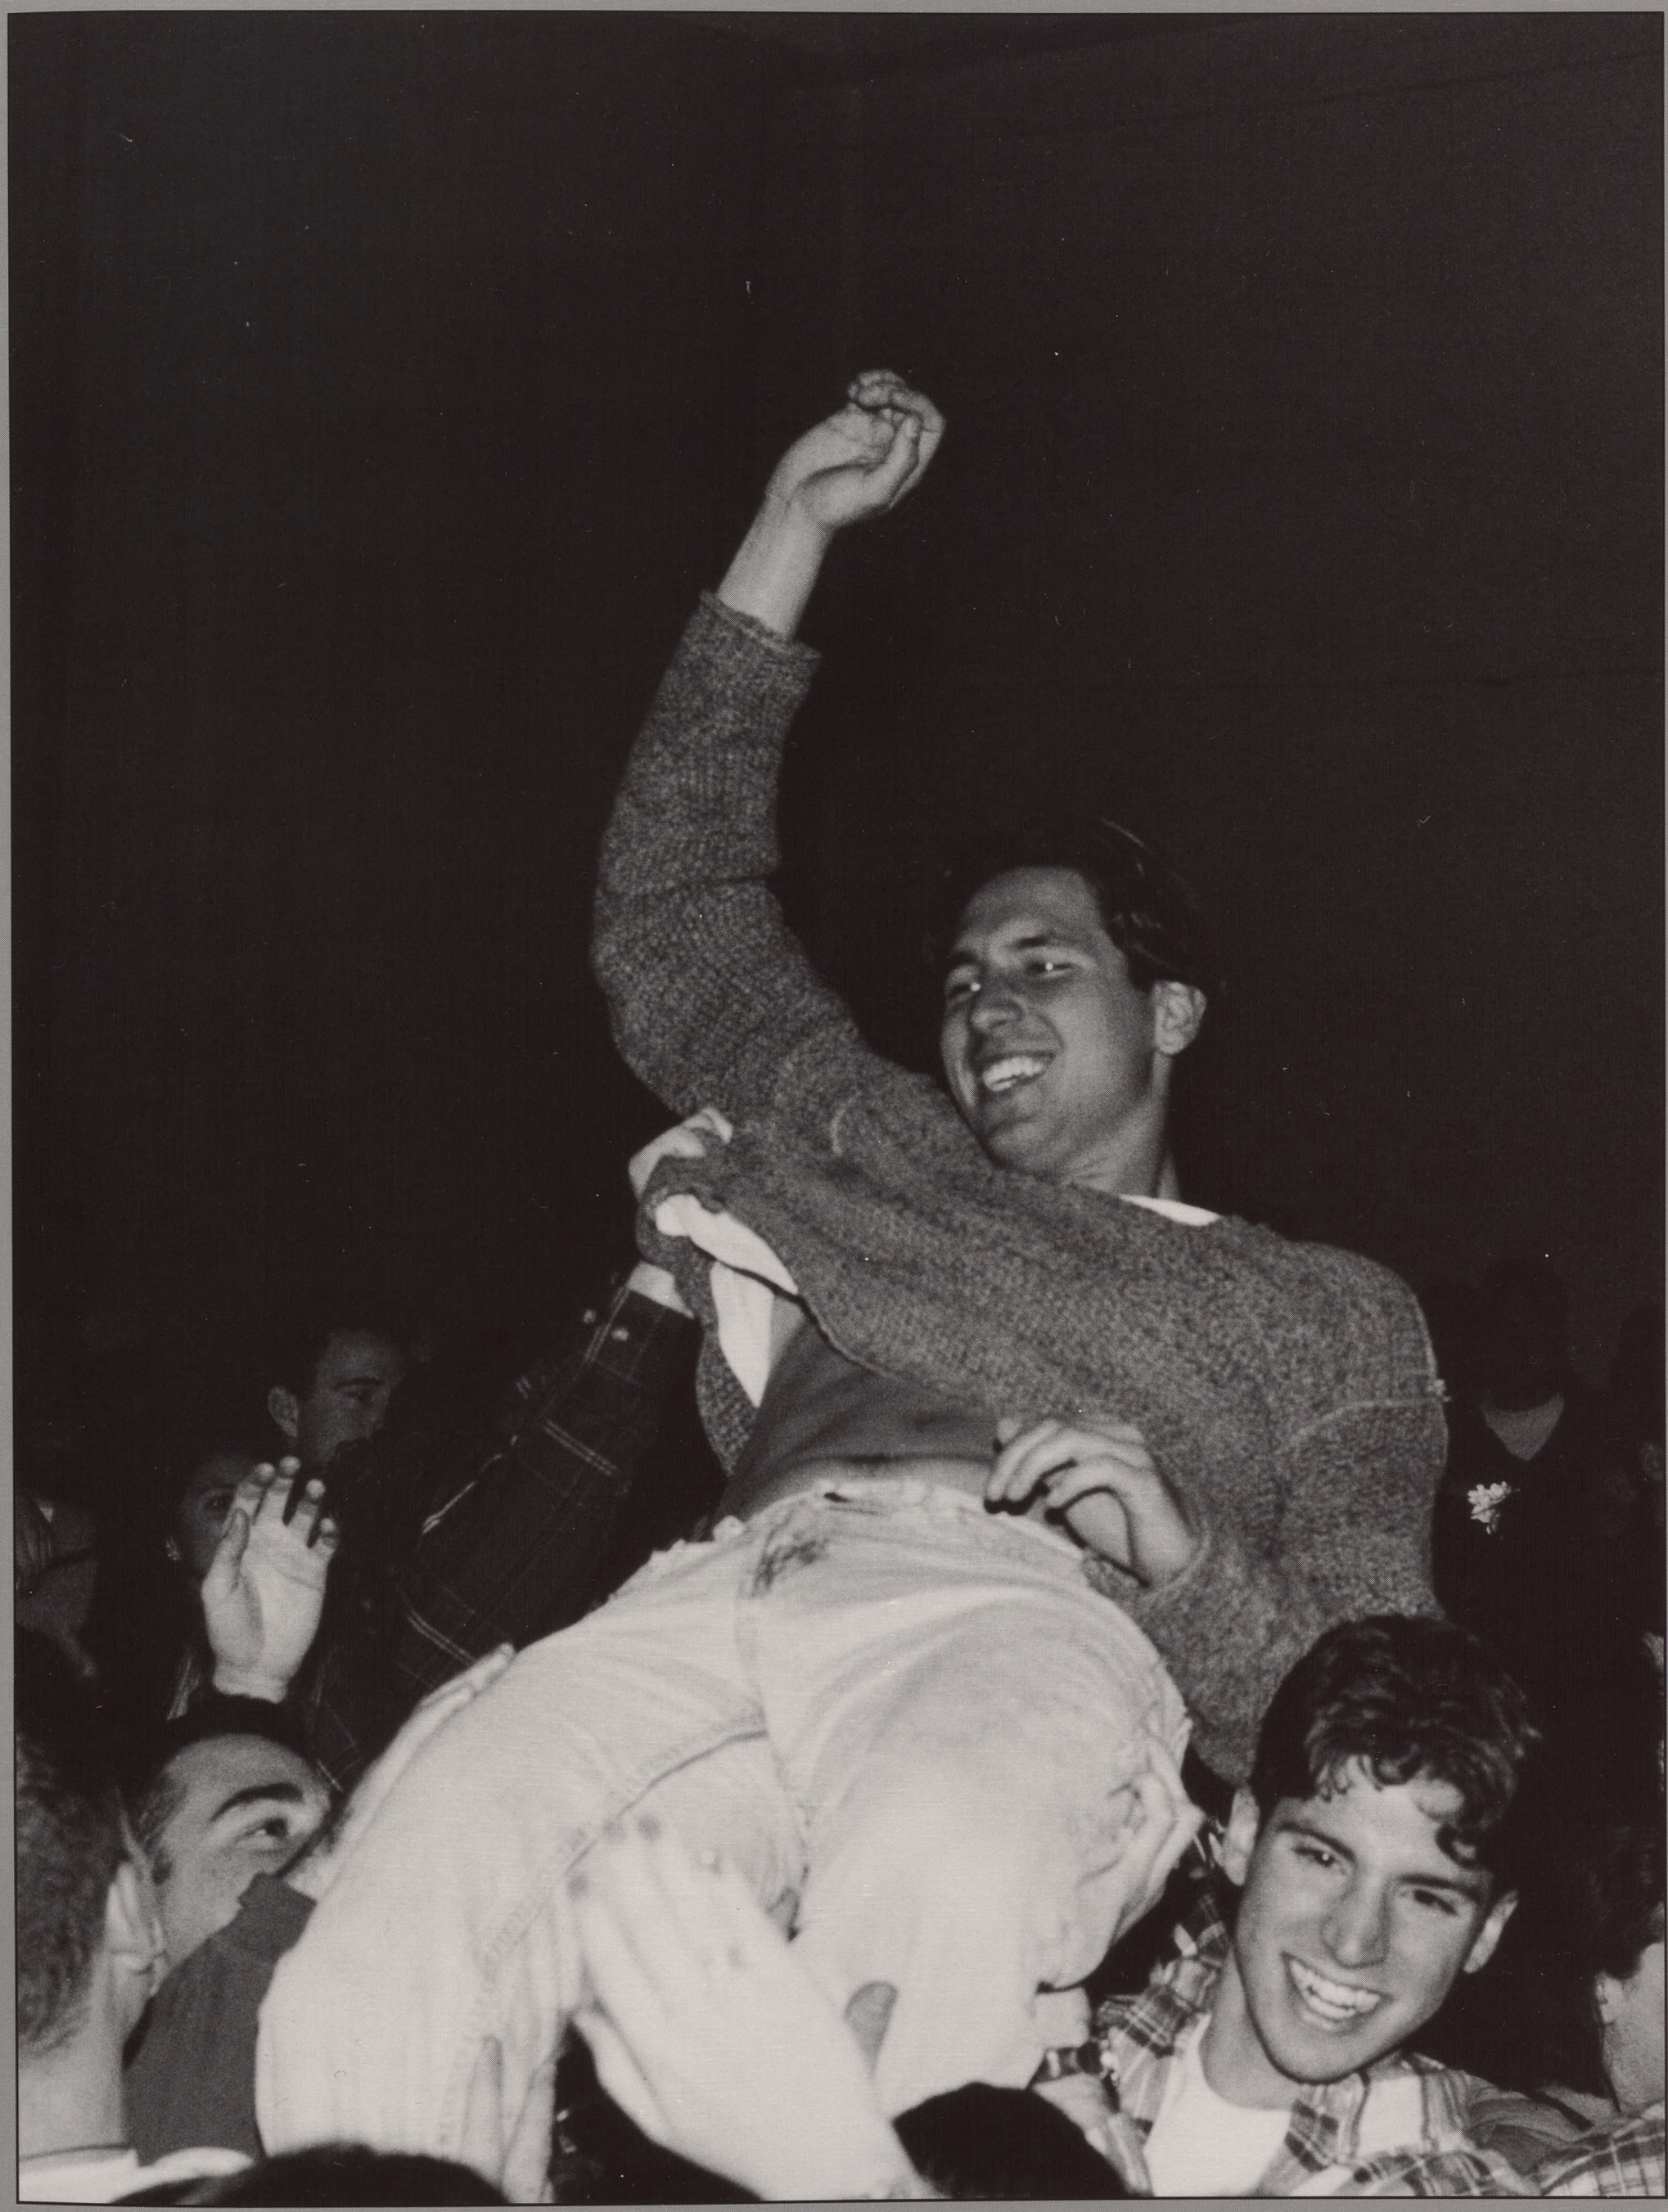

Both bands came to Seton Hall thanks to the efforts of the Student Activities Board (SAB). Amy Johnson, president of the SAB, said that the concert committee worked extremely hard to get a well-known band for the students, placing daily calls to agents and working long hours in preparation for the show.

"We were more than pleased with the turnout!" Johnson said. "The response from students was one of real enthusiasm and support."

Welcome Weekend

The Class of '99, carrying everything from microwaves and computers to VCR's and refrigerators, arrived prepared to transform a room into a home.

On August 26 Seton Hall came alive with activity as Welcome Weekend '95 took off. The weekend began with the annual sweep of freshmen moving in to Boland Hall. Dads wiped the sweat from their brows as they lugged large suitcases out of their cars, moms watched teary-eyed as their sons and daughters marked another milestone in their lives, and teenagers seemed both eager and apprehensive about the prospect of living on their own.

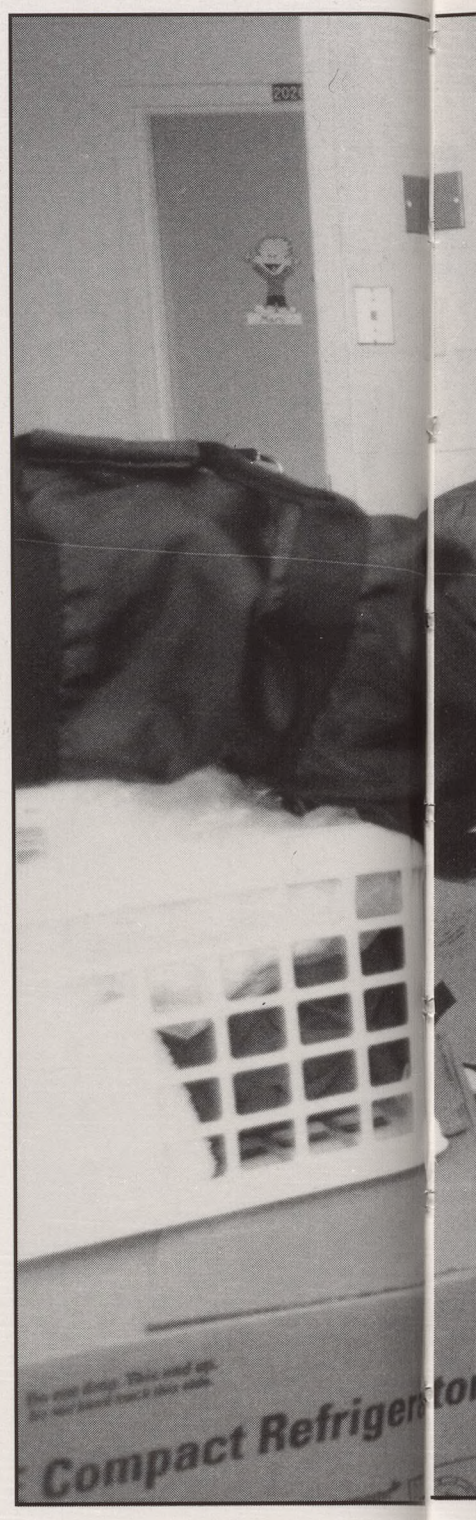

To ease the process, Seton Hall organizations came together to lend as much help as was needed. Members of the Pirate Moving Company, Seton-4-U, the Peer Advisers and Campus Ministry were available throughout the day to assist freshmen and their families. Student Affairs representatives also answered questions and pointed people in the right direction.

A breakfast table was set up for those who needed a quick break or an energy boost to carry yet another box up a flight of stairs. A picnic on the Green completed the day. The purpose of the day was to make the transition to college as pleasurable as possible. Darryl Butler, assistant dean of students, commented that the day was to be "an inviting experience for students new to the Seton Hall community."

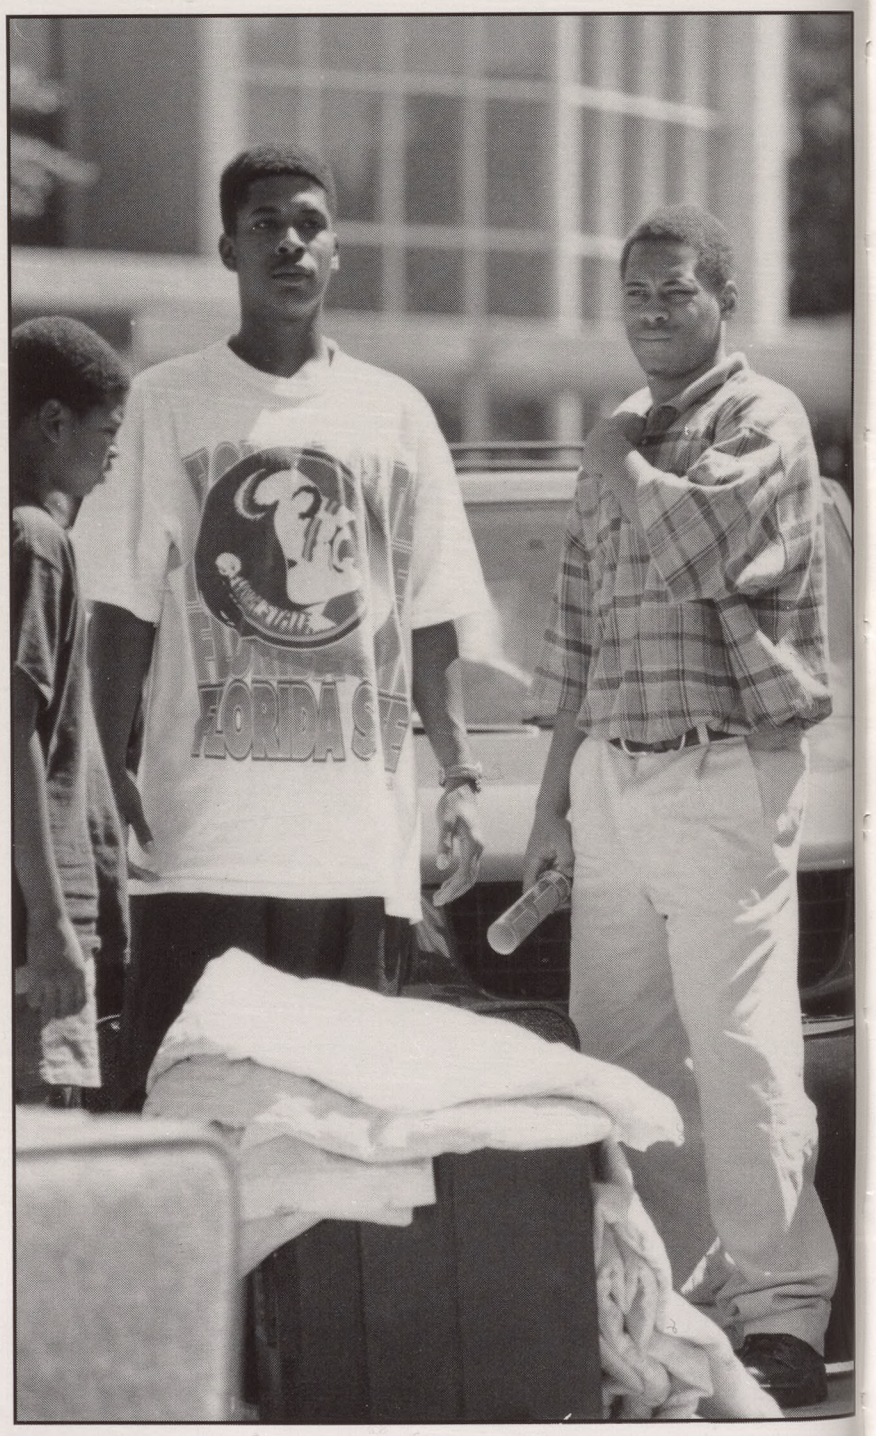

After spending a night in their new homes, the resident and commuter freshmen gathered for Freshman Convocation. On this day, the 900 students in the class of 1999 gathered in Walsh Gymnasium. They sat with their orientation groups and listened to an assortment of speakers talk about life at The Hall and what would be expected of the class members over the next four years. After the speeches, the freshmen joined in singing the alma mater for the first time.

Welcome Weekend was a time for freshmen to get acquainted with SHU, meet new people and adjust to living away from home. This was the first time the entire freshman class was together as a whole, and it would be the last time until graduation.

Delta Phi Epsilon sorority hosted the fourth annual Pirate King Contest on Tuesday, February 27 in the Main Lounge.

Pete Miele, who represented the apartment of 45 Eder Terrace, was crowned king. Roy Dionisio, from Pi Kappa Alpha, was named first runner-up, and Charlie Haas, representing Alpha Gamma Delta, was awarded second runner-up.

More than 250 people crowded the Main Lounge for a glimpse of the contestants throughout the three rounds of competition. A total of 20 men competed in the first two rounds, which consisted of casual wear and active wear competitions. All of the contestants then came on stage in business attire. Seven finalists were chosen.

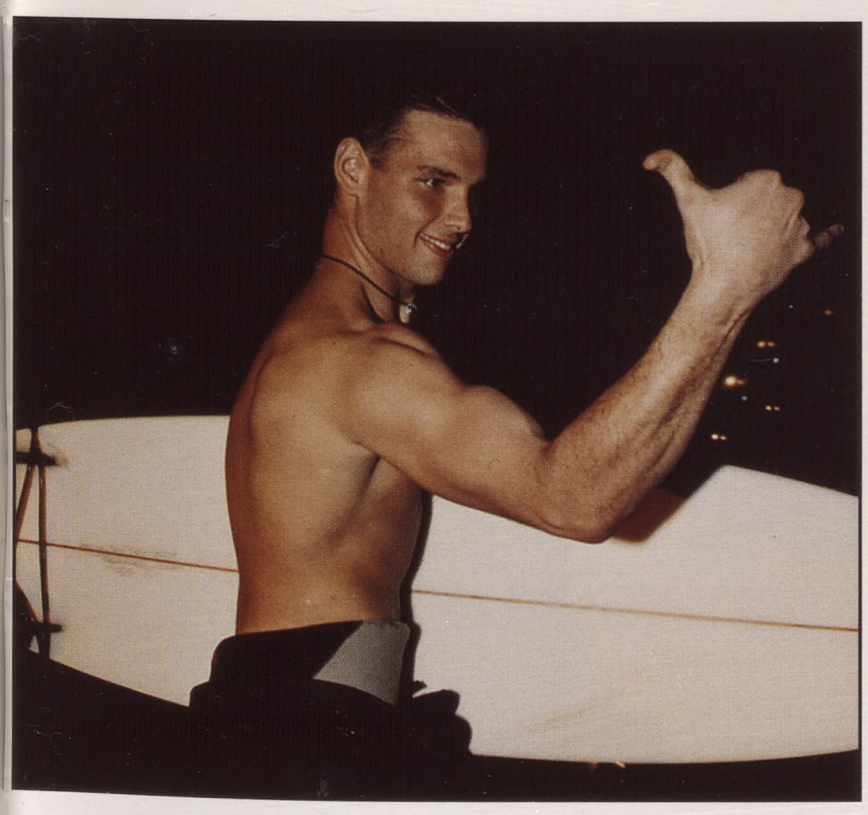

In addition to being judged on appearance, personality and poise, the seven finalists answered random questions posed by Mistress of Ceremonies Danielle Carr.

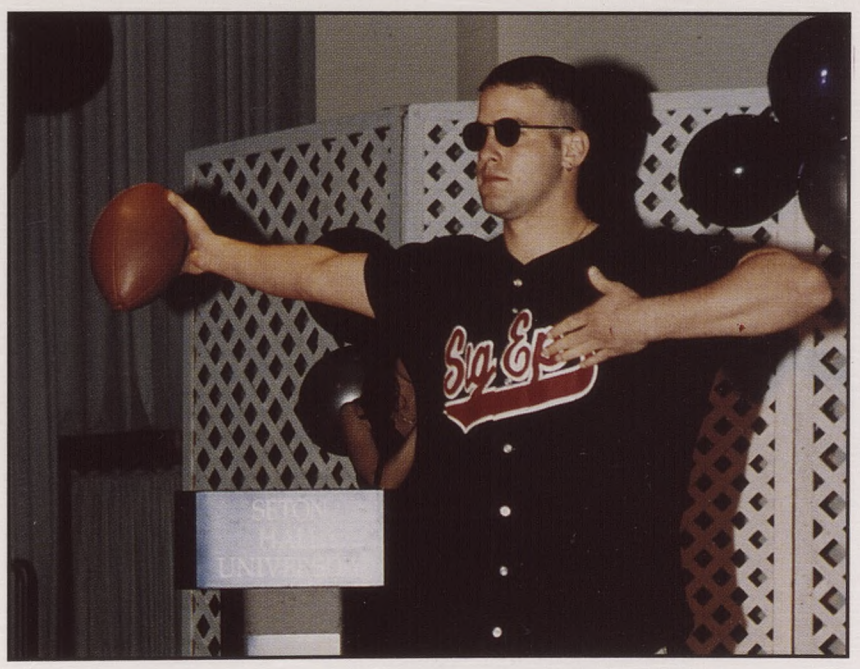

The "People's Choice" award also was given to the contestant who received the most write-in votes. This year's award went to Harold Field of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

According to Robin Daly, Delta Phi Epsilon philanthropy chair, a large portion of the proceeds were donated to the sorority's charities: cystic fibrosis, anorexia nervosa and associated disorders. The sorority also donated money to the Delta Phi Epsilon Scholarship Foundation.

The MiGHTY MiGHTY BossTones and Chucklehead

On April 26, the roof of Walsh Gymnasium was lifted by the sound of ska. More specifically, it was lifted by the sound of one of Boston's foremost ska bands, The MiGHTY MiGHTY BossTones. The concert, which was co-sponsored by the Student Activities Board Concert Committee and WSOU, was the first of its kind in Walsh Gym in over six years. With over 975 tickets sold and 100 student volunteers working the event, the show went off without a hitch and provided the Seton Hall community with a unique experience and a great way to end the semester.

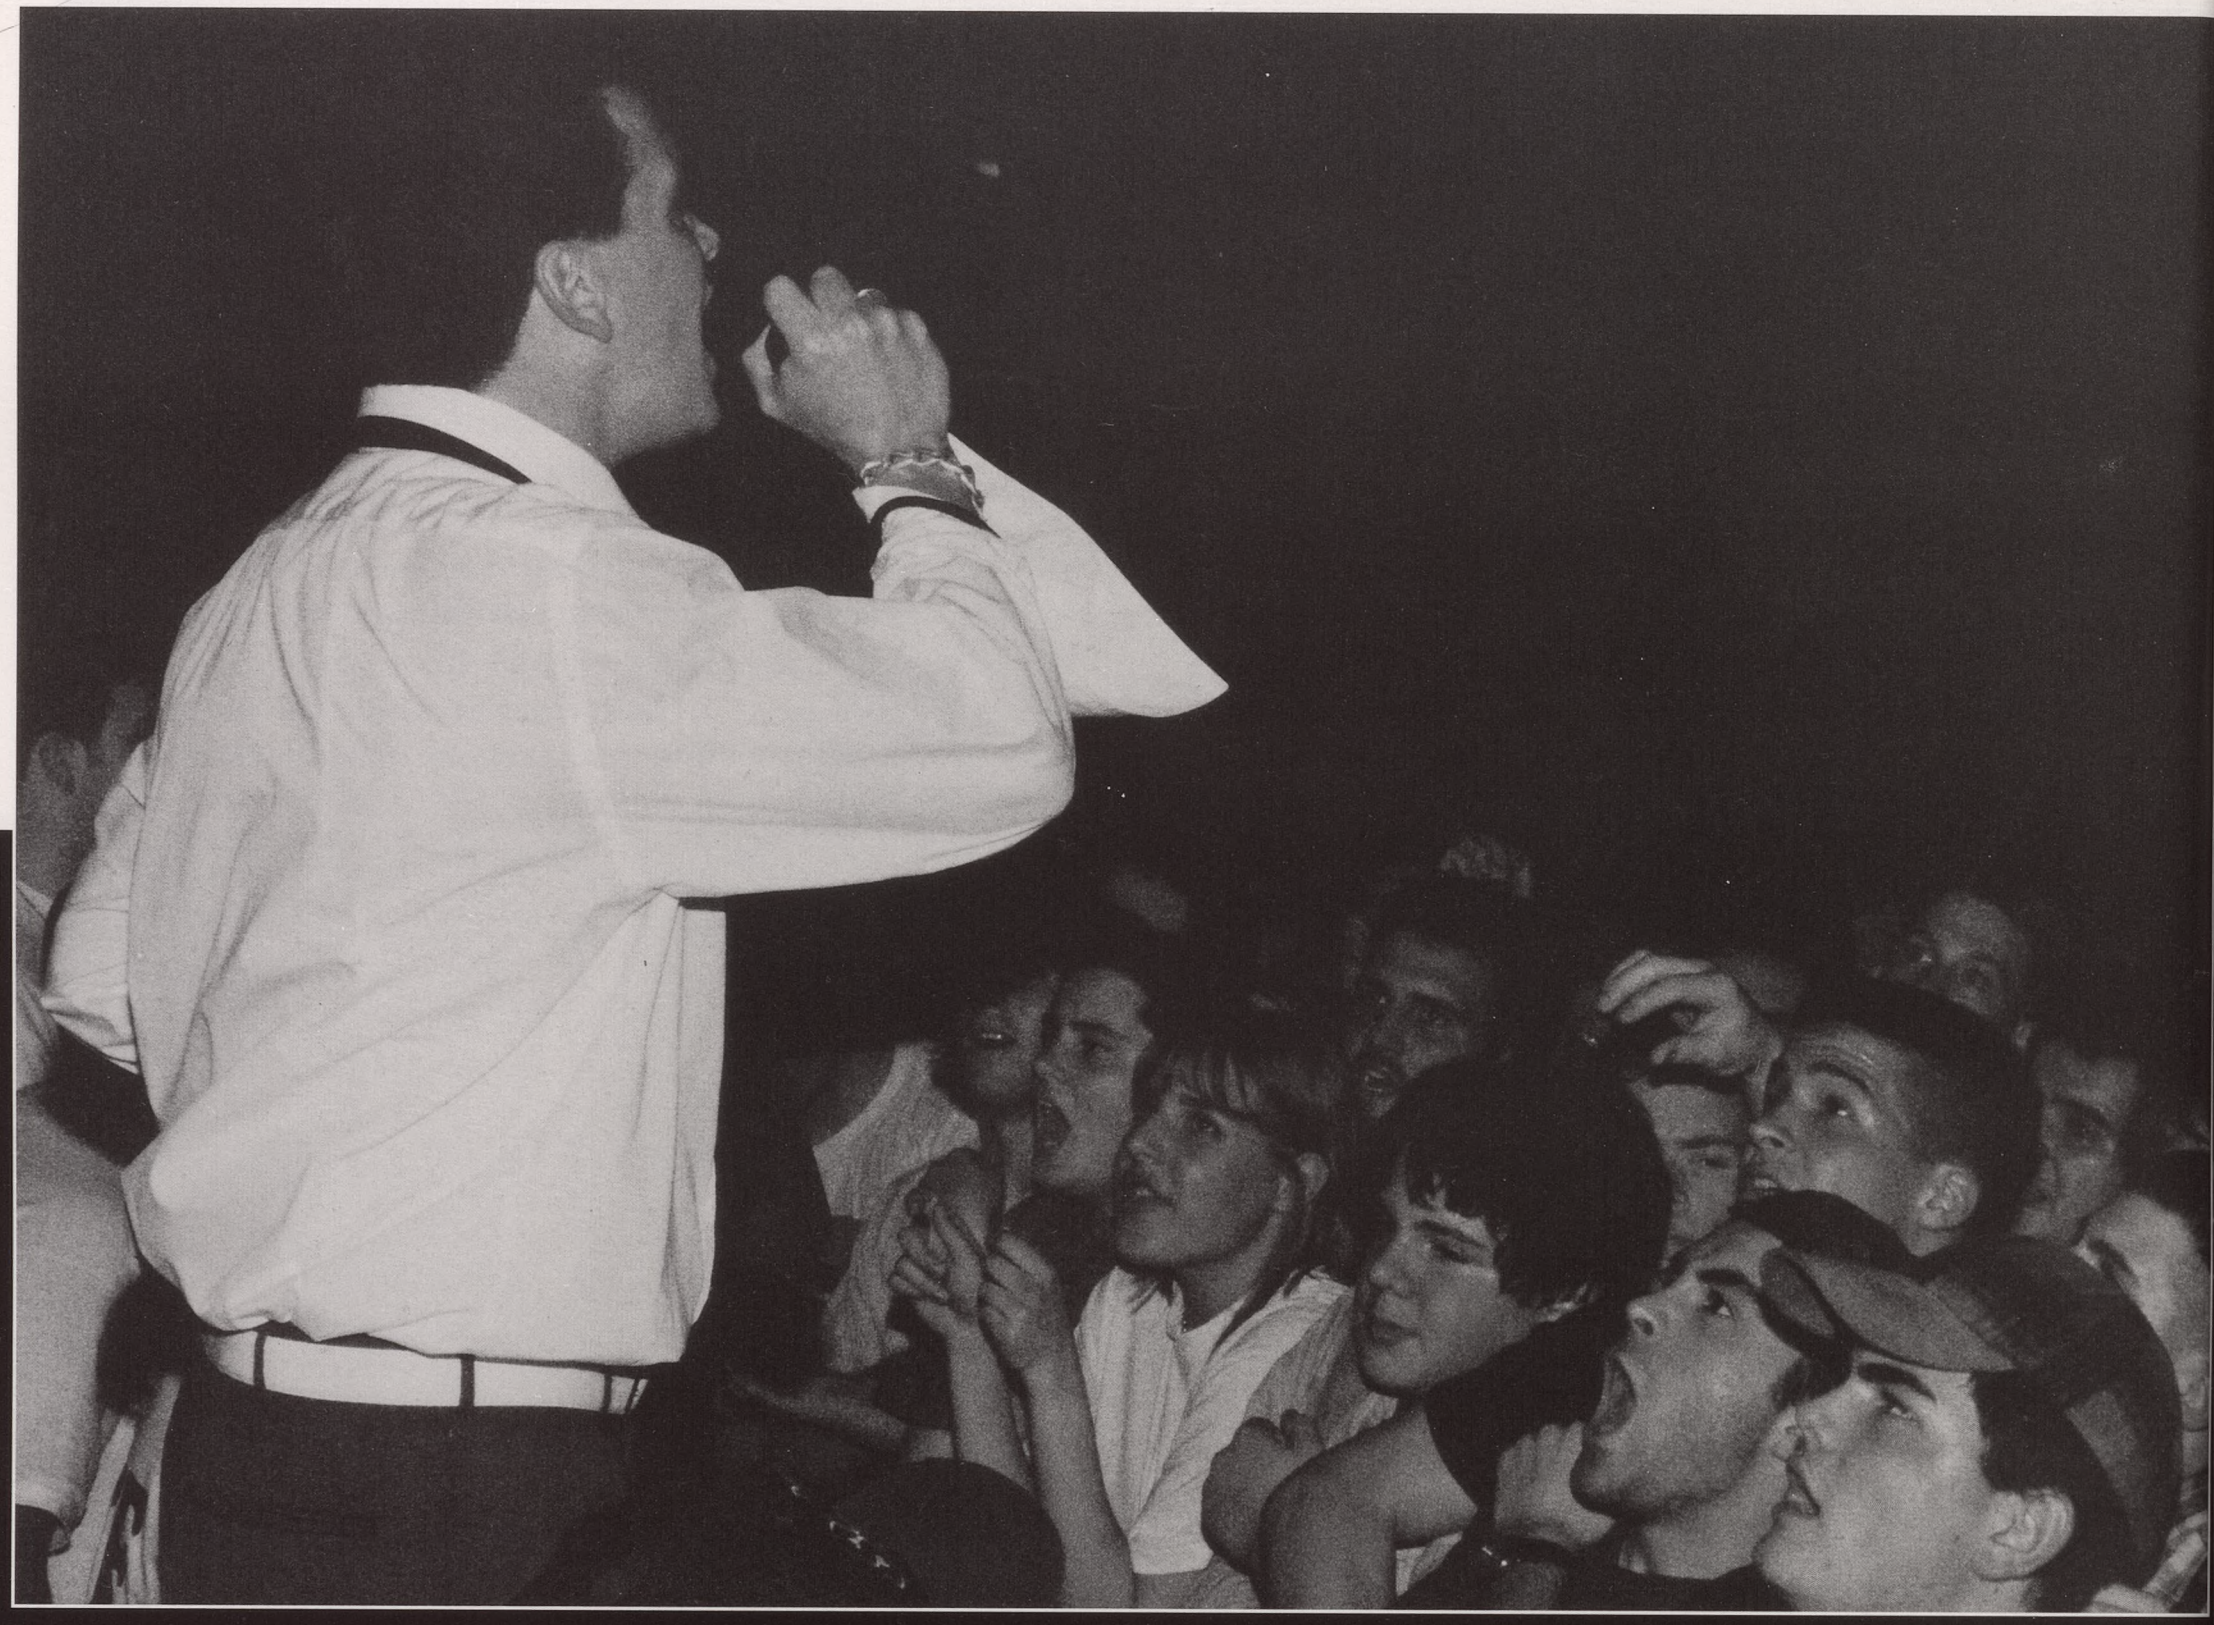

The concert opened with special guest Chucklehead and a specially prepared Seton Hall University "mosh at your own risk" statement, both of which helped to elevate the crowd to a "proper" state of mind. Adding to the festival feeling, the Anti-Racist Action League distributed information and MTV's Rock the Vote registered students before and after the show. The lead singer of the BossTones, Dicky Barrett, also spent much of his time before the concert showcasing and talking to his fans in the lobby.

The crowd was as diverse in appearance as the BossTones themselves. It was filled with rude boys and rude girls, and people bedecked head to toe in plaid in true BossTones fashion, as well as the more typical Seton Hall students. But when all of this diversity combined with the hyper-kinetic energy of the BossTones, Walsh Gym was filled with a group of exuberant fans. In addition to singing many of the cuts from their latest album, "Question the Answers," the BossTones thrilled the moshing audience with such favorites as "Hope I Never Lose My Wallet" and the ska classic "Simmer Down." They also encouraged the happy fans to dance with them on stage.

Dicky Barrett ended the night by donning the hat of one of Seton Hall's "finest" (a security guard) and one of the student volunteer's staff shirt. For an encore, he sang one last song for all of the true rude boys and rude girls in the house, thus ending what was perhaps one of the most successful events on campus all year. What a great way to "simmer down" after the long Spring Semester!

The Annual Career Day Provided Students With a Heavy

DOSE OF REALITY

Resumes were polished and business suits were pressed for Career Day 1995. Students and alumni gathered in the Student Center Main Lounge on Wednesday, October 25 to network with some of the best employers in New Jersey. More than 100 companies and corporations were represented.

Co-sponsored by Career Services and Alpha Kappa Psi, Seton Hall's professional business fraternity, the day was a chance for people to get information on future employment, co-op and internship opportunities. Seniors asked potential employers to review their resumes, while freshmen, sophomores and juniors explored various career options. Whatever the reasons for their inquiries, all who attended were able to learn about professional opportunities in their fields of interest.

Jerome Greco, alumnus of Seton Hall, gave the keynote address, "Critical Skills: A Necessity in Today's Job Market." In the speech, he stressed the importance of viewing learning as a process that occurs every day throughout one's entire life. With these words still fresh in mind, hopeful participants walked to the tables with resumes and portfolios in hand. Career Day was an important event for anyone interested in getting a head start on a successful career.

Alpha Kappa Psi Blood Drive

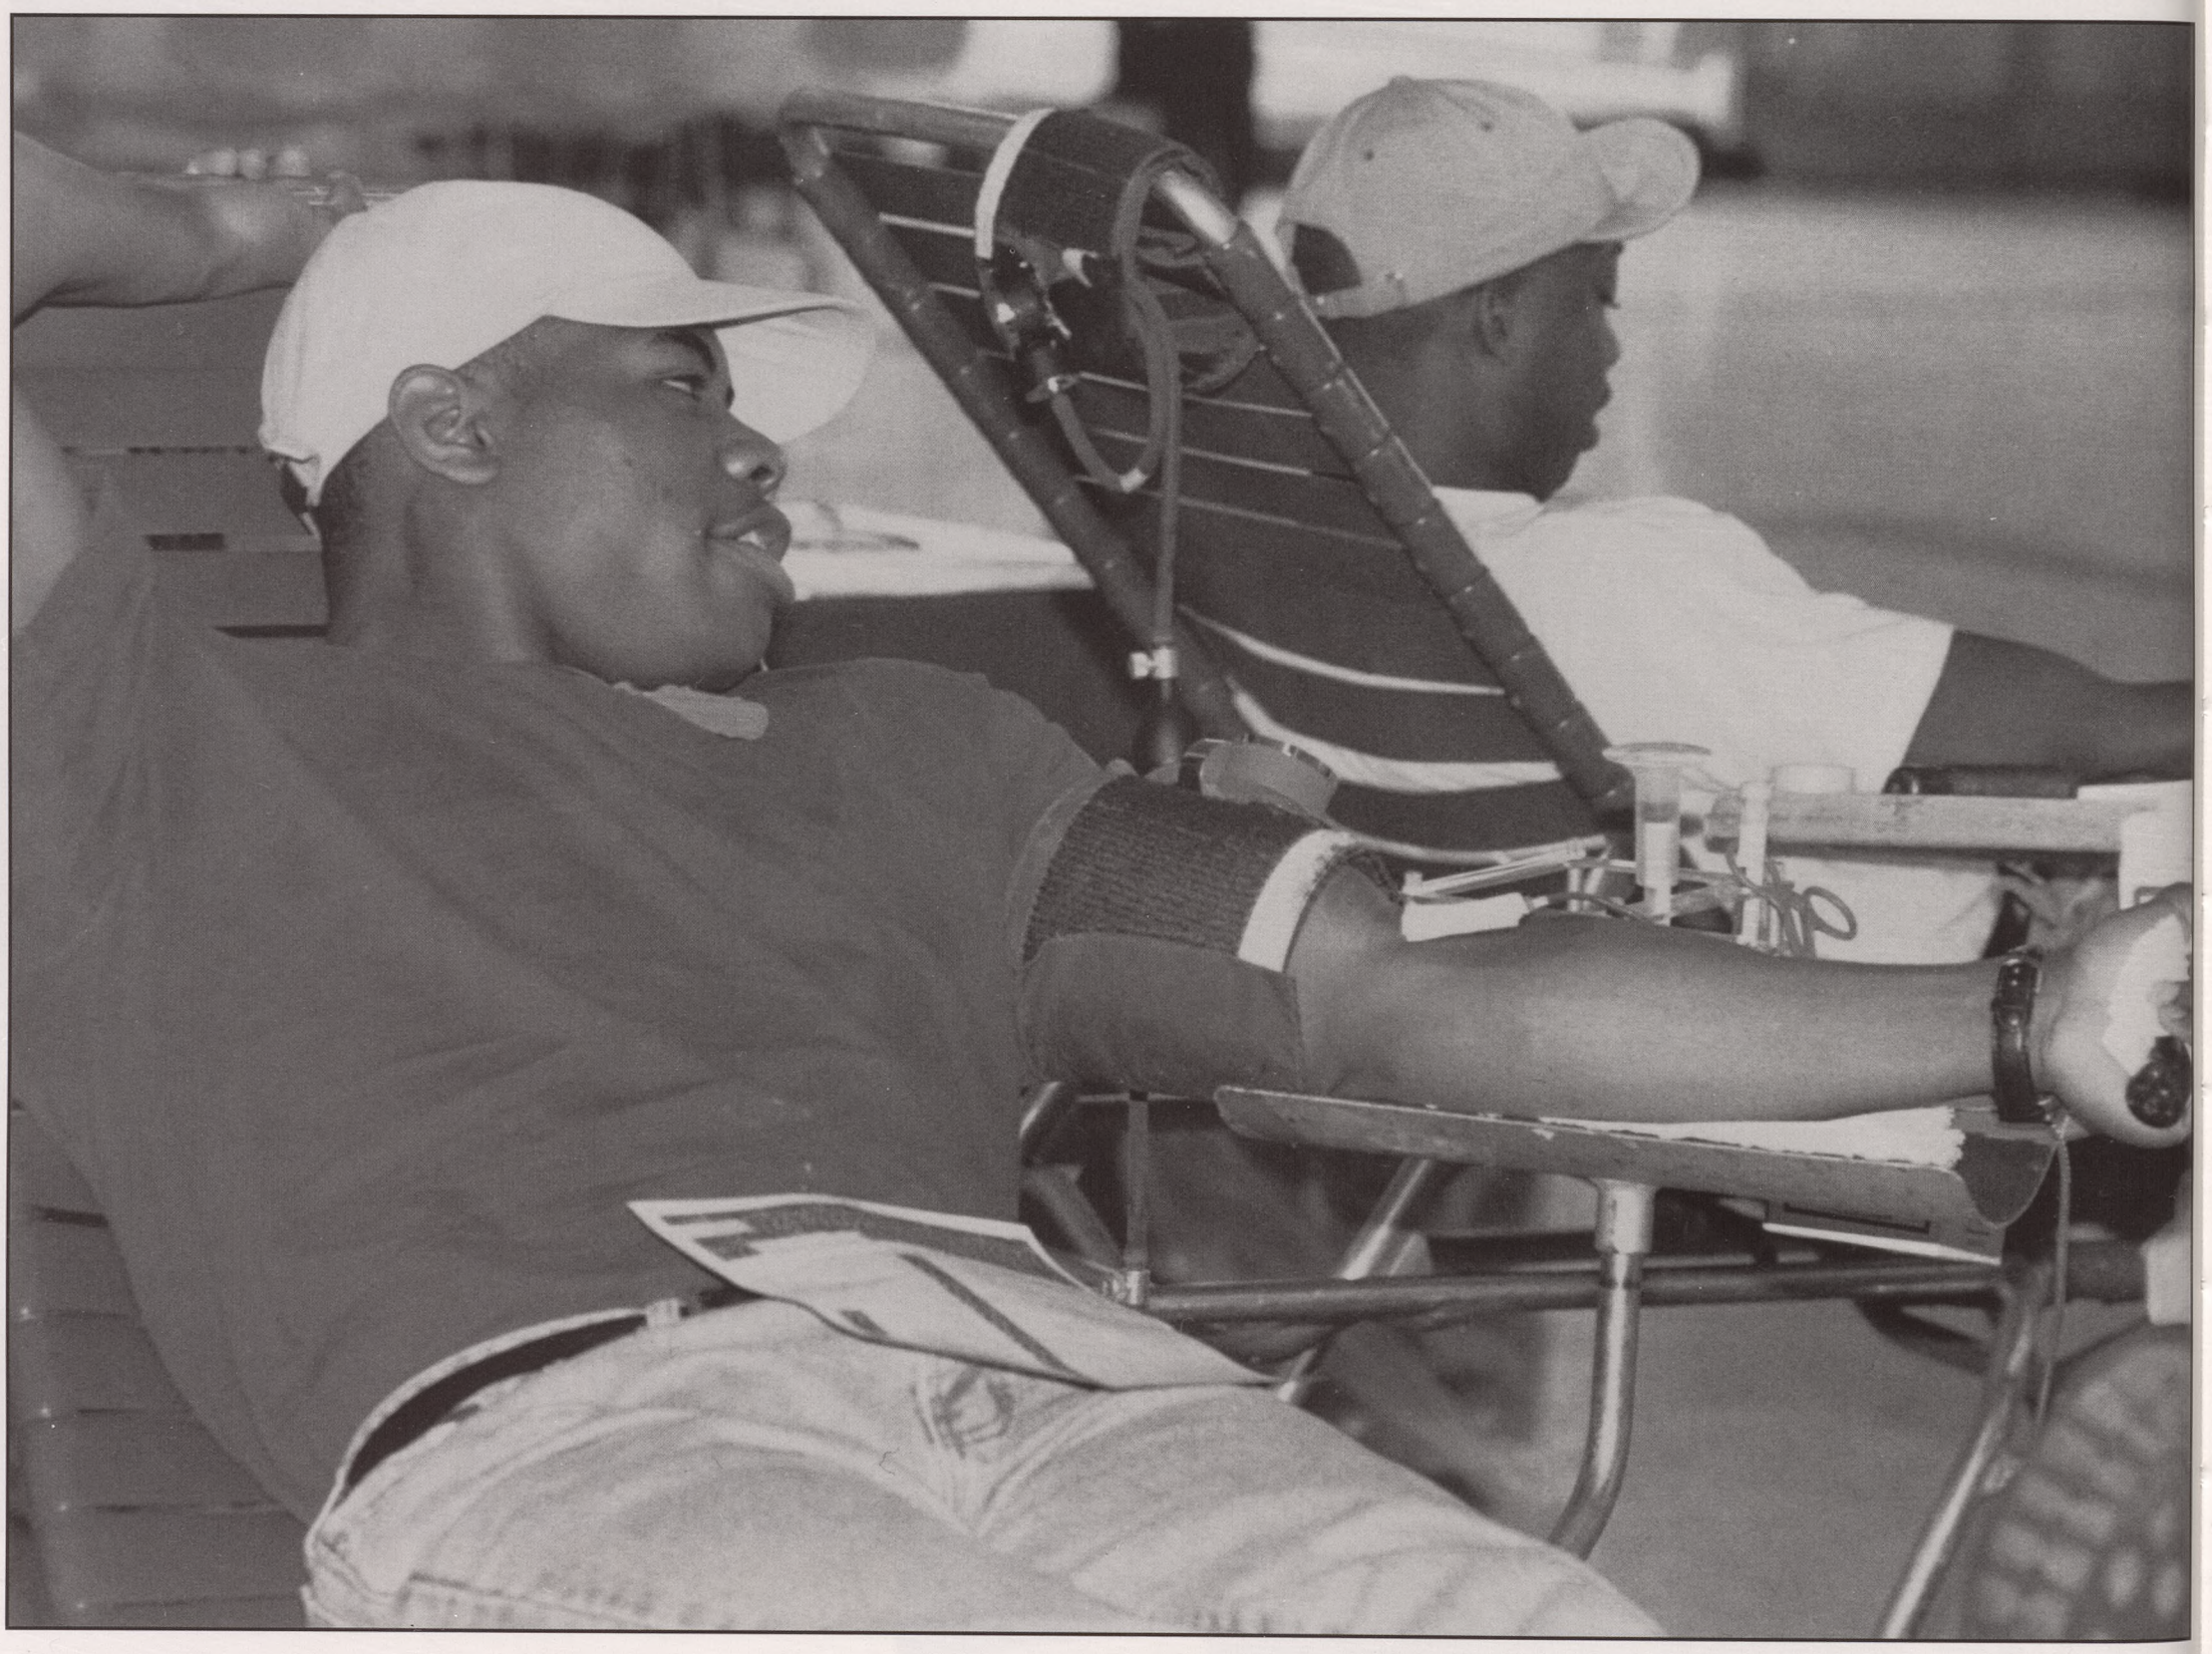

Since 1991, the Gamma Pi chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi coed business fraternity has sponsored a biannual blood drive in conjunction with New Jersey Blood Services. Throughout the years, the fraternity's efforts were made possible through the generous contributions of Johnson & Johnson. The blood drive, which takes place once each fall and spring, was held in the Main Lounge of the Student Center this year.

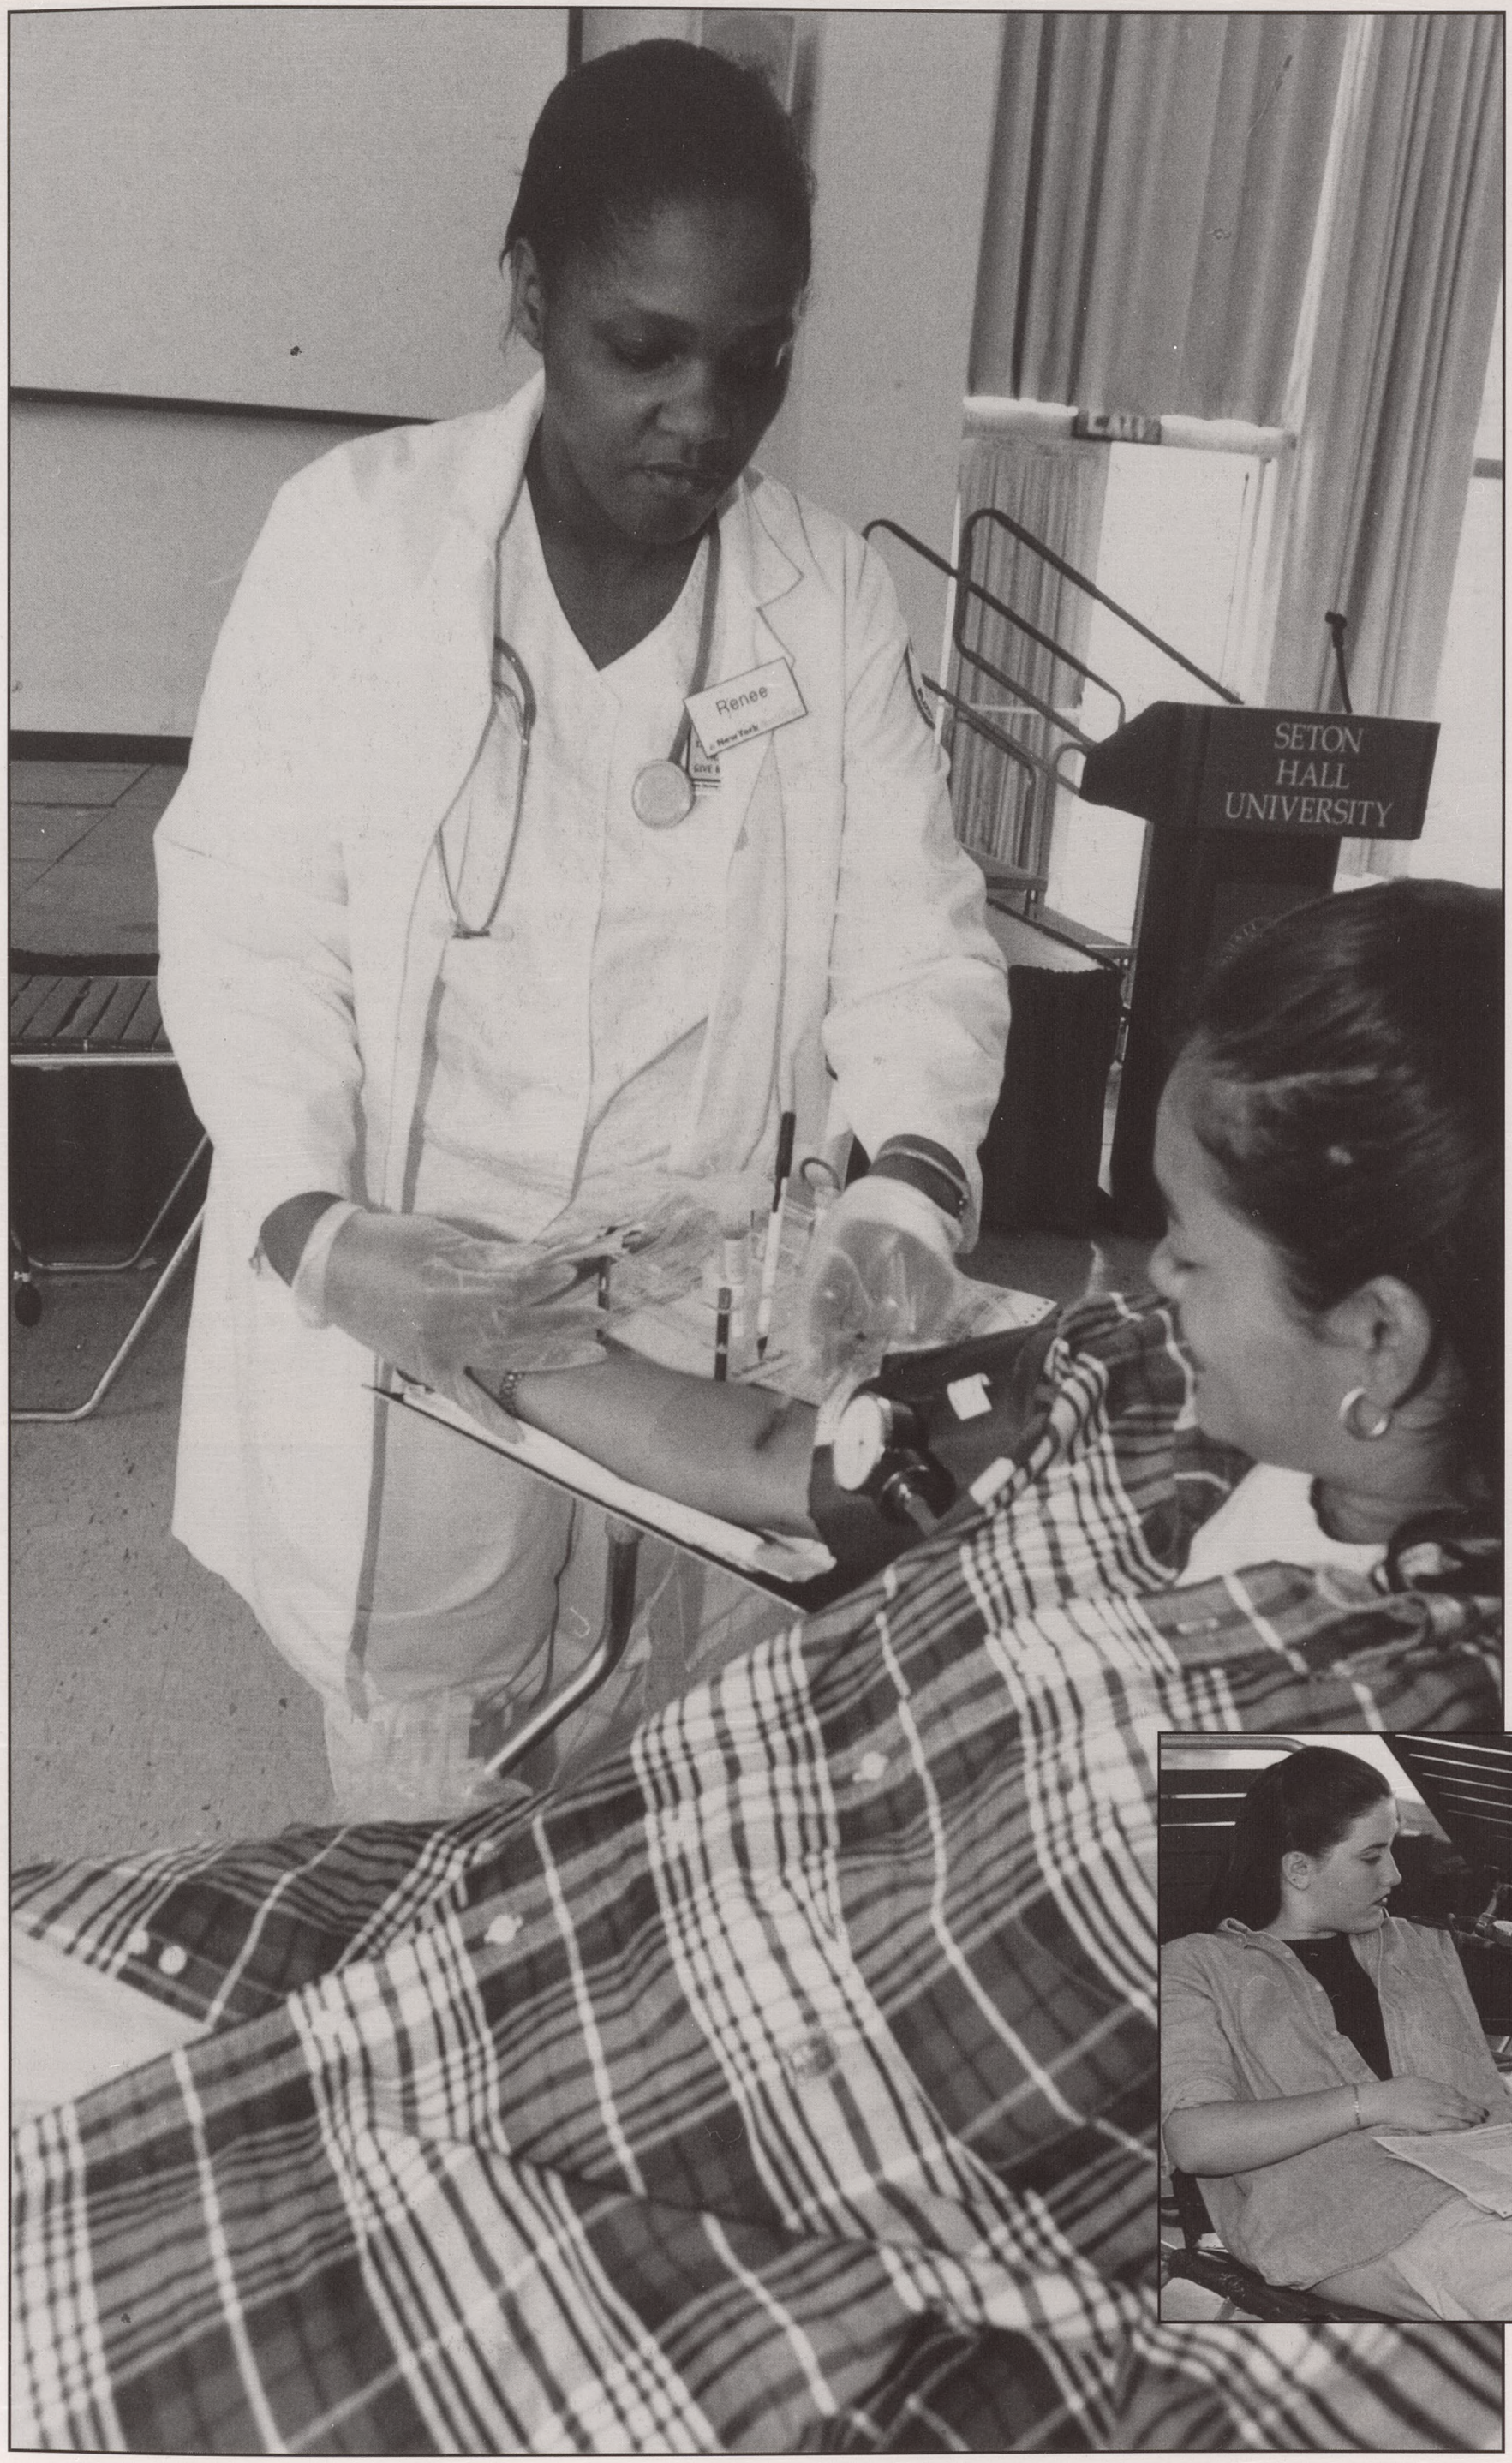

Although such events require much time and preparation, the reward of working with the Seton Hall community to save lives has been all the compensation necessary to preserve this noteworthy cause. By enlisting the aid of both students and faculty, Alpha Kappa Psi has enjoyed tremendous support from their organization's membership as well as the employees of New Jersey Blood Services, ensuring the continued success of this event.

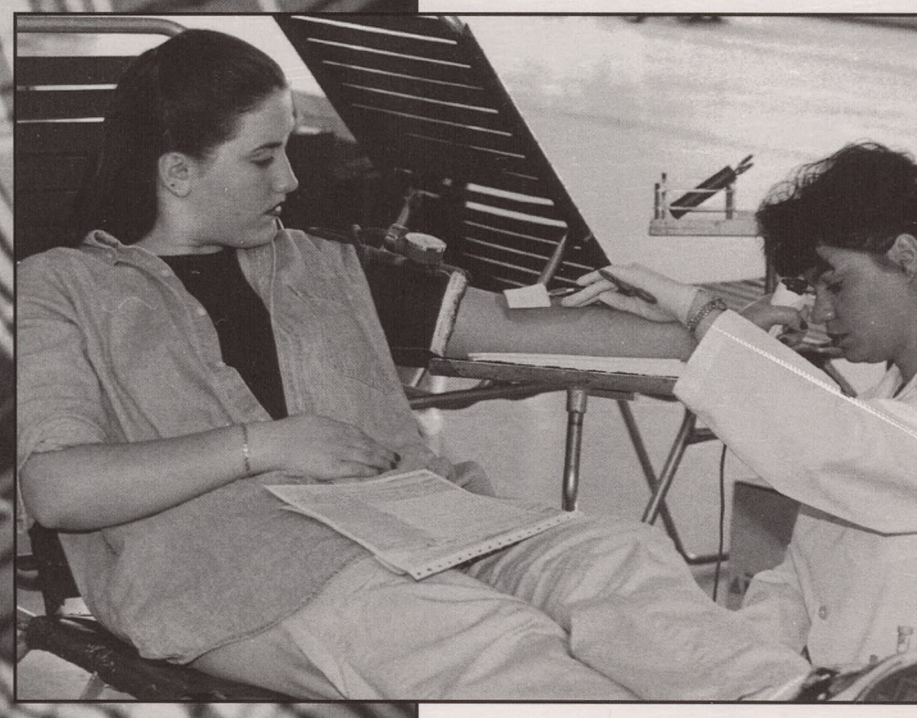

With growing concern over the spread of AIDS, there is an increasing need for an ample blood supply for the New York and New Jersey areas. Also, there are certain requirements for giving blood. The prospective donor must weigh at least 110 pounds and be 18 years of age or older. The blood is sent to the headquarters of North Jersey Blood Services in New Brunswick, where it is tested and possibly disbursed to local medical facilities.

All in all, the event was a huge success, with the Seton Hall community teaming up to help save lives.

HEALTH FAIR

Working for healthy minds in healthy bodies

On Tuesday, April 23, 1996, the Student Nurses' Association of the College of Nursing hosted its Fourth Annual Health Fair. For the past two years, the Association has won the award for "Best Community Health Project" from the state association, New Jersey Nursing Students, Inc., for these annual Health Fairs.

Student nurses are trained to assess all aspects of a client's care — thus the Health Fair offered a presentation of different health interests for different ages. The efforts of collaborating nursing students and area health care providers provided information and services to the Seton Hall and greater South Orange community.

Children in attendance, especially shelter children escorted to the fair by DOVE, laughed at the clown who walked around handing out balloons and juggling balls. The South Orange Fire Department was very popular — they had fire trucks on hand for inspection, special coloring books and tot-finder stickers. Finally, Student Nurses raised money for the American Cancer Society by hosting a ball toss to win a gold fish.

Senior citizens were especially interested in U.S. Health Care's free cholesterol screening. U.S. Health Care provided free counseling on ways to reduce cholesterol and gave every visitor fresh red apples for healthy eating. Junior and senior nursing students provided free blood pressure screenings as well as height and weight assessments.

Visitors also benefitted from the pulmonary function lab, which provided machines that measure lung capacity. Dr. Mary Beth Haq, a College of Nursing faculty member, hosted two stations — a health risk assessment where visitors were offered computerized printouts of appraisals based on their own personal data, and a skin risk assessment that enabled people to view their skin under ultraviolet light and learn about ways to avoid skin cancer.

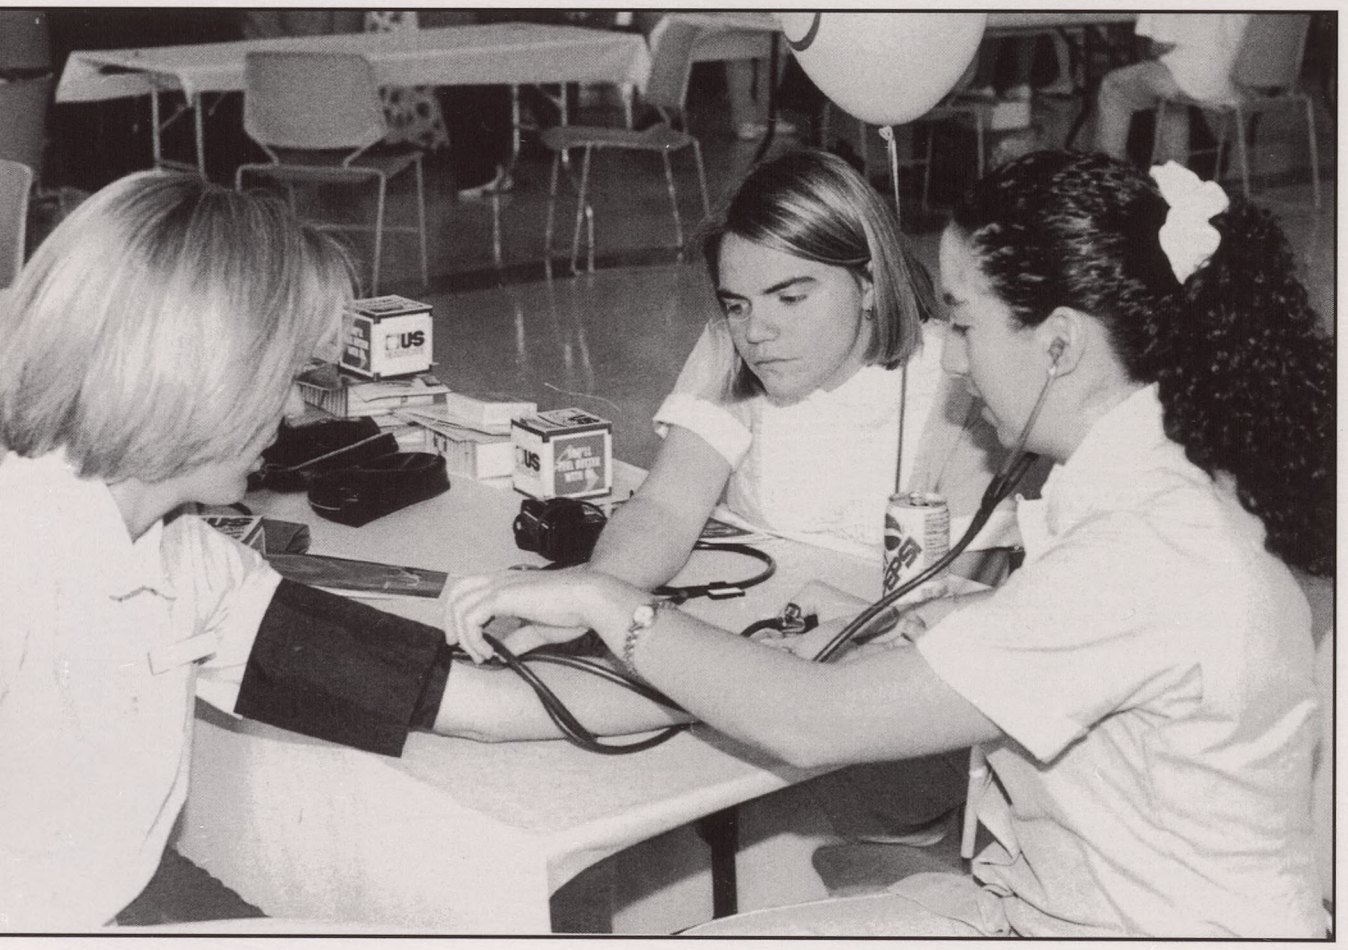

Seton Hall and South Orange community members also had the opportunity to speak with Counseling and Health Services professionals, who had additional information for the public.

A critical care nurse from the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey offered pictures and brochures on the state's Emergency Medivac response team. The American Red Cross had a register station for those interested in becoming involved in such activities as local disaster relief. Additionally, North Jersey Blood Center had a van available for blood donors.

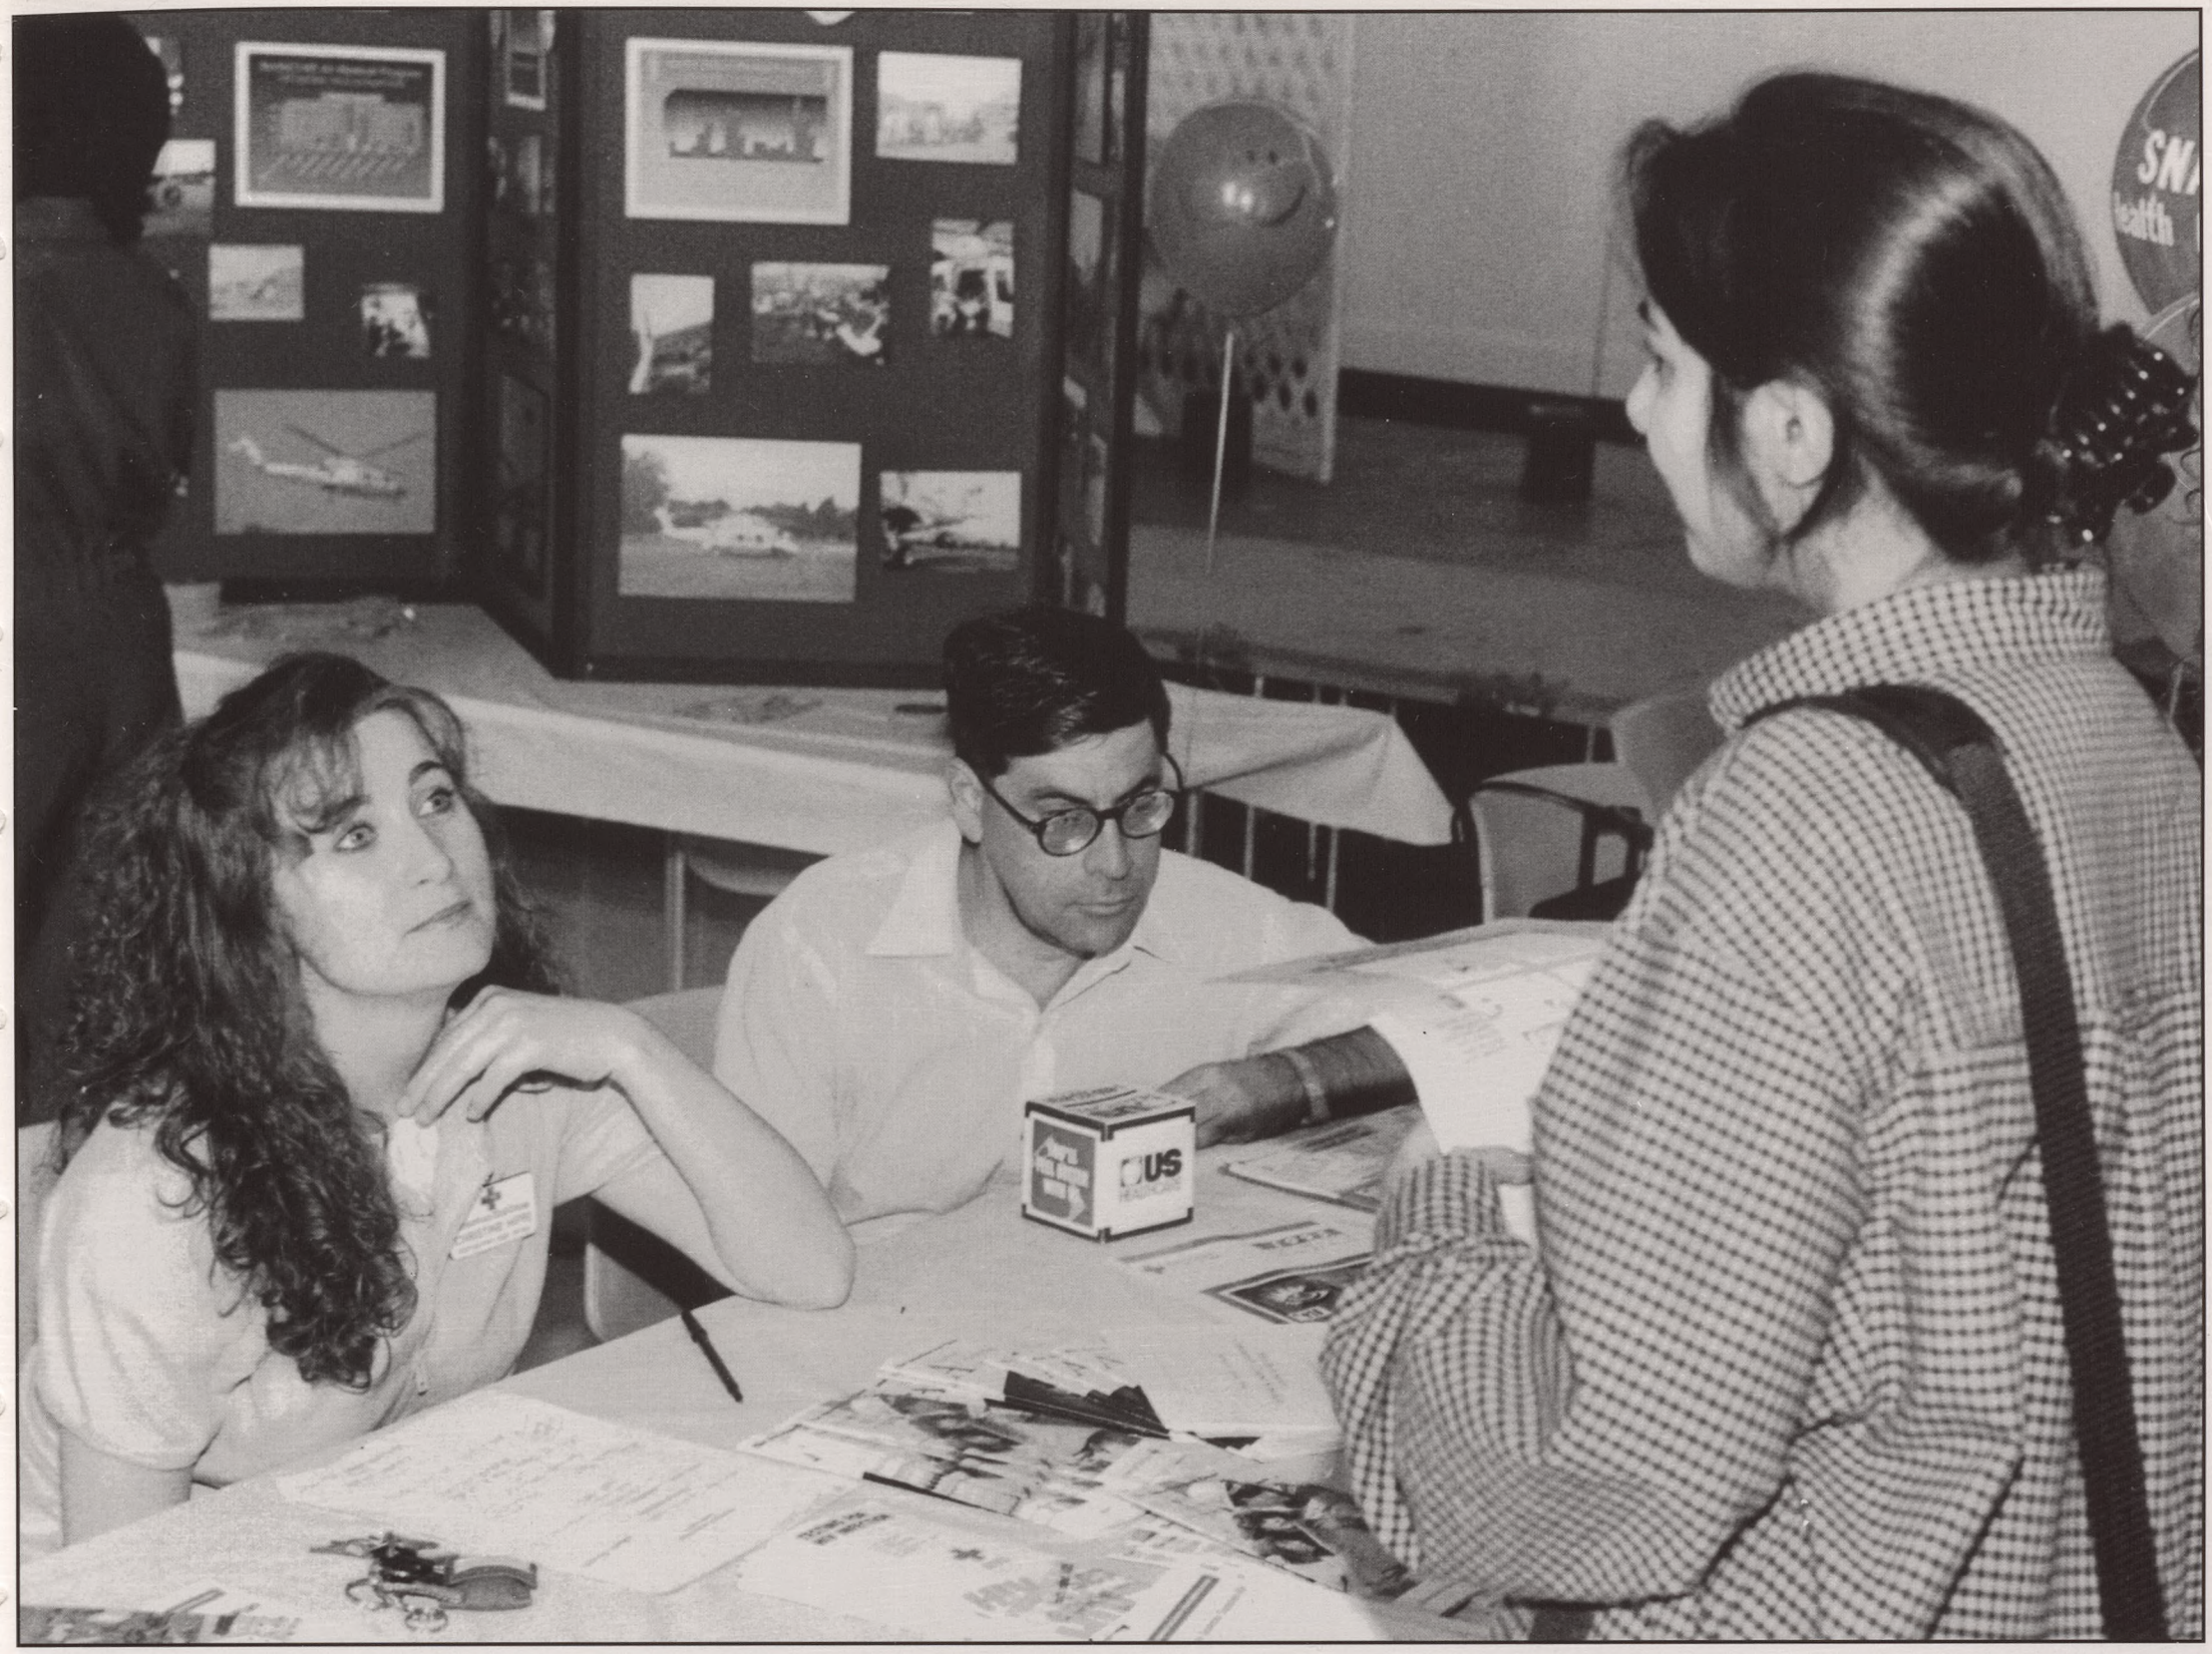

Of course, very popular were staff from the Summit Body Works & Massage Therapy, offering free massages to all who had 10 minutes to spare, and the European Academy for Cosmetology, offering free manicures. Other exhibitors included: American Cancer Society, Ciba Geigy, St. Barnabas Medical Center's Training Group, the Sharing Network and Mary Kay Cosmetics.

One year of planning and organizing made this Health Fair a complete success with more than 500 people participating.

Pirate Blue Grand Slam Salute

To Seton Hall Baseball

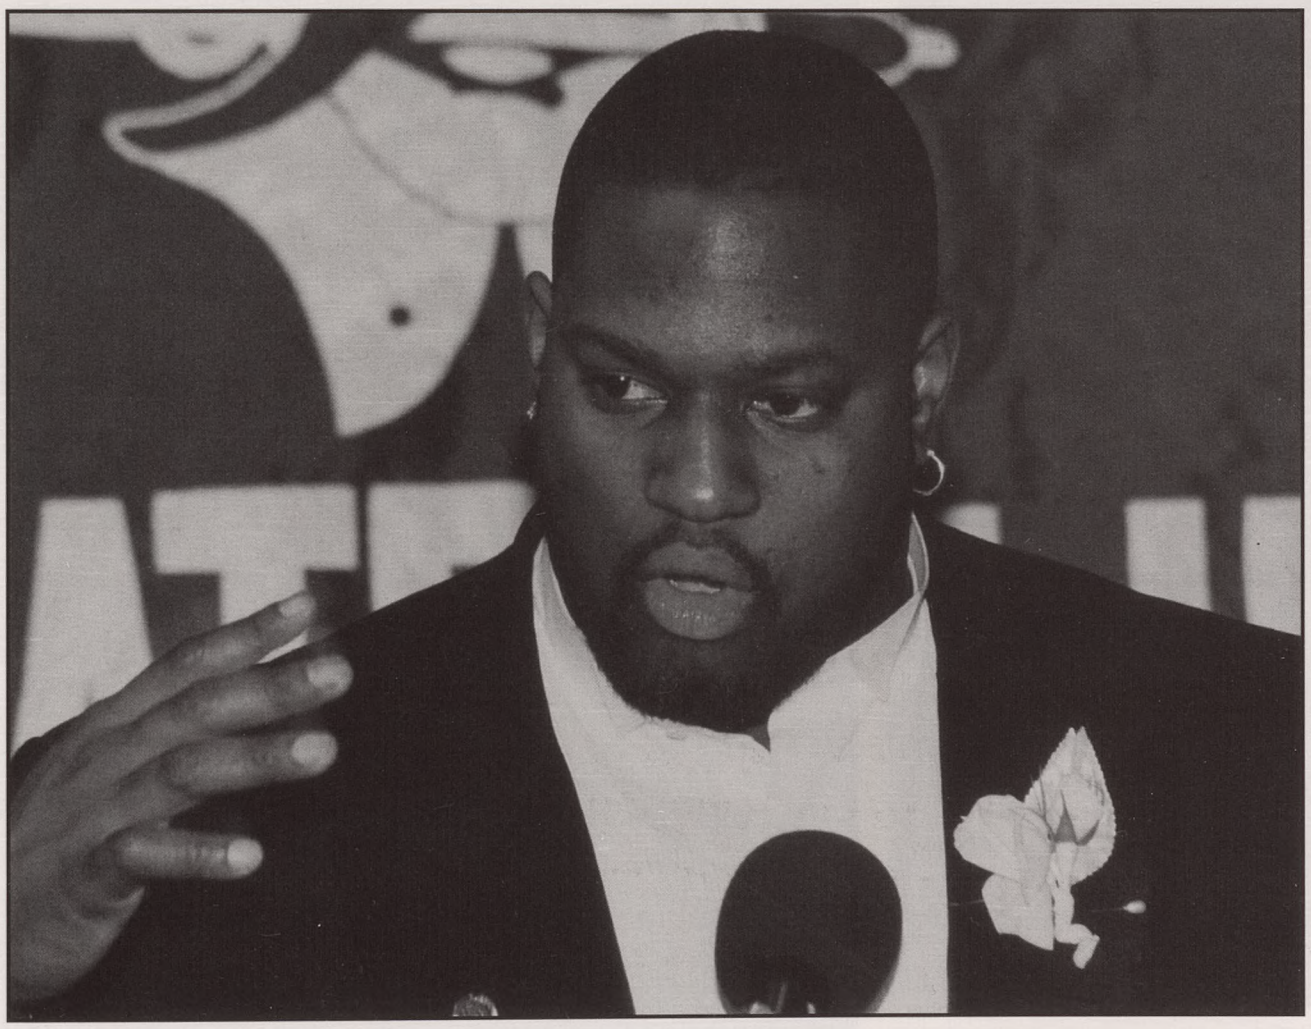

A trio of former Seton Hall baseball standouts led by reigning American League MVP Mo Vaughn of the Boston Red Sox, along with their college coach Mike Sheppard, were honored when the University's Pirate Blue Athletic Fund presented "A Grand Slam Salute to Seton Hall Baseball" on January 24 at Mayfair Farms in West Orange.

Joining Vaughn and Sheppard at the gala celebration was National League All-Star Craig Biggio, of the Houston Astros, and John Valentin of the Boston Red Sox, recently named the American League's Silver Slugger at shortstop. In addition to being feted that evening, Vaughn, Biggio, Valentin and Sheppard were also inducted into the Seton Hall Athletic Hall of Fame.

Vaughn and Valentin were catalysts in the Red Sox's first American League championship since 1990. AL MVP Vaughn hit .300, with a career-high 39 homers and 126 RBI, and was named to the AL All-Star team. Very active in community service, Vaughn works with youth groups in New England in the off-season and instituted the Mo Vaughn Youth Center in Dorchester, MA. At the end of the 1995 season, he was awarded the Red Sox Community Service Award by the Organization. Vaughn was a three-time All-America selection at Seton Hall, and by the time he concluded his career with the Pirates in 1989, he had a school record 57 homers and 218 RBI. He was named the BIG EAST Conference's baseball "Player of the Decade" (1980-89).

Valentin, a teammate of Vaughn's on both the collegiate and pro levels, also had an outstanding season for the Red Sox. Valentin hit 27 homers with 102 RBI, and hit 37 doubles, fourth best in the AL. On June 2, 1995 he became the fifth shortstop in major league history to hit three homers in one game. Valentin was an All-BIG EAST and All-America selection at shortstop for the Pirates as a junior, when he hit .392.

Biggio turned in an outstanding year for the Astros, claiming All-Star honors for the fourth time in five years. He became the first player in Major League history to make the All-Star team at catcher and second base. As a starter in the 1995 game, he hit a solo home run. Biggio hit .302 on the year with a career-high 22 homers and 77 RBI, and led the majors in runs scored with 123. At Seton Hall, Biggio was a two-time All-BIG EAST selection as a catcher, and earned All-America honors after hitting .407 in his final season.

Sheppard has been at the helm of the Seton Hall baseball program for 24 years. He has guided the Pirates to a 769-356-8 record in that time, which ranks him in the top 20 winningest active coaches in the nation. Under Sheppard's direction, more than 60 former Pirates have gone on to sign professional contracts, and four have been first round draft choices. Sheppard has guided the Seton Hall baseball team to a pair of College World Series berths and 22 post-season appearances in 23 years.

STUDENT LEADERS ARE ACKNOWLEDGED

For Their Varied Contributions to the University Community

On May 3, 1996, the Department of Student Activities held the 15th Annual Student Leadership Awards Ceremony in the Main Lounge of the Bishop Dougherty Student Center. Student leaders from various areas of the Seton Hall community were present to cheer for their friends and to be recognized for their dedication and hard work.

David M. Yozzi, Ed.D., director of Student Activities, extended a welcome to the student leaders, their families, and the University administration and staff. He explained that the awards being offered in recognition of the dedication and service will become more cherished as time goes by. Further, students who give this precious gift of time become a part of the "legacy of excellence" by which the University defines itself.

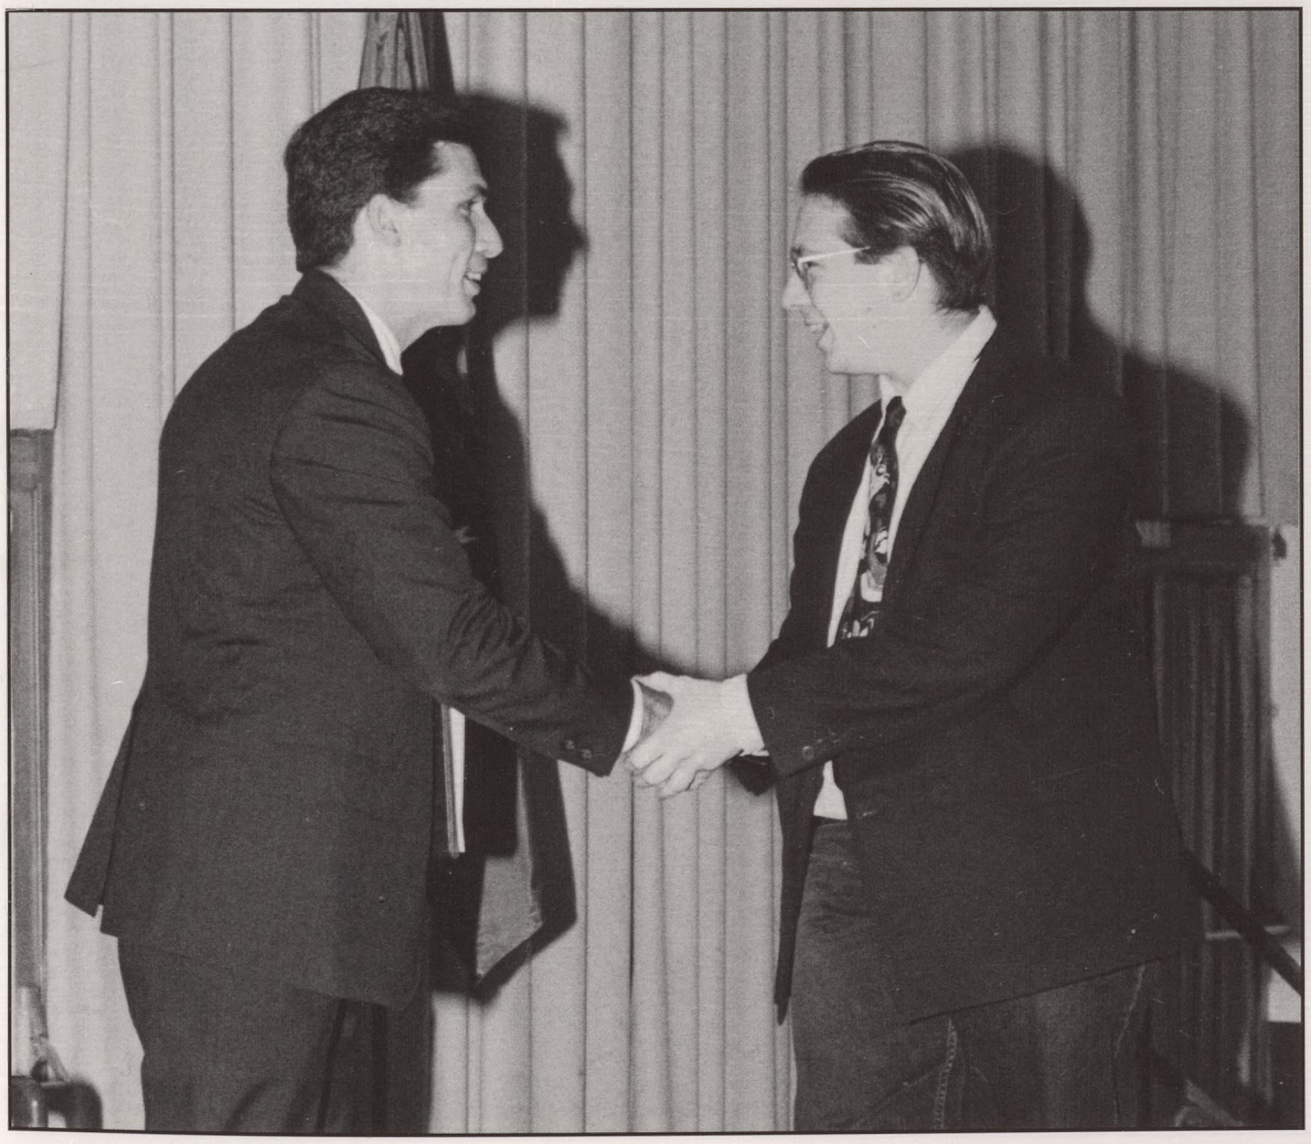

Awards were distributed to Student Government officials and club presidents and advisers. The Black Student Union received the Organization of the Year award, and Kathleen Reilly was presented the Adviser of the Year award for her service to the International Student Association.

The Presidential Honor Roll consisted of 11 students. Shannon Magdich, Black Student Union; Aimee Summers, Delta Phi Epsilon; Jim Traino, Resident Student Association; Matthew Dowling, Setonian; Christopher Donoghue, Commuter Council; Amy Johnson, Student Activities Board; Ritika Jhunjhunwala, International Student Association; Illan Levy, Brownson Speech and Debate Union; Laurianne Brunetti, Order of Omega; Tia Morris, African Student Leader Coalition; and Brian Fitzgerald, Parish Council.

Gina Marie Pontoriero and Tim Lynch were awarded the prestigious University Service Award. The qualifications for this award include a minimum grade point average of 3.0, demonstration of the ethical and moral standards required of a leader, and continued assistance in the development and growth of Seton Hall University.

Dr. Bernhard W. Scholz, University provost, distributed citations to the "community of learners" recognized by "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

world news

Heads of many of the 186 member nations gathered in New York to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the United Nations in October.

As the first U.S. president to visit Northern Ireland, President Clinton received a warm Christmas welcome for his show of support for peace between Irish Protestants and Catholics.

Quebec, Canada's largely French-speaking province, defeated an October referendum on Quebec independence by a margin of less than one percent.

Fifty years after the end of World War II, Japan remembered those killed by the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima. A solitary building left standing after the blast, now a memorial called the Atomic Bomb Dome, symbolizes the horrors of war and the price of peace.

Great Britain's Princess Diana shocked Buckingham Palace with a tell-all BBC interview. Defying royal protocol, she discussed her marriage to unfaithful husband Prince Charles, her struggle with depression and bulimia, and an extramarital affair.

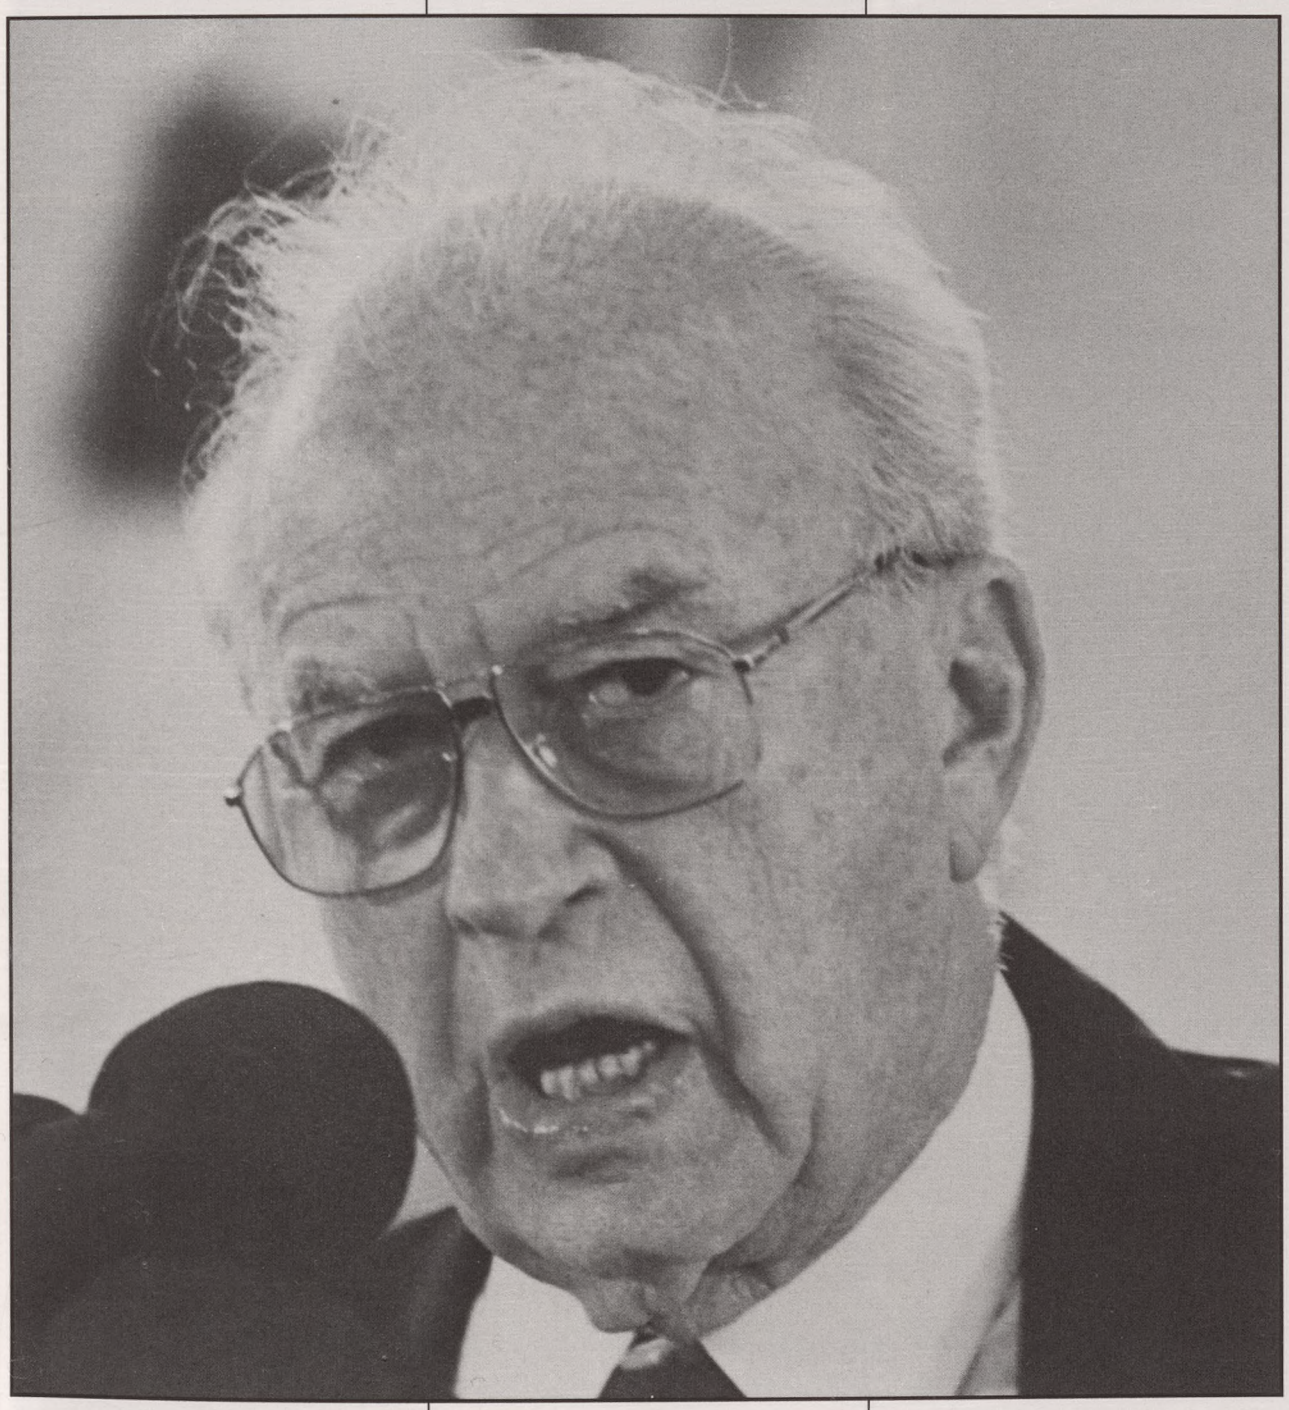

BOSNIA
Civil war in the former Yugoslavia continued to rage. Four years after the wars of Yugoslavia's destruction began, there was still no peace among the Croats, Serbs and Muslims. More than 3 million people have lost their homes, more than 200,000 have been killed, and tens of thousands have become refugees. There remains a deep reservoir of bitterness throughout the former Yugoslavia, and NATO continues its attempt to bring peace to the troubled Balkan region.

RUSSIAN PRESIDENT BORIS YELTSIN
Russian President Boris Yeltsin held on to a shaky first term as president. However, there were some formidable threats waiting in the wings. Yeltsin gave no early indication whether or not he would run for a second term. However, some observers said his health might prevent it. Yeltsin was hospitalized with heart trouble and rumors persisted that his drinking was out of control.

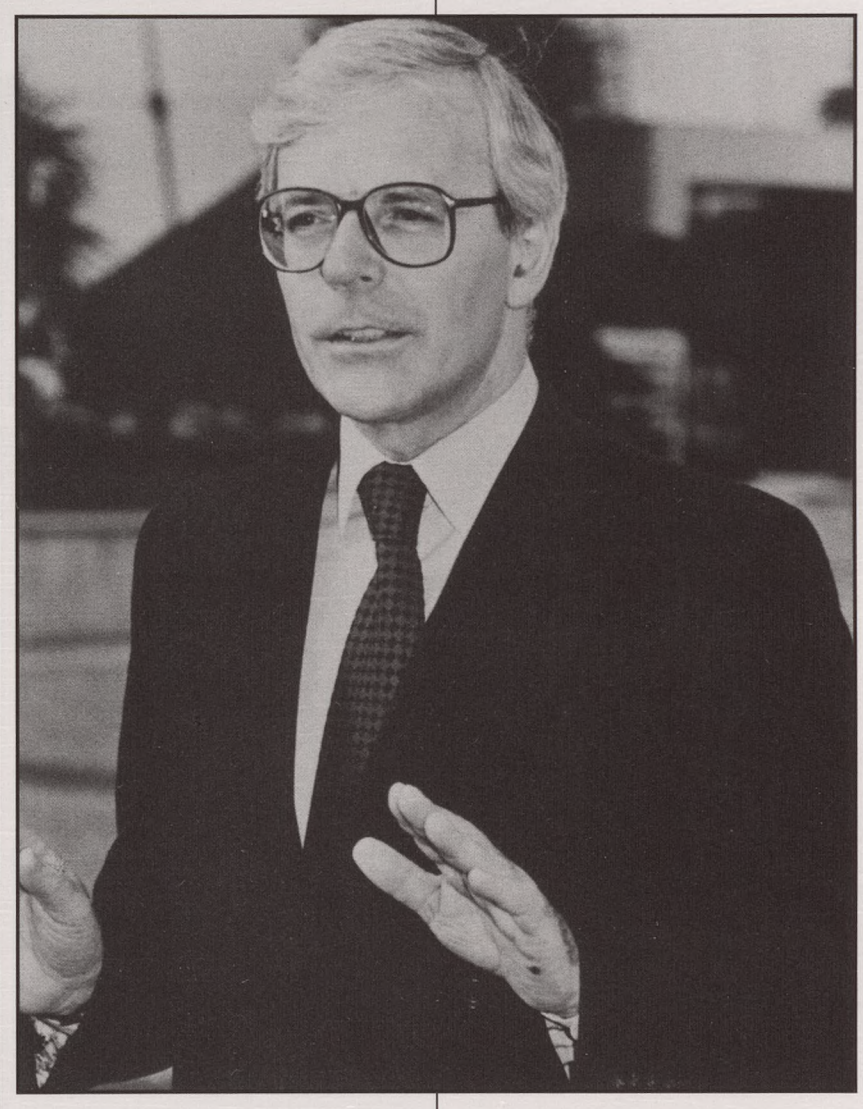

YASIR ARAFAT
After months of arduous negotiations and a tense last-minute flurry of crises and walkouts, Israel and the Palestinians concluded a major agreement. Control of much of the occupied West Bank was transferred to its Arab residents. Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasir Arafat offered a 400-page document that spelled out in detail the withdrawal of Israeli forces from much of the territory Israel has occupied since the 1967 war.

ISRAELI PRIME MINISTER YITZHAK RABIN
Shock waves hit the Middle East when Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin was shot and killed while leaving a peace rally in Tel Aviv on November 4. His murderer, Jewish extremist Yigal Amir, opposed peace negotiations with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER JOHN MAJOR
Politicking English style, John Major, the British Prime Minister, resigned as Conservative leader and 12 days later was re-elected with a 66 percent vote by Tory members of Parliament. The vote indicated that the Tories believe the 52-year-old Major is their best chance of winning the next general election, which will be held in the spring of 1997.

Illinois suffered a record heat wave in July, with temperatures as high as 104˚. The heat took the lives of 457 people statewide.

TIMOTHY MCVEIGH
Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols were charged with 11 counts in the bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal building in Oklahoma City. The explosion on April 19 killed 169 people and injured more than 500.

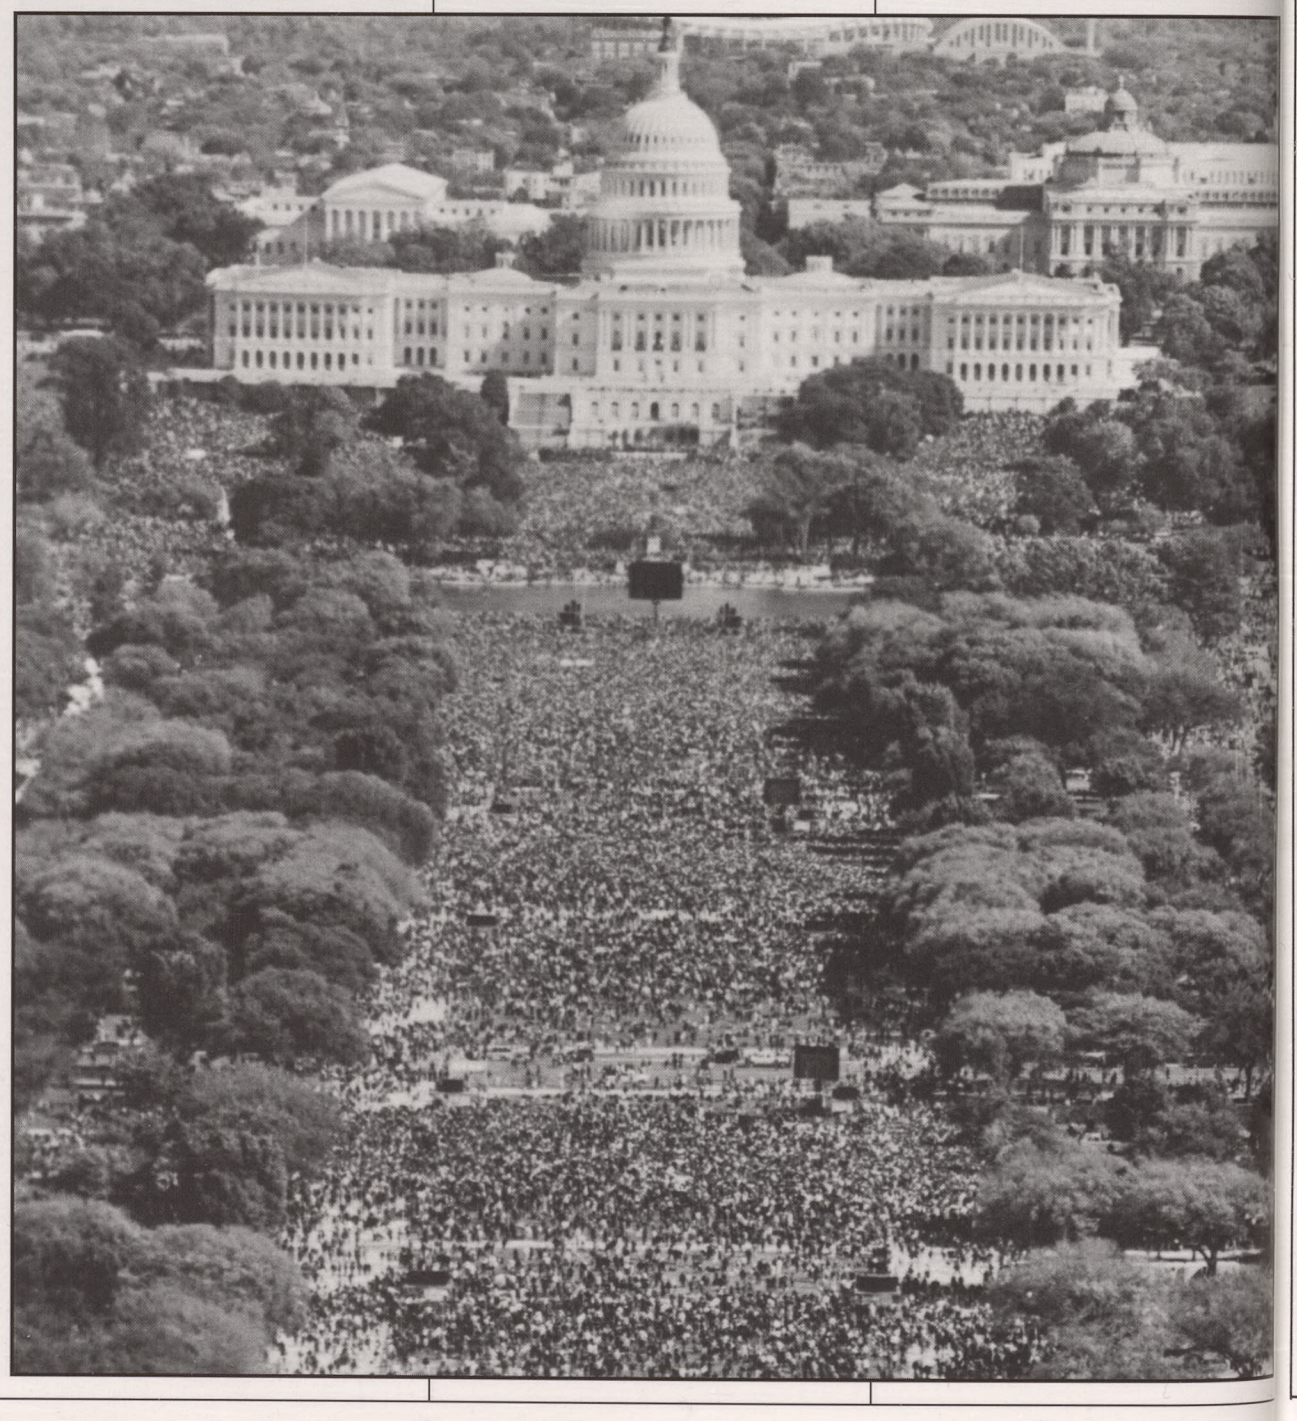

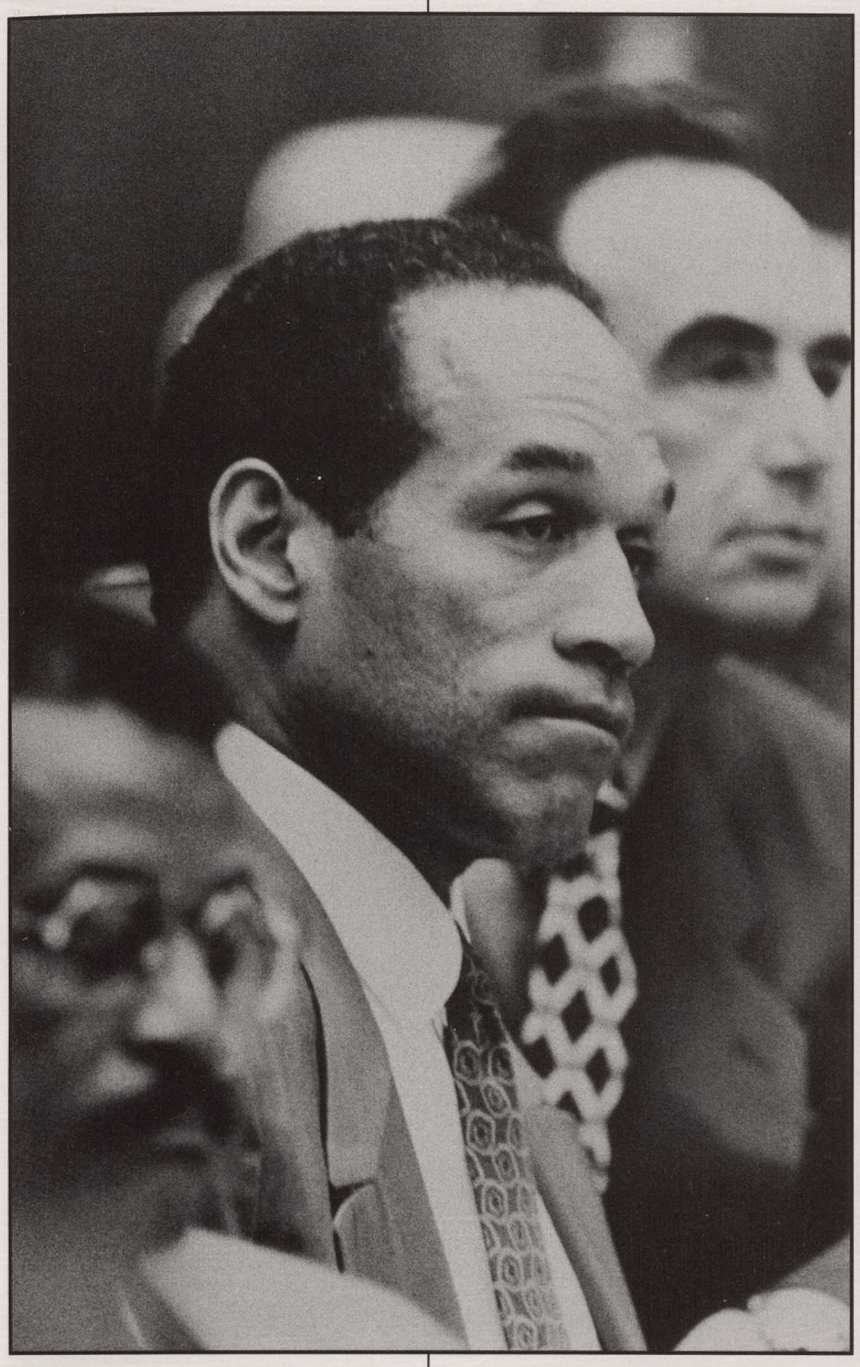

SENATOR BOB DOLE
Kansas Senator Bob Dole emerged as the front-runner among Republican primary candidates to challenge Bill Clinton in the 1996 presidential election. The run for highest office is nothing new for Dole. He ran for president in the primaries of 1980 and 1988. If elected, he will be 73 years old when he enters office, the oldest newly elected president.

BILL GATES
Bill Gates, 39-year-old founder of the computer giant Microsoft, became the wealthiest man in the world with an estimated net worth of $14.8 billion. He made headlines with the introduction of Windows 95, the long-awaited upgrade to the Windows computer software program.

THE MILLION MAN MARCH
African-American men converged on Washington, D.C., for the Million Man March on October 16. The march, led by Nation-of-Islam minister Louis Farrakhan, promoted unity, dignity and family values.

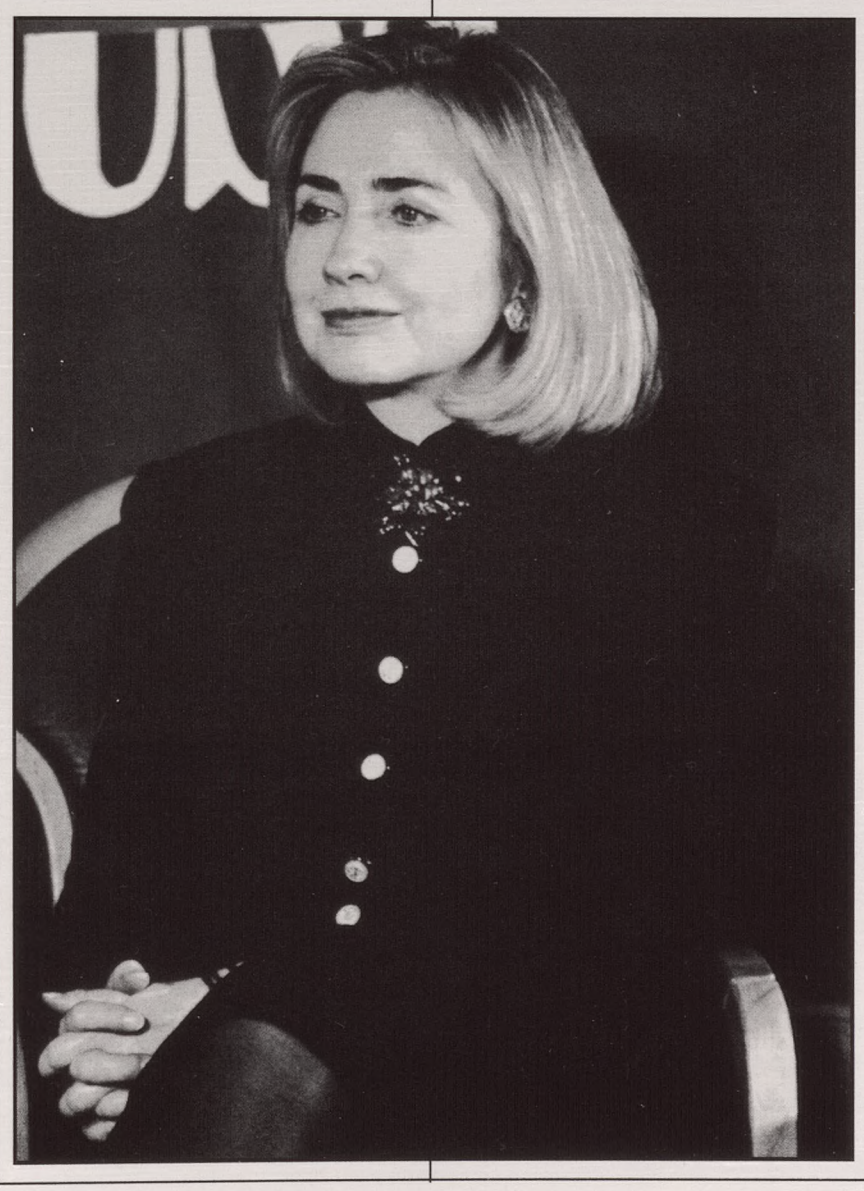

O.J. SIMPSON
The nation came to a standstill on October 3 as more than 150 million people watched live T.V. coverage of the outcome of the nine-month-long "trial of the century." After less than four hours of deliberation, the jury found Simpson not guilty of the murders of his ex-wife Nicole and her friend Ronald Goldman.

HURRICANE MARILYN
Hurricane Marilyn inflicted millions of dollars of damage in the Virgin Islands in September. Winds up to 127 miles per hour severely damaged half the homes on St. Thomas.

POPE JOHN PAUL II
Pope John Paul II visited the states of New Jersey, New York and Maryland on his fourth papal trip to the United States. The 75-year -old Pope spoke out on social, economic, political and moral themes and talked of leading the Roman Catholic Church into Christianity's third millennium.

HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON

DAVE MATTHEWS BAND
The Dave Matthews Band came out of nowhere with their first CD, Remember Two Things, which sold more than 150,000 copies even though it was recorded for about $12,000 and sold at shows or by mail order. The group's second work, Under the Table and Dreaming, was a major label success, and rocketed up the charts without a hit single or video hype.

GREEN DAY
Success didn't mellow the style of alternative rock band Green Day, who released their anxiously awaited fourth CD Insomniac, their fastest and darkest work to date.

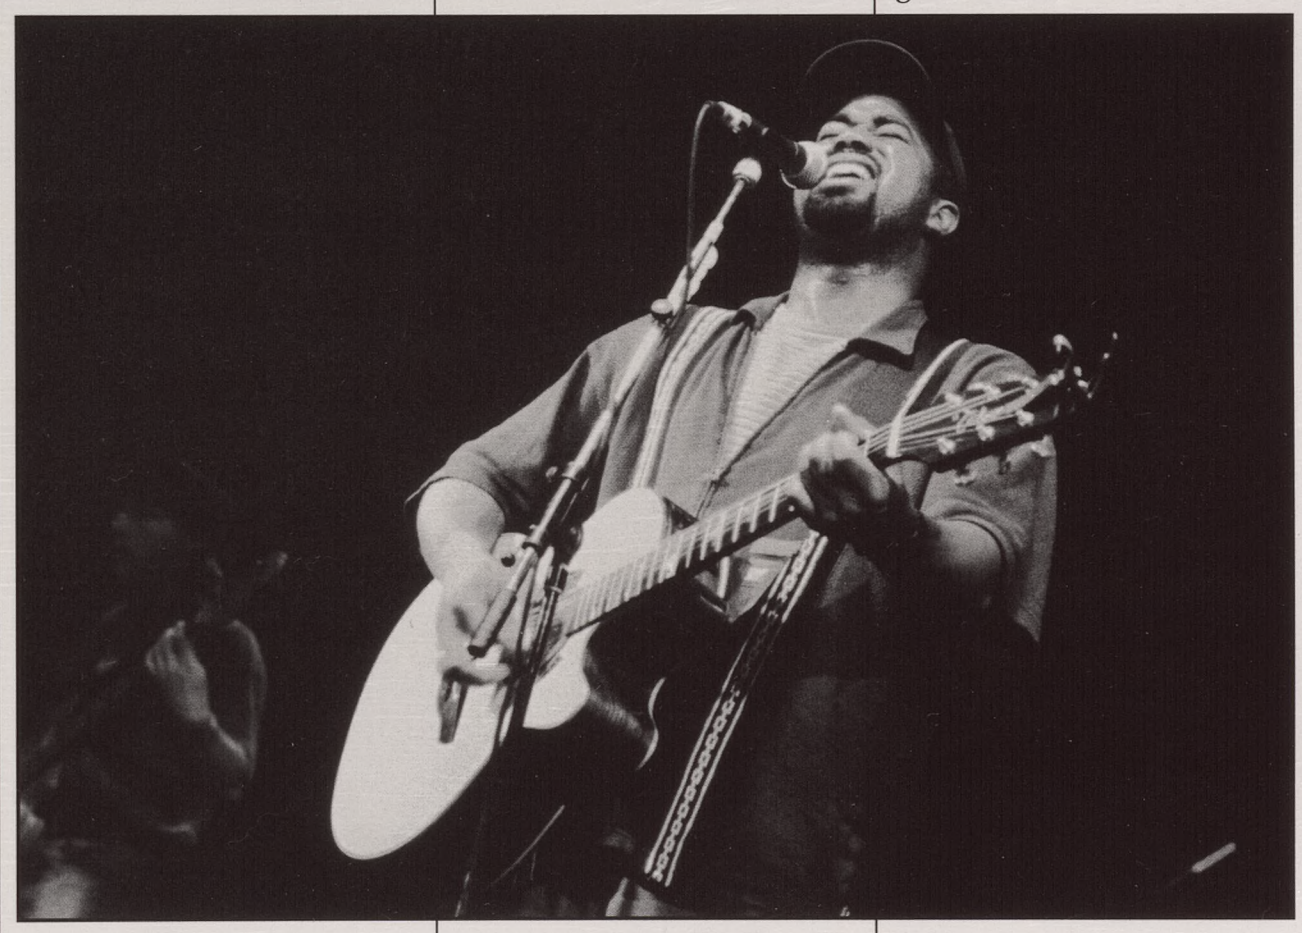

BOYZ II MEN
Boyz II Men, the Philadelphia-based quartet made up of tenors Wanya Morris and Shawn Stockman, baritone Nathan Morris and bass Michael McCary maintained their presence on the top-selling charts throughout the year. Their music was more pop than either soul or rhythm and blues, but whatever their style, they continued to be a massive success.

BLUES TRAVELER
Blues Traveler, a down-home Tennessee band with a unique style, emerged from the underground scene to widespread popularity with their CD Four and their single "Run-Around." One critic described their music as a "spicy combo of on-the-edge rock 'n ' roll and hard-line country/western bluegrass music."

The education Seton Hall provides its students with is about opening up his or her mind to new knowledge and perspectives on old ideas. The information we learned will be used as the foundation to our continual learning process as we approach the dynamic and rapidly-changing world in which we live.

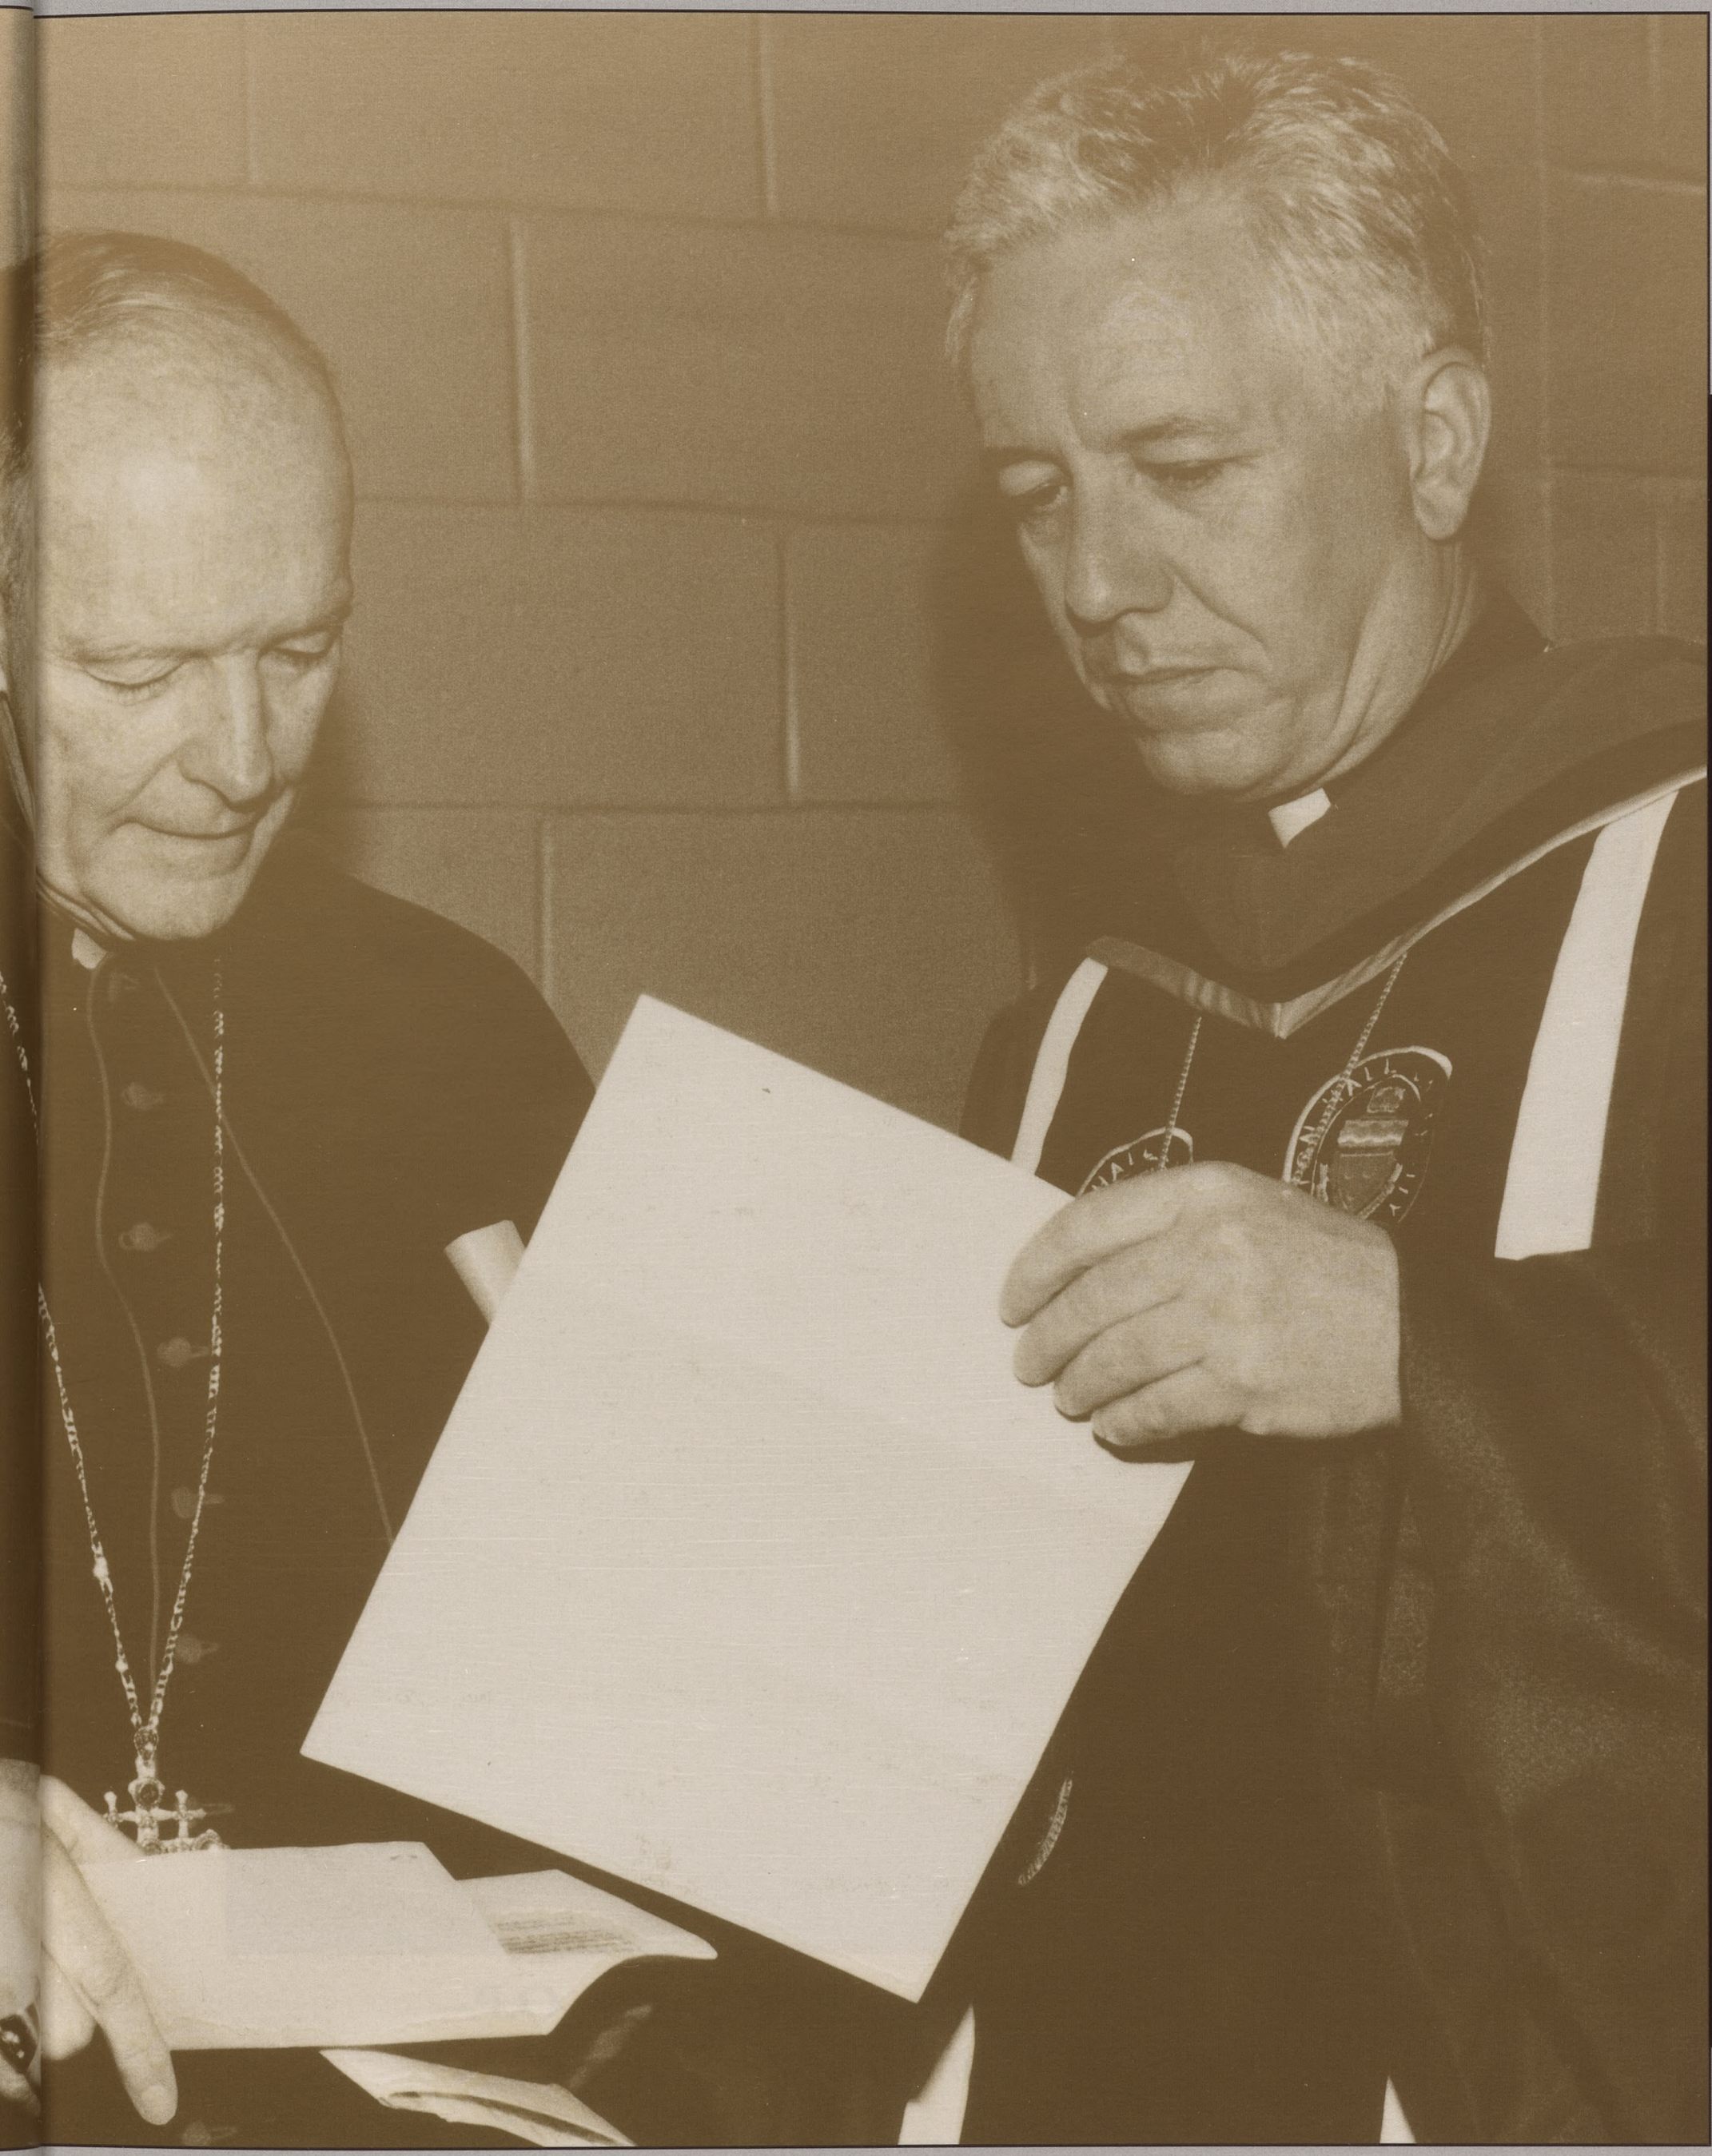

To make today's students competitive in tomorrow's job market, Seton Hall offers many educational resources to its students. Walsh Library provides students with the necessary periodicals, journals, and on-line services needed to successfully complete class room assignments. Various department offer their students the opportunity to take advantage of participating in a variety of internships. Career Services offers many services to students from job writing skills to sending out resumes to prospective employers or graduate schools. Education extended beyond the classroom in assorted trips, such as the Museum of Natural Art and History and the United States Supreme Court.

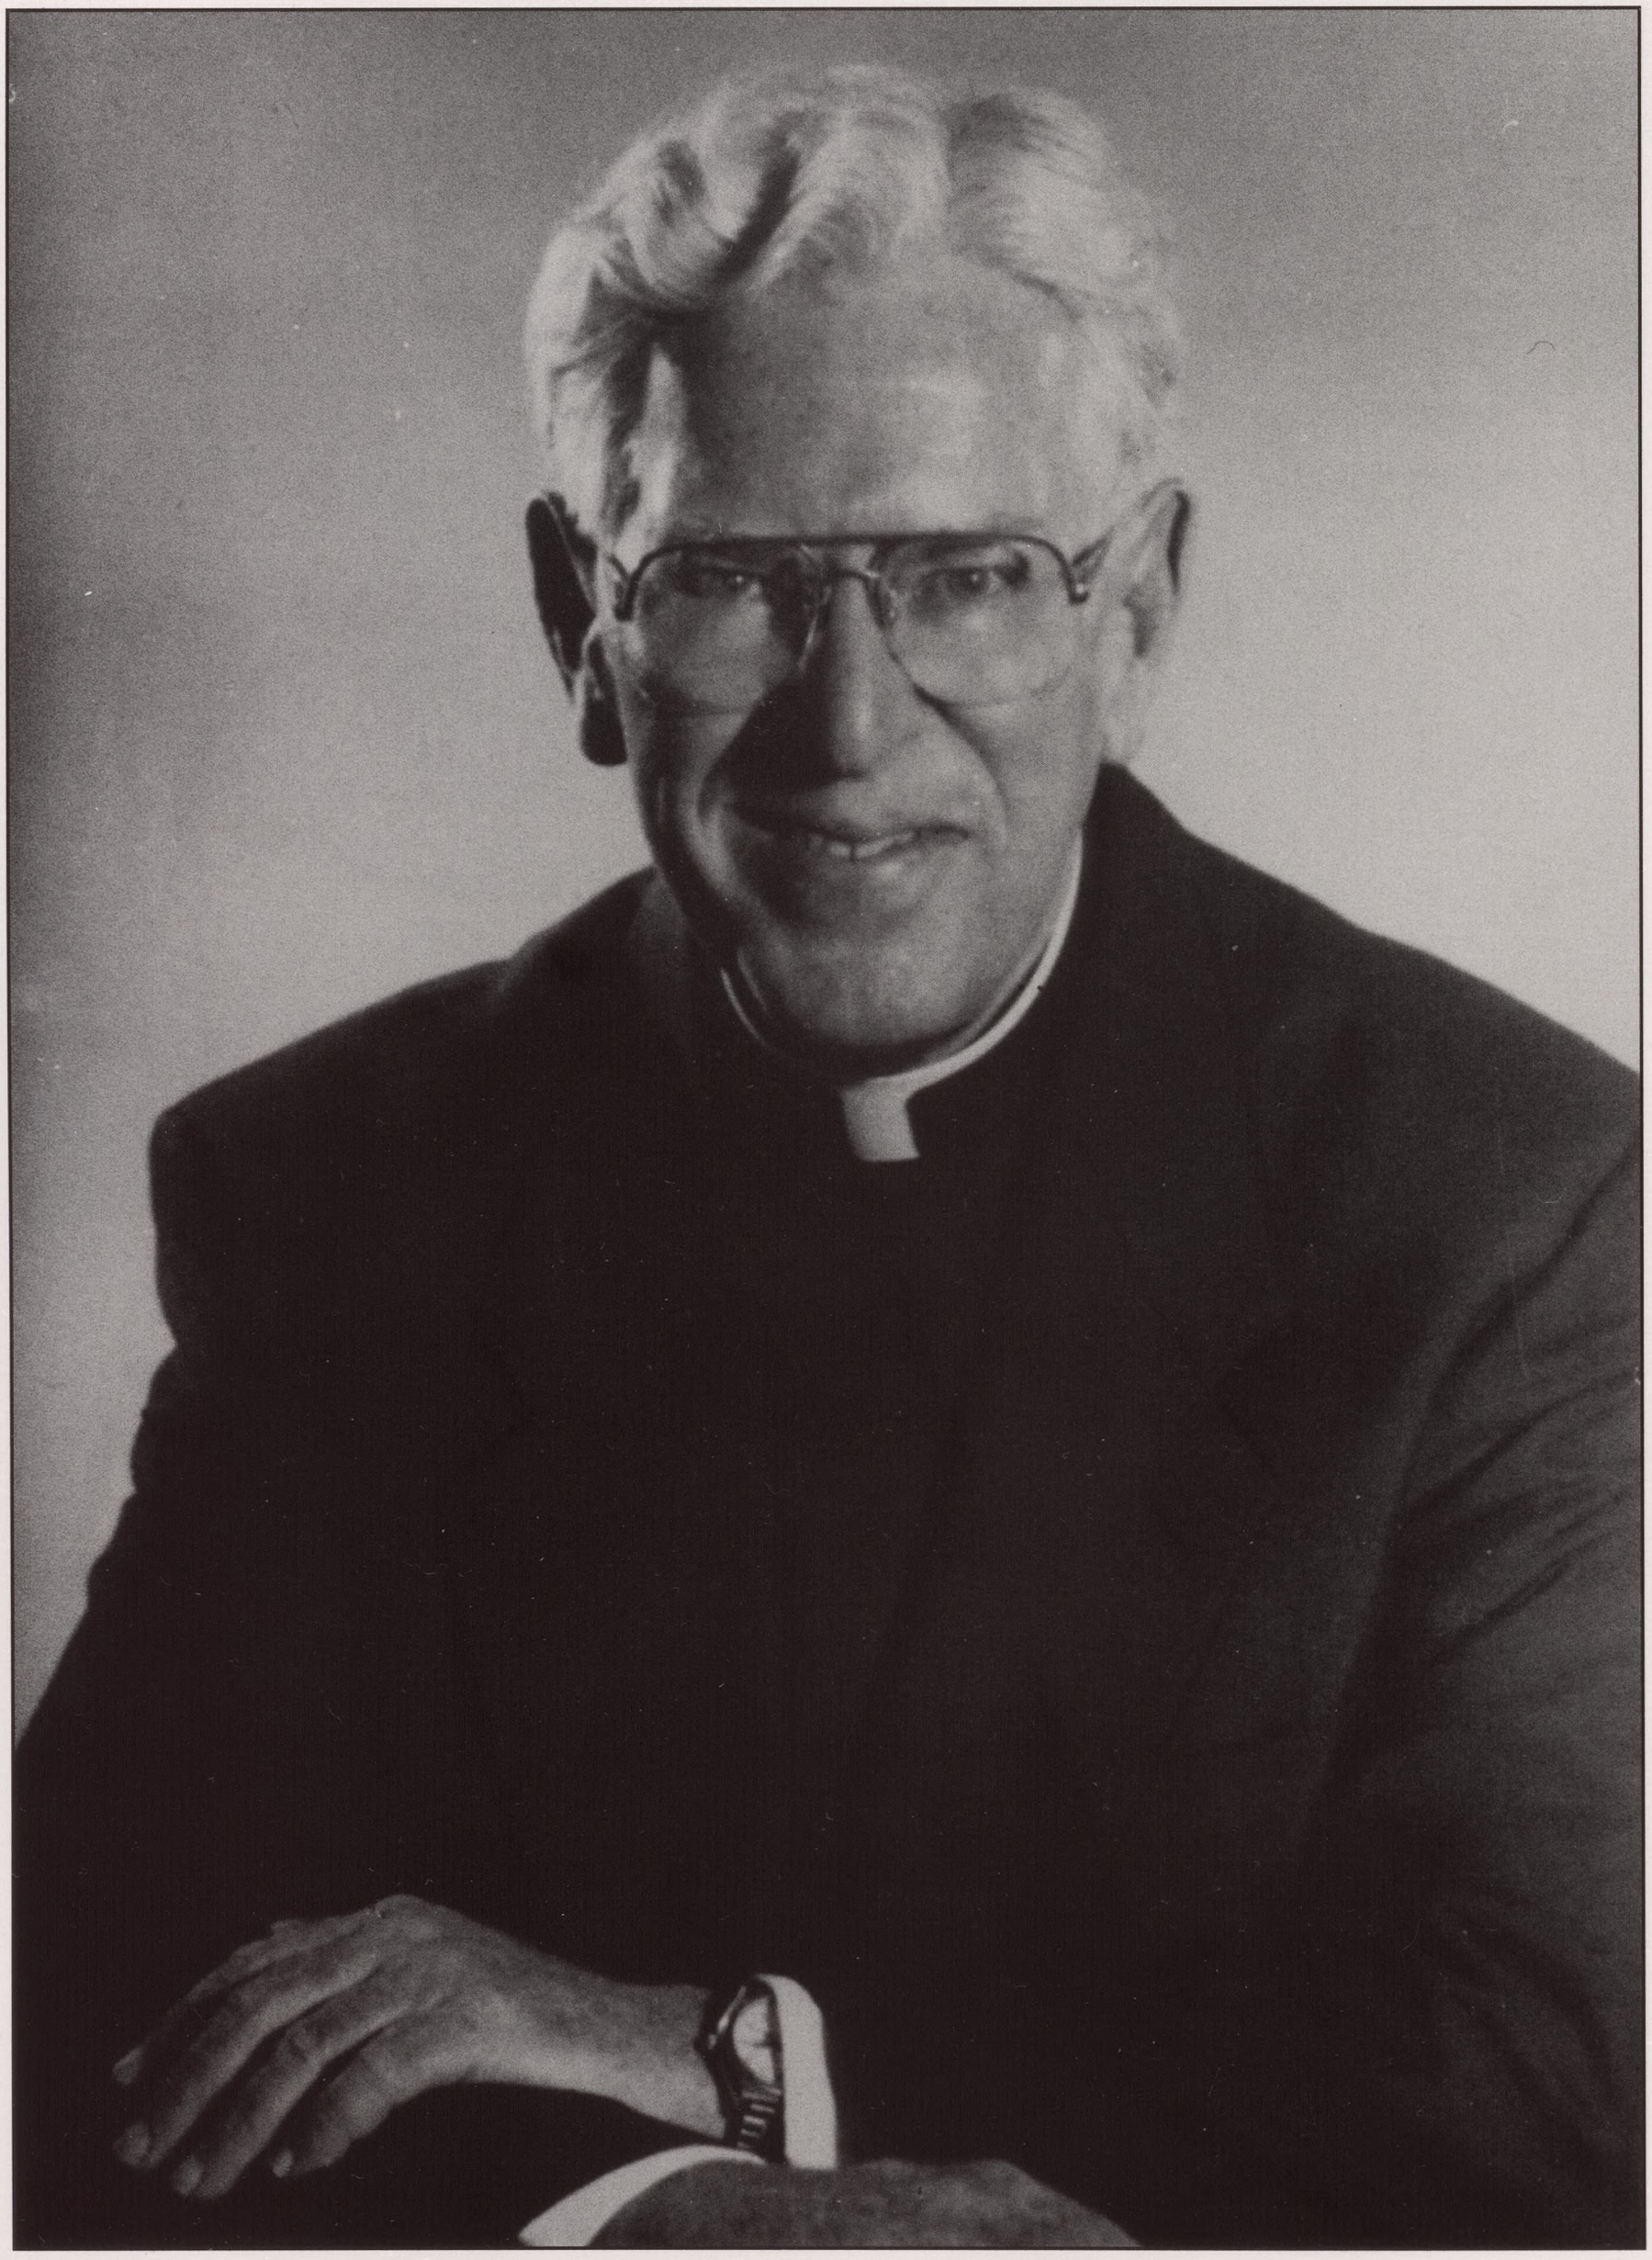

All of these educational opportunities demonstrate Seton Hall's commitment to preparing their students to achieve excellence as they enter graduate school or the work force as the new millennium approaches. The University's vast array of academic and extracurricular programs provides students the tools they need to excel in their personal and professional lives

Chancellor

Dear Members of the Class of 1996:

"Excellence" is a word that sparkles like a newly cut diamond. It has many facets to its makeup, and it shines forth in a variety of directions. Excellence can be simple or elegant, brand new or mature in age, forever the same or ever changing. Therefore, "A Legacy of Excellence, 140 Years" is a very fitting theme of the yearbook for the graduating class of 1996 at Seton Hall University.

We talked about this "Legacy of Excellence" at the time that you came here for Freshman Orientation. You and your families were told that Seton Hall has deep roots, and that these roots are anchored in a commitment to protect the best of the past in a manner that allows us to uncover the great things of the future. This old world has changed during your four years here, and in a very real sense, you too have been caught up in this developing process. The learning and the learner have matured to the betterment of both.

Seton Hall University, in fulfillment of its commitment to academic excellence, has cast this promise of progress in stone with the construction of the new library. This building has become the jewel of our campus and you can always take pride in the fact that it came to fruition while you were students here. The new academic building is under construction and you saw its beginnings. New academic programs were added at both the graduate and undergraduate levels in the School of Business and, indeed, throughout the whole University. Much effort was devoted to evolving a strategic plan for the future of the University, and you participated in this process.

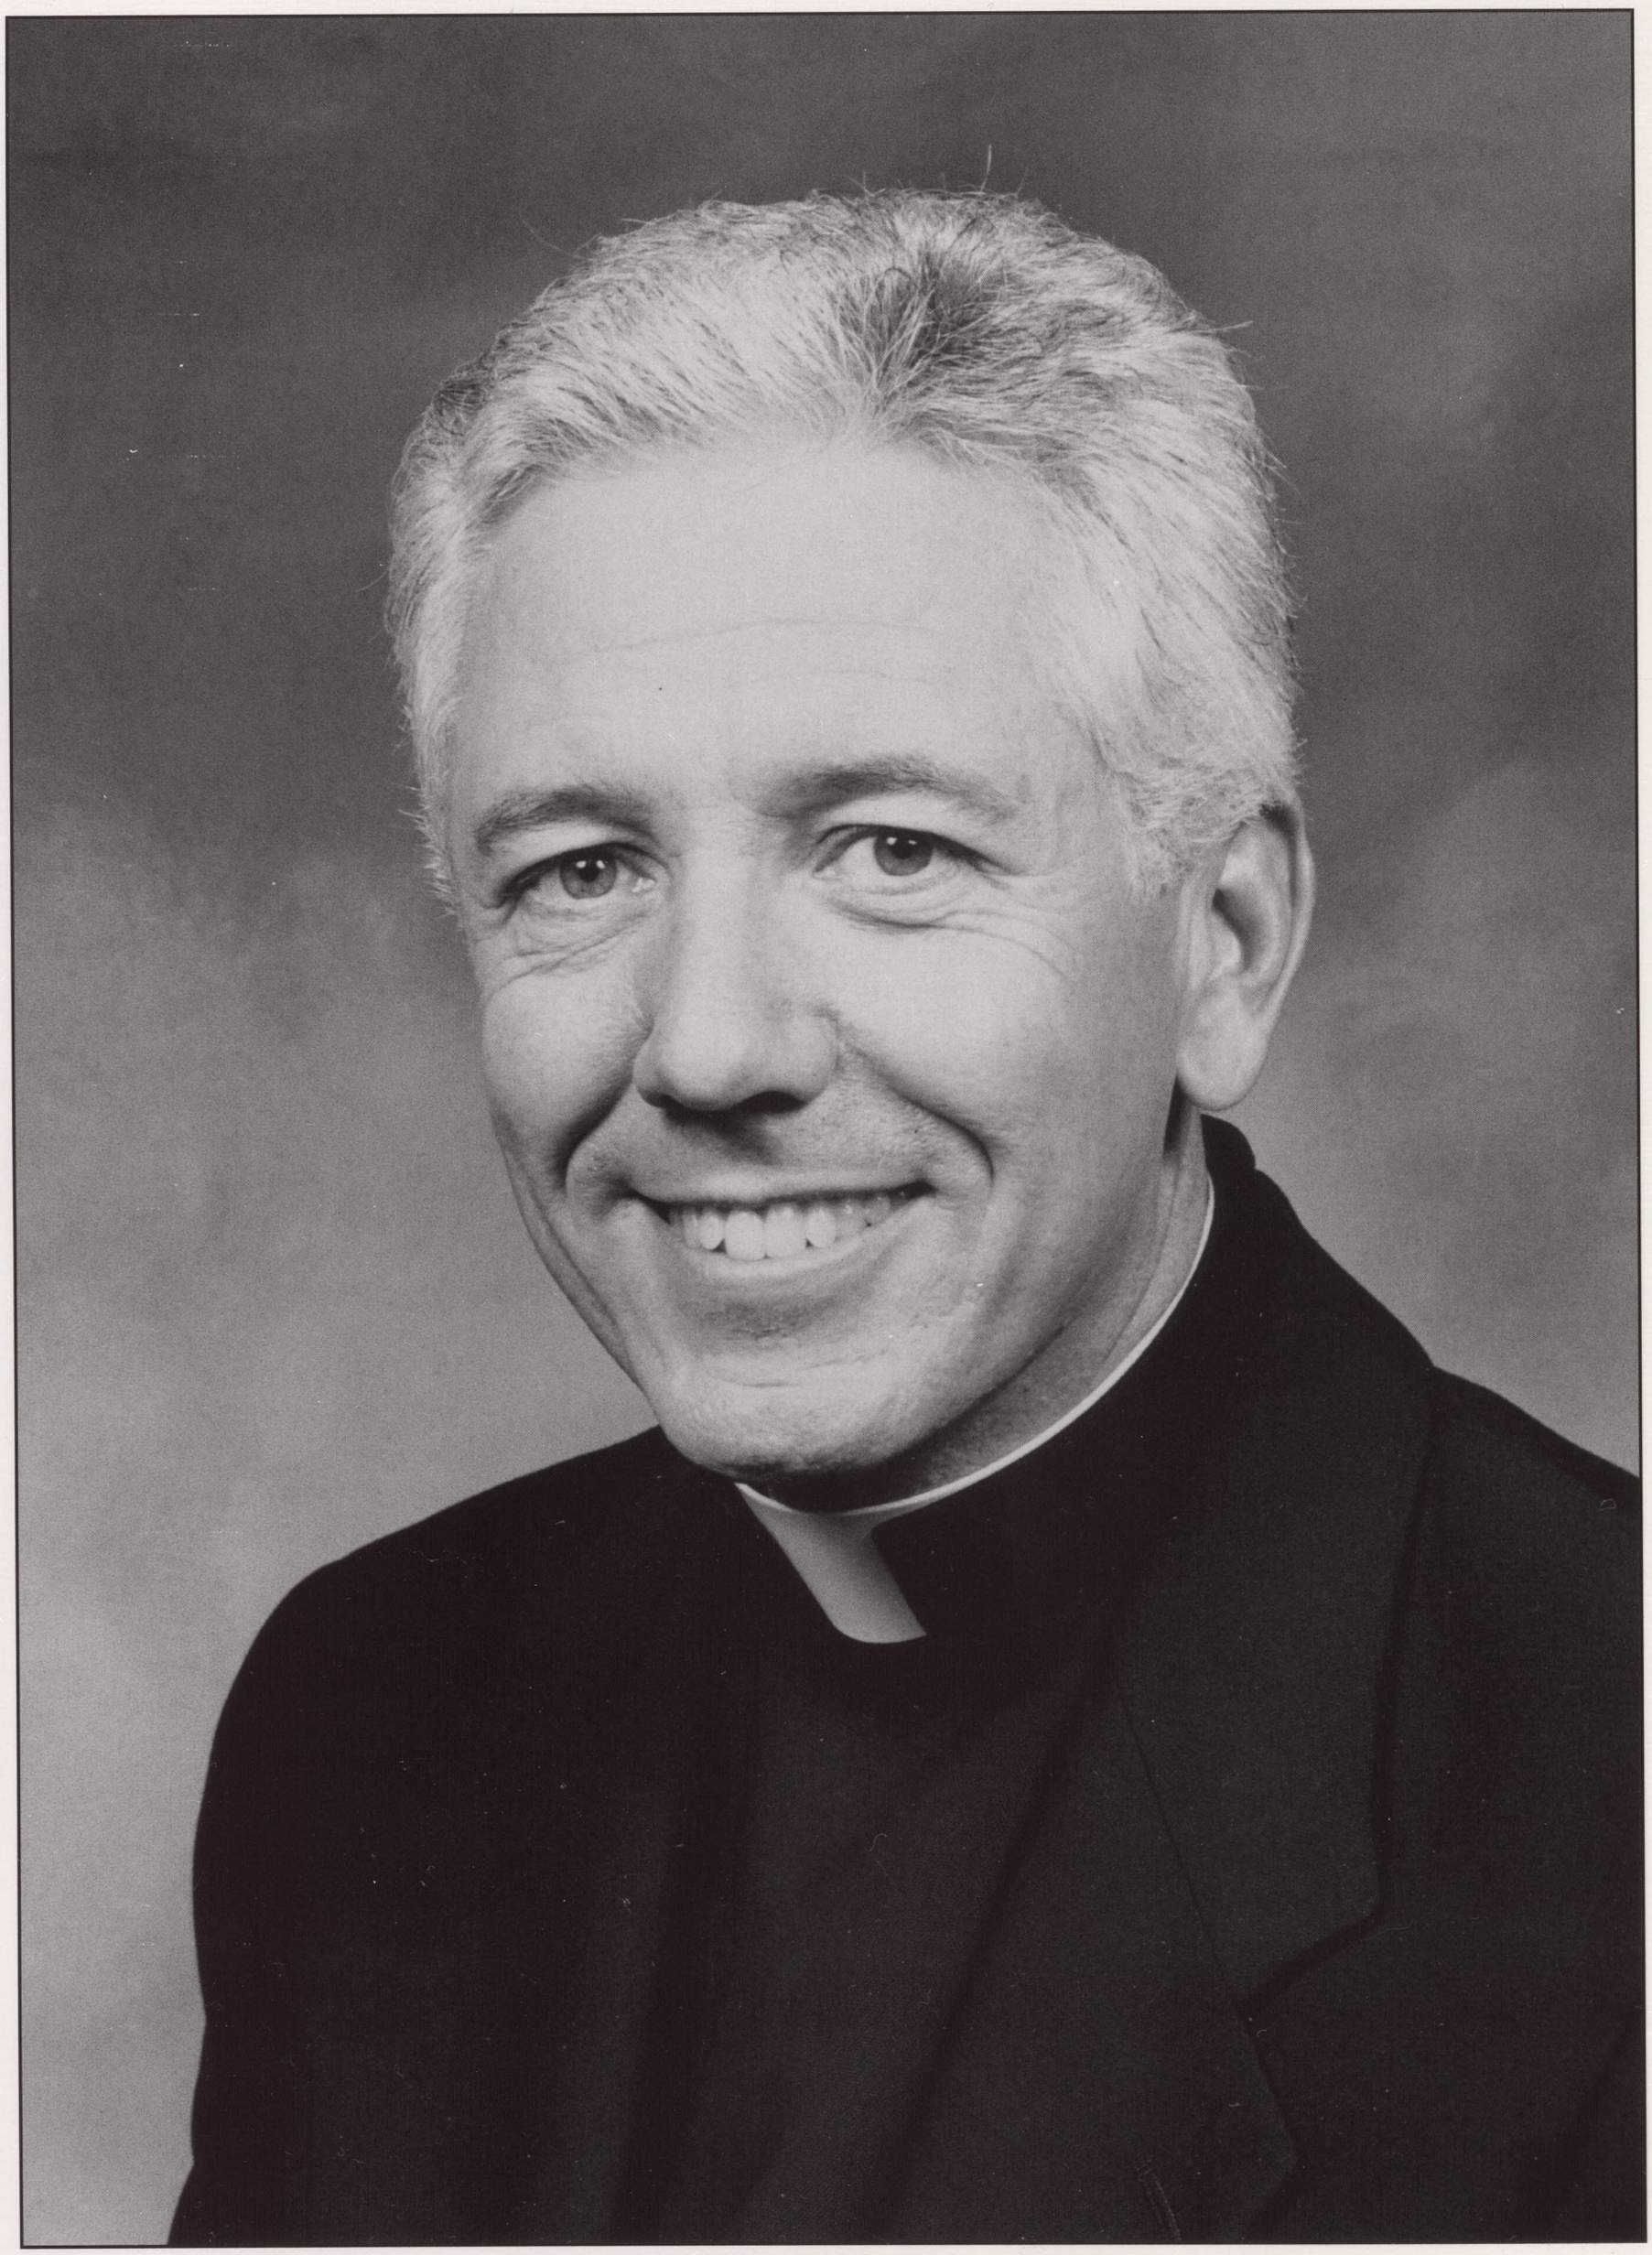

The fright of the freshman gave way to the sizzle of the sophomore. Juniors gradually grew into seniors, and as seniors you accepted the challenges and opportunities that await you on that day when you put aside your cap and gown and walk confidently into the sunlight of a new plateau in your life.

Seton Hall University will remain forever committed to the Judaeo-Christian values that form our foundation. When our Holy Father visited our Cathedral last October, he told me to tell our students to love God and help one another. This is my message to you.

Go with confidence. Know that God goes with you. Let others benefit from the sparkle of the excellent things you will accomplish.

Very Reverend Thomas R. Peterson, O.P.

Monsignor Robert Sheeran
President

To the Members of the Class of 1996:

Congratulations! The completion of your undergraduate degree is a significant accomplishment, one that I hope you share with your family and friends.

As a student in the 1990s, you enjoyed vastly different approaches to teaching and learning than did many generations of students who attended Seton Hall before you. A "university education" for you and your peers meant acquiring new knowledge and diverse skills both within and beyond the walls of the classroom. While you have spent many hours in lectures, seminars and laboratories, no doubt you also have found ways to learn about your interests and goals through work, volunteer or internship experiences, and perhaps travel opportunities as well.

If you take a moment to envision yourself on the first day you arrived at Seton Hall, you will realize how much more sophisticated and knowledgeable you have become in the process of earning your college degree. At the same time, you surely realize that getting your "sheepskin" must not be the end of your education, but actually the beginning. The world continues to change at an ever-accelerating pace, and you must be prepared to keep learning new information, new skills and new technologies as you proceed toward your life goals. For example, there was no "information superhighway" when you registered for your first class at Seton Hall, yet now it is part of everyday life. It's hard to even visualize where another few years will take us on this "highway," but certainly you will need to keep abreast of this transforming technology and of many other transformations happening in the world, for example: the globalization of business and economic life; the increasingly diverse cultural, racial and ethnic fabric of our own American culture; and the dramatic new demands our government, non-profit and corporate arenas will face as a result of steady geographic and demographic shifts in our society.

Yet, there are constants in life as well, and I trust that among the constants you have gained as a result of your Seton Hall education is a deeper appreciation of life in a Catholic community and the values it espouses. I believe that through your marvelous contributions to so many aspects of our campus life — whether you volunteered for DOVE, served on the Student Activities Board, participated in Greek life or other student organizations, or competed in academic or athletic contests — the Class of 1996 has strengthened the University community and its spirit. Know that whatever your experience at Seton Hall, while you were encouraged to grow, you also brought growth; that while you were challenged to learn, you also brought challenge to those around you; and that while you came as a student, you also served as a teacher. Your presence, both collectively and as individuals, has added to the rich tapestry that is Seton Hall.

In keeping with the 1996 Galleon's theme, "A Legacy of Excellence: 140 years," I encourage you to reflect on the people, places, events and traditions that made your Seton Hall experience outstanding. Proving your results in a difficult lab experiment, "acing" an exam after an all-night study marathon, cheering on the Pirates at Midnight Madness, painting a child's face at University Day, attending a Christmas mass, celebrating the University's excellence at Charter Day, and waving your mortarboard in triumph as Commencement ceremonies drew to a close are just a few of the literally thousands of memories you as a class will cherish. In my own mind, you are already distinguished as the class whose crowning year of college was illuminated by the American visit of Pope John Paul II. Seton Hall sent a large delegation to the Pope's Mass in Giants Stadium, and we are all a bit more blessed by his brief presence in our midst.

In closing, I also encourage you to keep the word "legacy" ever present in your mind when you think of Seton Hall. As you leave the student community, you enter the alumni community, and your Seton Hall connections — which include not only the friends you made during your time here, but also your professors, your coaches, your advisers, and every member of the staff and administration who helped you achieve your goals — remain a resource to you, now and in the future. As president of Seton Hall, I bid you farewell, but I also will look forward to your continued participation in the life of this excellent University.

Hazard Zet Forward!

President

Laura A. Wankel, Ed.D.

Dear Senior,

Congratulations on your achievement! You are now joining the proud coterie of Seton Hall University graduates who have made the transition from student to alumnus. Through you, the University continues its "Legacy of Excellence."

Your university experience has been one filled with challenge, growth and change. As a student, you have learned much about the world around you. The sum of your experiences, both in and out of the classroom, has changed you in ways that will shape your future journey.

As you look back on your time at Seton Hall and the many people whom you have met over your life, I would ask you to look at who you were when you entered, who you are now, and who you will become in the future. The changes in you might be less about how you look in the views of others, and more about the way you do your own looking now. Our hope for you as a graduate is that you will continue to grow and participate fully as a leader in both your professional and community lives. Seton Hall University graduates are people with a sense of their place in the universe. As members of a larger community, we are optimistic that you have gained the knowledge, skills and insight to move forward with a commitment to actively influence your environment. To realize it fully, you will need to engage opportunities with an expansive embrace.

While at Seton Hall University, you have witnessed many changes. The University is moving forward in its commitment to transforming the learning environment. Your voices have helped and will continue to help set the future course of the University in a new millennium. You have seen buildings and parking lots fall and rise, the emergence of many leaders within the community, and the investiture of a new president. Change is a part of our ever-turning world. We, at Seton Hall, hope that you will continue to be part of our world, and we want to continue to be part of yours.

You should move aggressively toward your vision. Often it is impossible to see how you will finally attain it. But, by moving vigorously in its direction, developing more of the skills and resources needed as you go, you will see openings to the future with each obstacle you surmount. As you look at the yearbook, I hope you will see the strength, enthusiasm and motivation that got the Class of 1996 through so many challenging assignments, readings, discussions, projects, searches, meetings, requirements, choices, hopes, fears, triumphs and mishaps — and ultimately to this wonderful point...your commencement. Keep up that momentum! Keep learning the ever-developing substance of your epoch. As we enter a new millennium, let your college education enrich all your subsequent times with wisdom and sensitivity. Approach the complexity of our time with an appreciation for the respect and civility due every person you encounter. There is strength in appreciating the diversity that surrounds us.

Seton Hall University has a rich tradition and a bright future. You are part of the University's legacy for the future. We are most proud of what we have achieved together. As you move forward from this celebration, bring your hopes and dreams into your future. Do not hesitate to question, to challenge, and to contribute to the shaping of the future as you have shaped the past. We share in your excitement and anticipate optimistically your future journey and continued relationship as an alumnus. Best wishes for success, happiness and peace in your pursuits.

IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES

The 1996 edition of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges will include the names of a select group of Seton Hall students who have proved themselves to be outstanding student leaders. Recipients of this prestigious award have not only dedicated themselves to serving the University community through extracurricular activities, but have also attained exceptional academic achievement.

The campus nominating committee reviews each applicant's personal profile and selects students who have excelled in all of the following areas: academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and potential for continued success.

The names and biographical profiles of 42 students selected by the nominating committee from among 70 applications joined an elite group of students from more than 1,800 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and several foreign nations in the annual Who's Who directory.

Again this year, 42 students from Seton Hall University were selected as national outstanding campus leaders. The 1995 nominating committee that selected these individuals included Cynthia Kane, assistant director of student activities; Danielle Ouvrard, graduate assistant; Dr. Karen Boroff, professor, Stillman School of Business; Ben Brennan, associate director of counseling; and Liz Brandefine, graduate student.

Change is the constant now, and for the foreseeable future.

Congratulations on your graduation from the College of Arts and Sciences. While your hard work and determination have earned you a diploma, you also have learned other lessons that distinguish you as graduates of Seton Hall University: that dedication to a goal brings self-satisfaction and personal esteem; that success is measured not only by grades, but also by civility, honesty and commitment; that education is a personal, as well as a professorial, responsibility; and that education is a continuing, lifelong process.

These lessons, coupled with the superb coursework you completed for your degree will allow you to be successful in an ever-changing world. In fact, change is the constant now, and for the foreseeable future. The curriculum you completed afforded new opportunities of study to help you adapt to the changing world. For example, innovative courses and programs in multiculturalism, physician assisting, physical therapy and environmental studies have recently been offered. These and many others reflect the world you will face, and assist you as you enter graduate education or the workplace during the approaching millennium.

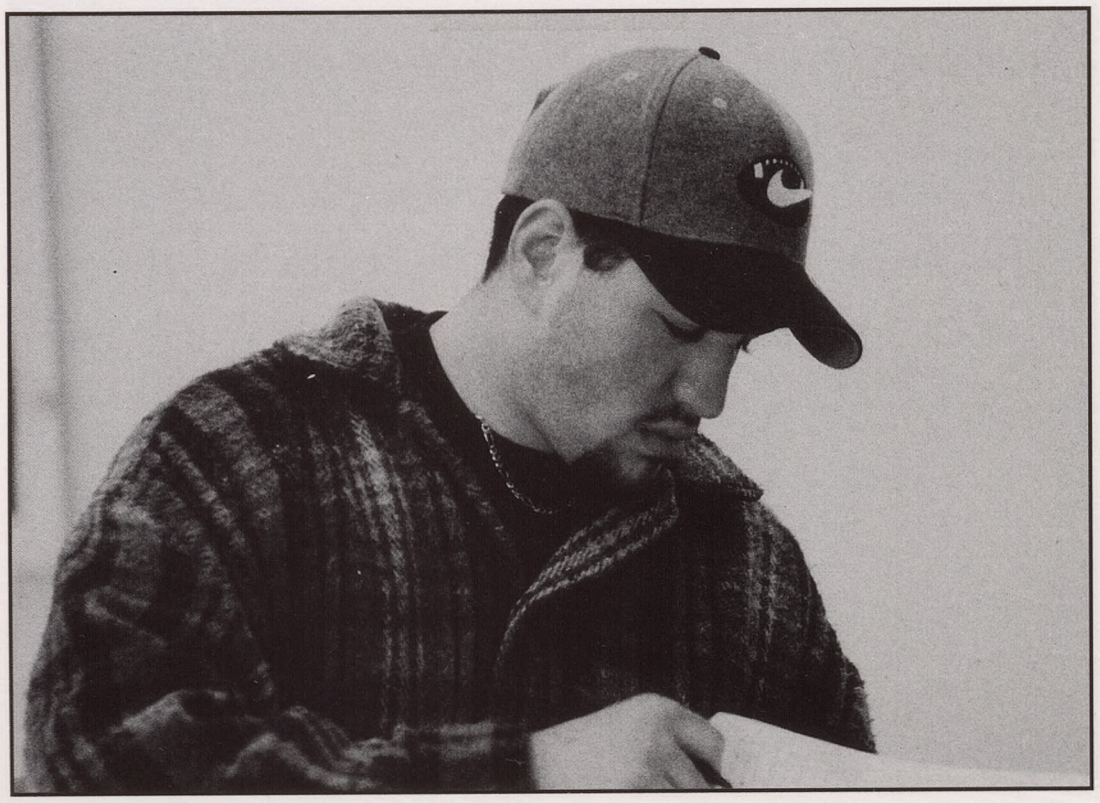

As Seton Hall graduates, you carry with you our traditions and striving for excellence. You always will be proud of your education in the College of Arts and Sciences because the faculty are, and will remain, dedicated and enthusiastic teachers and scholars. They will continue to energize and transform the learning environment as they did while you were here. During the last four years, they added new graduate programs, upgraded a myriad of new ideas and pedagogy to their disciplines. They remain on the cutting edge as authors of books and articles, and by applying for and receiving outside grants, expand the knowledge of their fields of expertise. Further, each of you has been motivated by the faculty to go into the world with confidence and the knowledge that you need to play a major role in the world in which you will live.

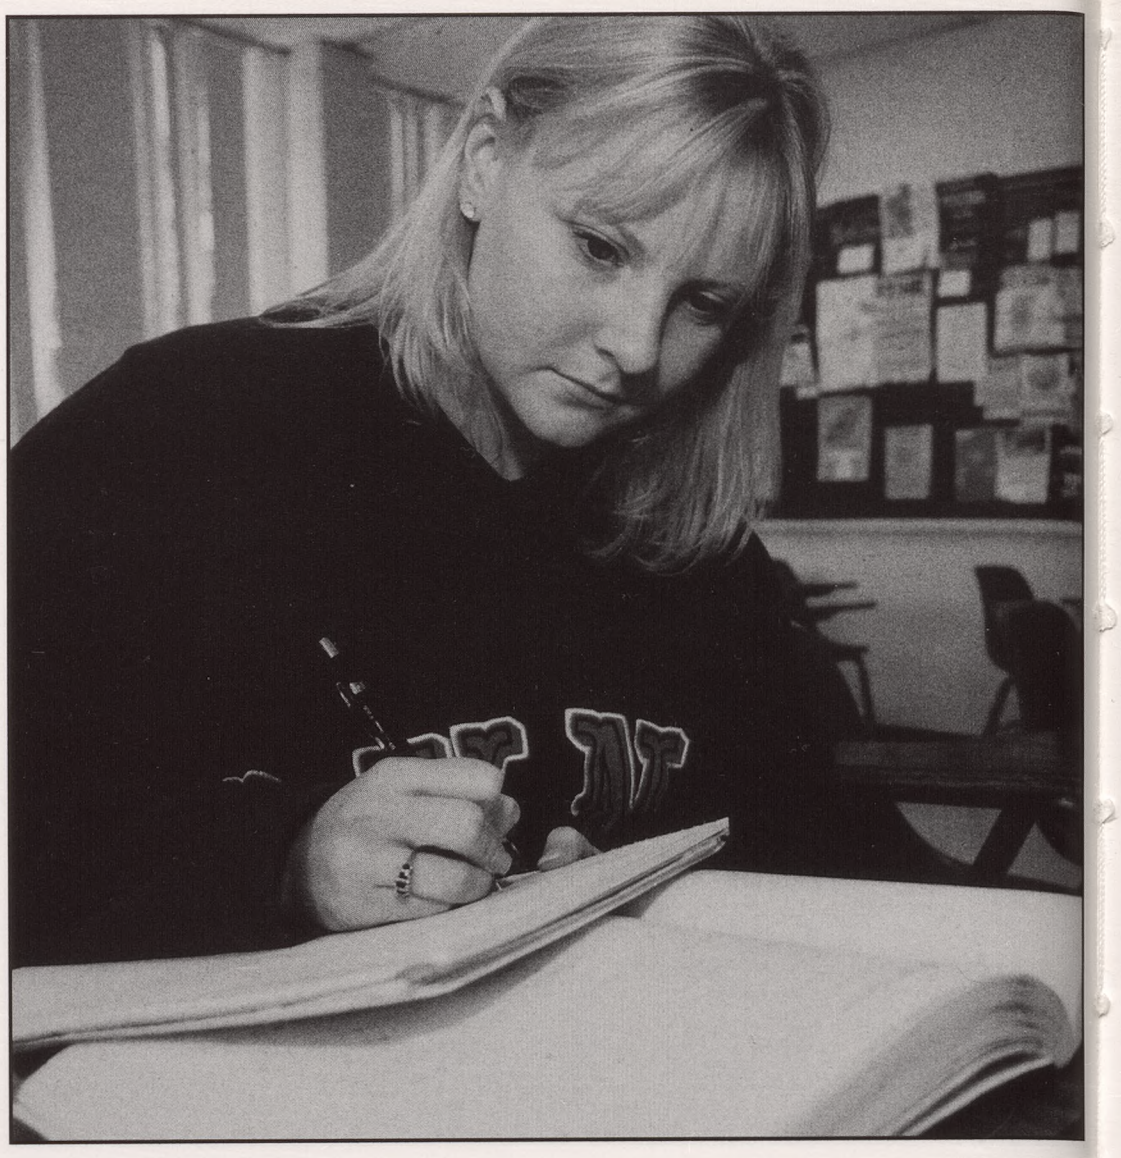

As you move forward now, and carry on the University's mission in the larger community, we expect you to participate and play a leadership role in society and your chosen profession. You will join the family of more than 60,000 distinguished graduates of our alma mater across New Jersey, the United States and the rest of the world. The faculty and staff of the College of Arts and Sciences are confident that you will excel in the next critical steps in your life. We are always ready to help you in any way that we can. The future is yours.

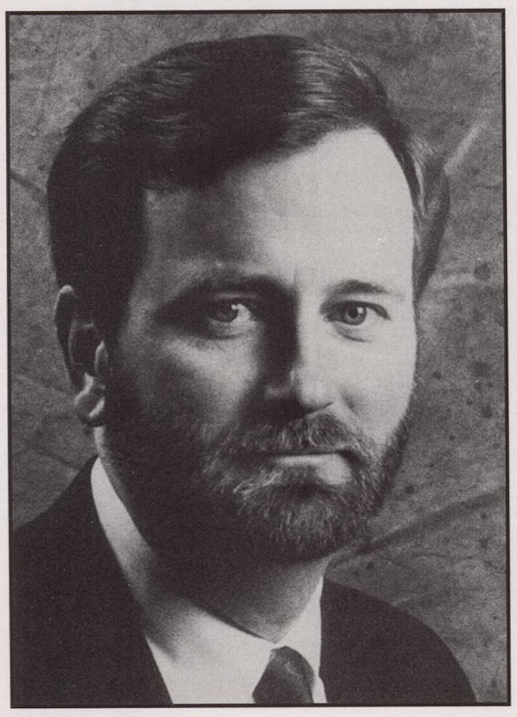

Hazard zet forward!

Congratulations, graduates!

I appreciate this opportunity to wish you my best. Exciting things are happening at Seton Hall's W. Paul Stillman School of Business, and I hope that you continue to participate as active Seton Hall alumni and honorary ambassadors.

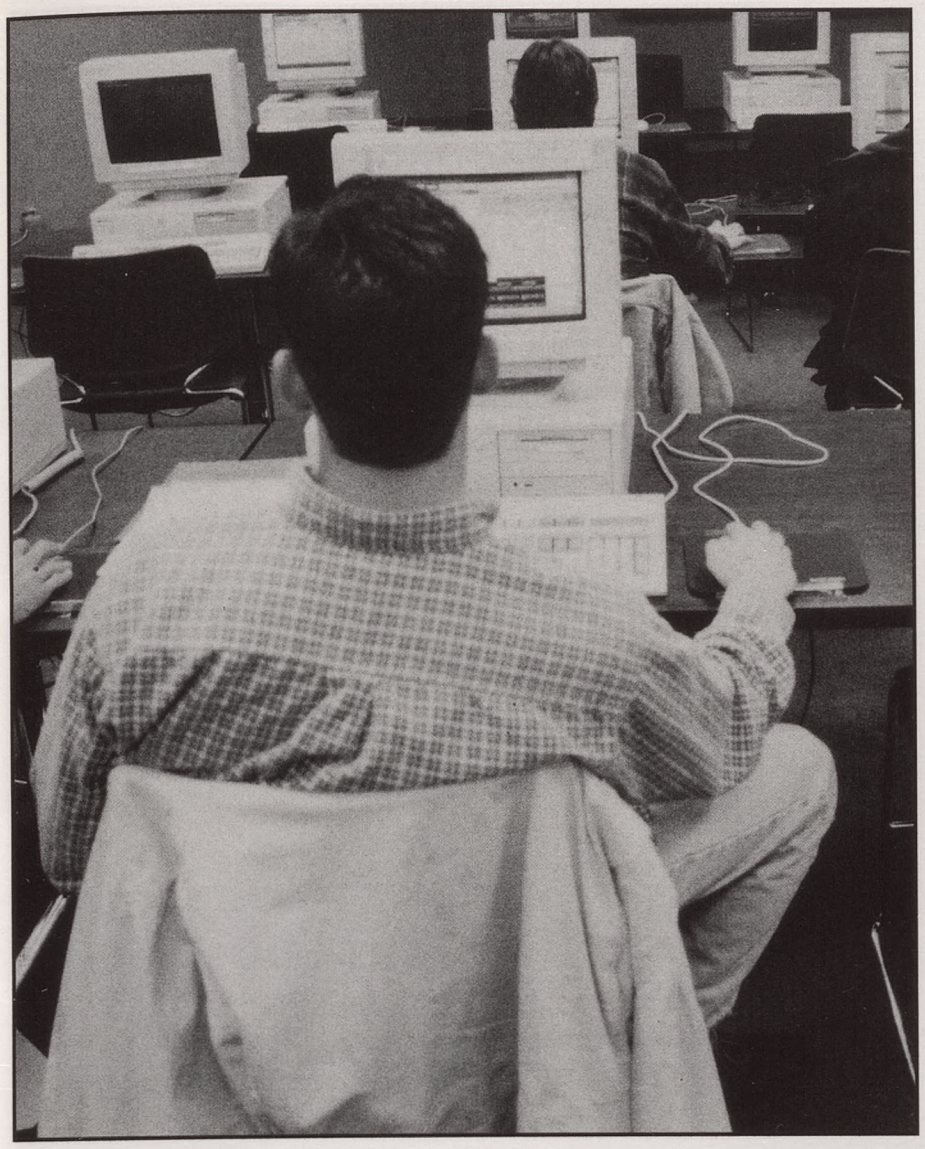

To note a few newsworthy items...

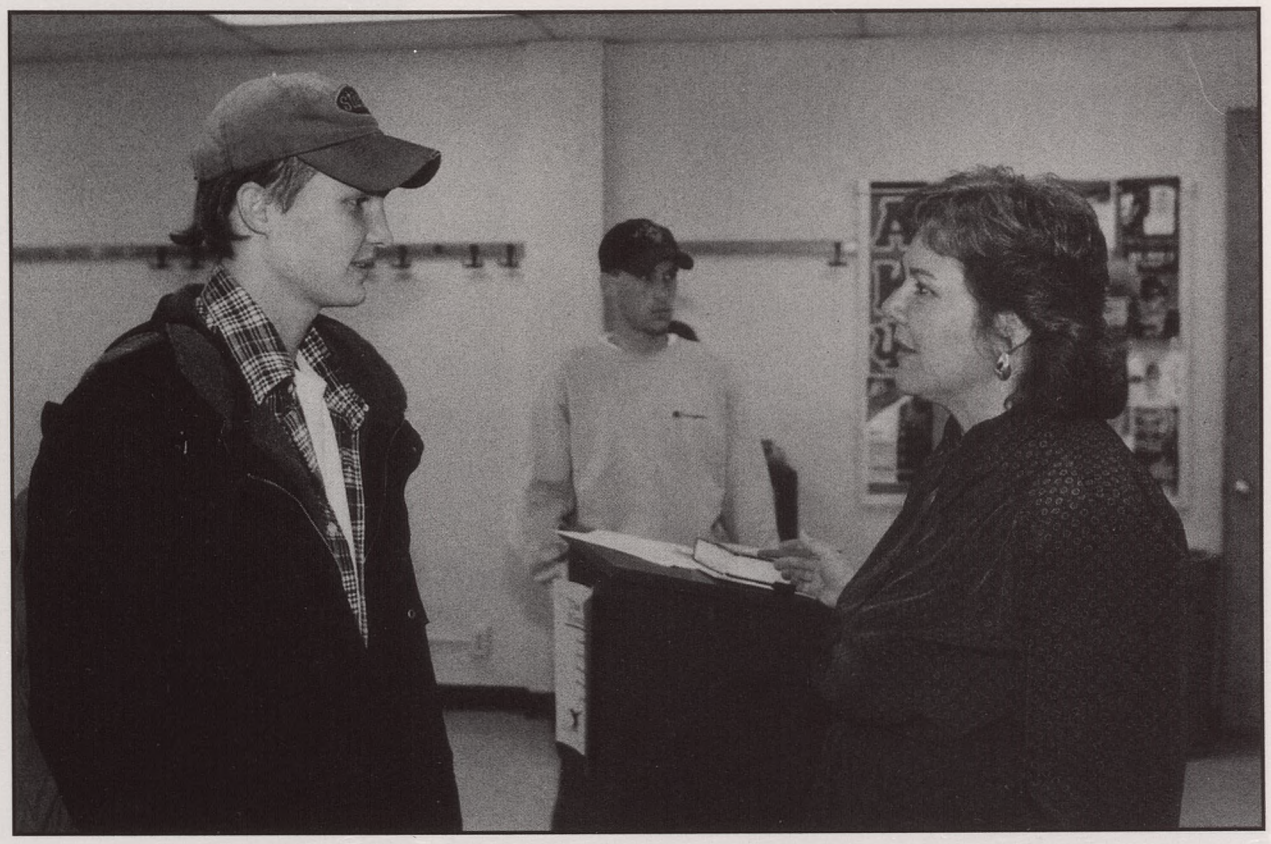

During the past few years, we earned reaccreditation through AACSB, the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. The faculty have developed a new concentration in sports management for the undergraduate and M.B.A. programs, and classes will be offered in Fall Semester 1997. Fall Semester 1996 saw the addition of five new Master of Science programs in accounting, financial planning, information systems, international business, and human resource management. These new programs will contribute substantially to the broadening of professional offerings of the School. I hope that some of you choose to stay on or return to participate in the opportunities for graduate studies.

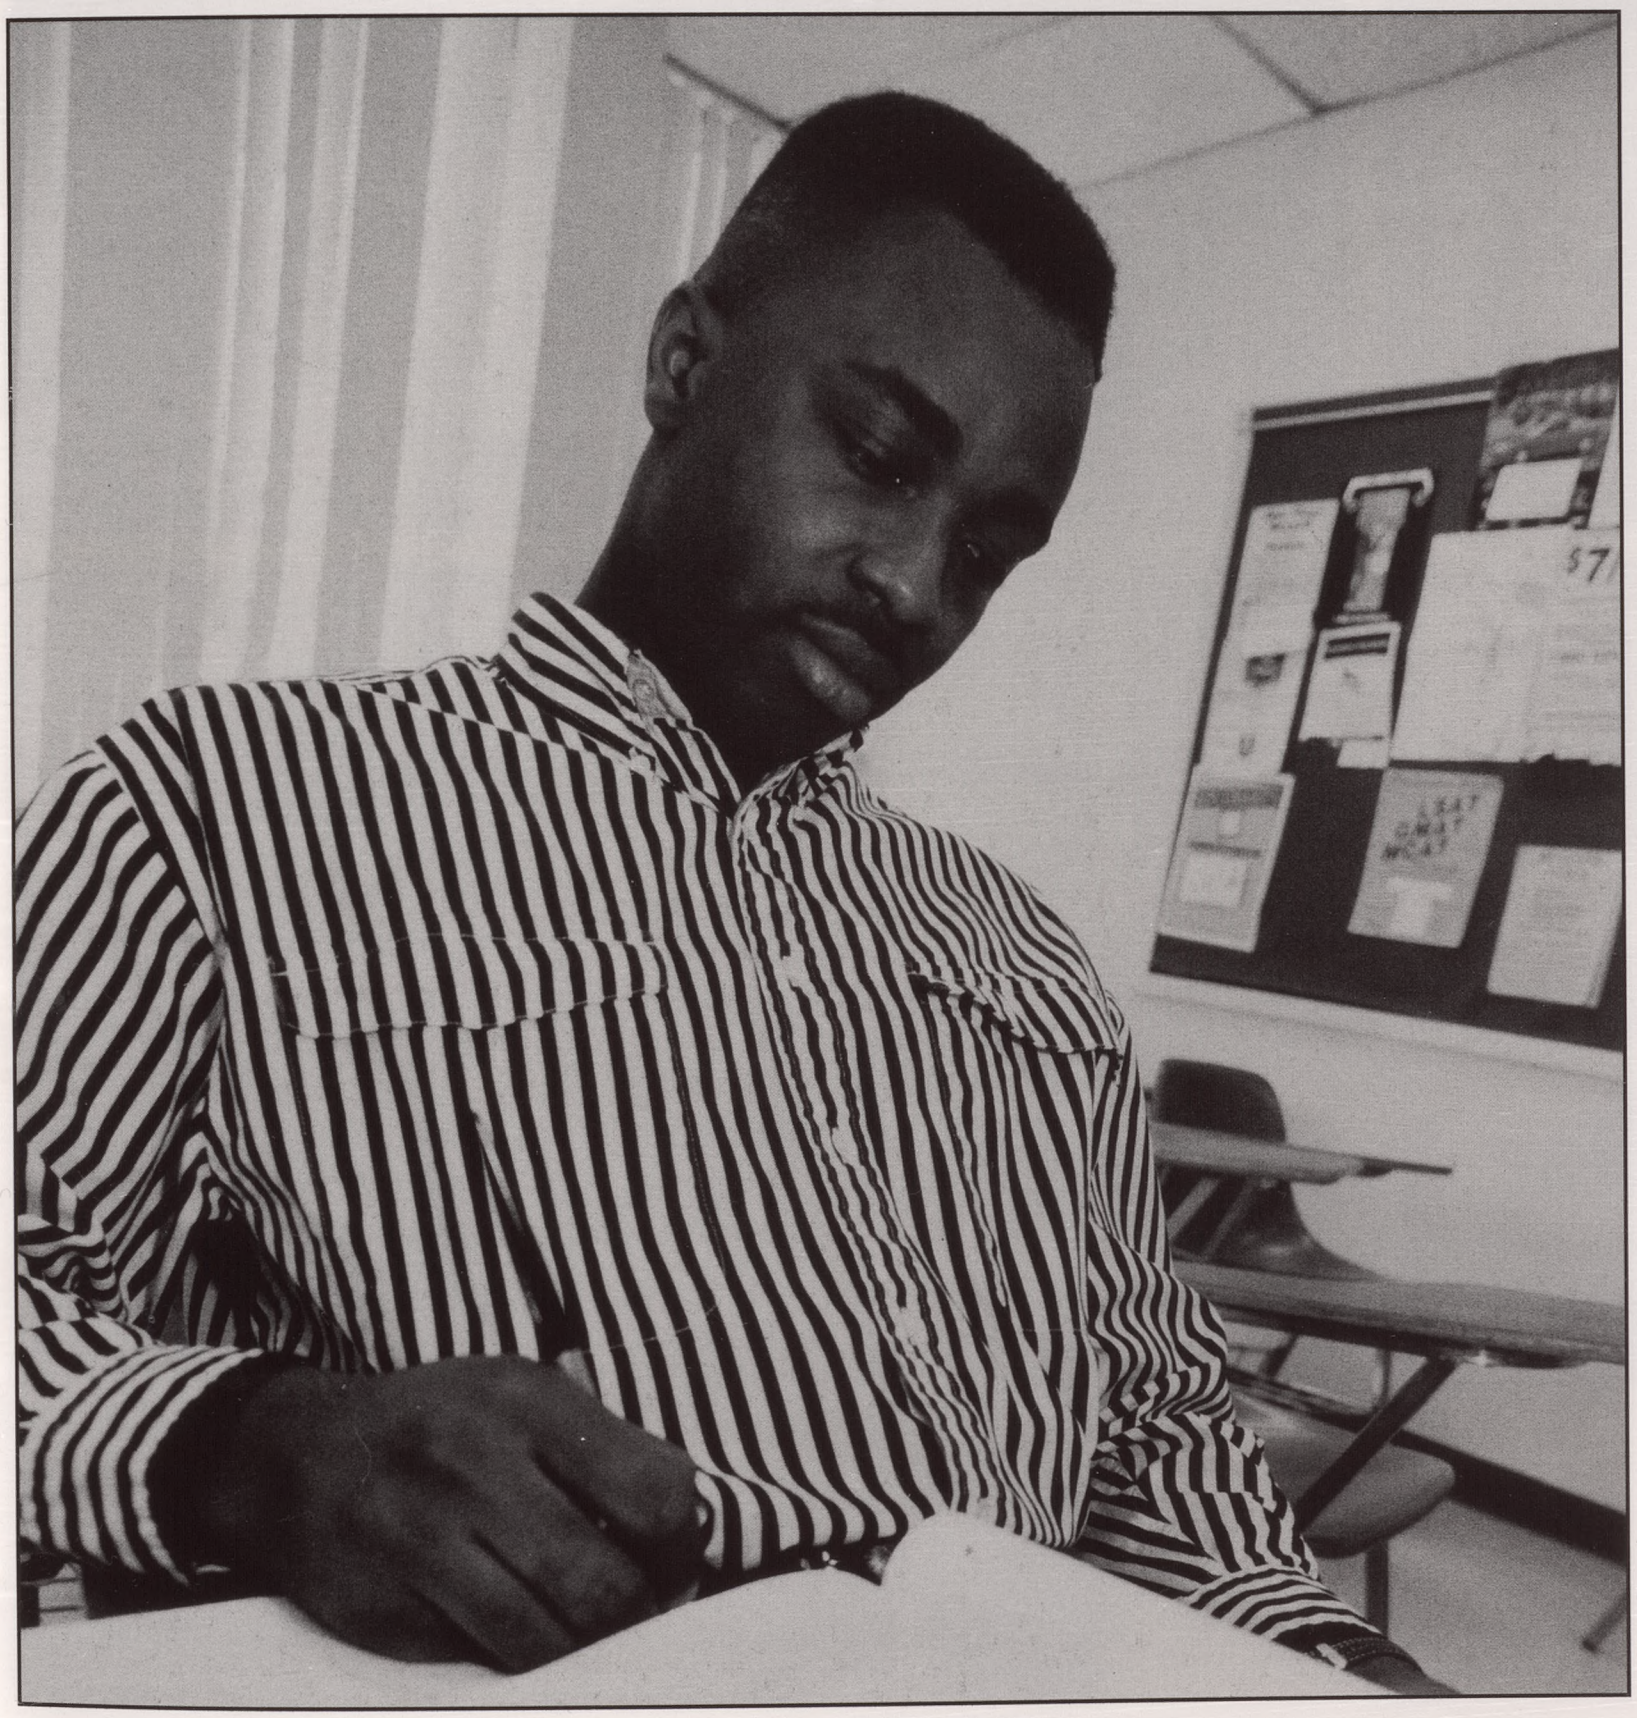

Fall Semester also saw the inauguration of our partnership with IBM to test their infrared networking technology. This test will be part of a broader project to incorporate mobile computing into the curricula of the School. This mobile computing pilot will equip the undergraduate students and faculty participating in the School's Center for Leadership Studies with IBM Thinkpads. The faculty have redesigned selected freshman courses to fully utilize mobile computing in the learning environment. This project will provide us the opportunity to plan for the transition to a fully mobile computing environment. We plan to introduce mobile computing to the Graduate School of Business during the 1997/98 academic year. At the time, we will be housed in our new state-of-the-art building.

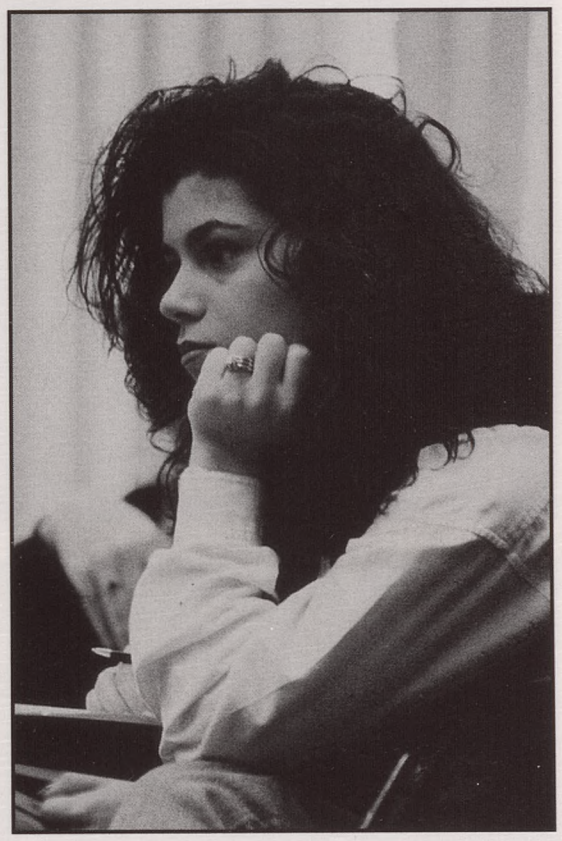

Keep in touch with us so we can share our successes with those who benefit most — our alumni. We will continue to request your input concerning ongoing efforts toward enhanced, high quality, student and alumni services. Good luck with your future endeavors.

You can inspire and motivate a new generation of learners.

Dear Class of '96:

Oliver Wendell Holmes wrote, "to be 70 years young is something far more cheerful and hopeful than to be forty years old." There is a legacy passed on from generation to generation, and like any "inheritance," it can be a very special gift. What will be the legacy of members of the Class of '96?

This year marks the 10th anniversary of NASA's space tragedy when the spaceship Challenger was transformed into a fireball seconds after its launch at Cape Canaveral. America's first teacher astronaut, Christa McAuliffe, perished in the explosion. Probably most graduates of the Class of '96 watched this tragedy with horror on television right in their classrooms like millions of other school-age children. Christa's legacy will always be remembered in her words, "I touch the future...I teach!" Her words and passion for teaching have inspired teachers and students alike. Many Christa McAuliffe scholarships have been established, and even science education centers and schools named in her memory.

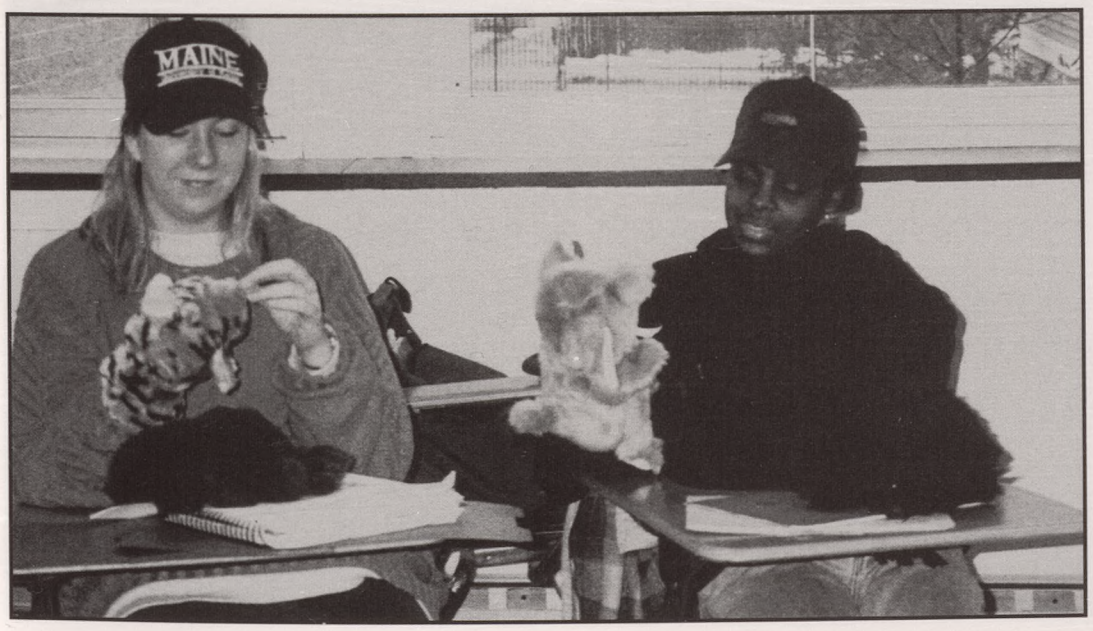

As a professional educator, your legacy may not be as public or profound as Christa McAuliffe's, but you will play an important role in the lives of young leaders. You may not have a school named in your honor, but you can inspire and motivate a new generation of learners. You can share special gifts—wisdom, love of learning, search for truth, compassion!

Although Seton Hall has trained teachers since its founding in 1856, it wasn't until 1950 that the School of Education was established. Now known as the College of Education and Human Services, we will soon celebrate our 50th anniversary in the year 2000. The legacy of generations of teachers before you will be honored next year when our new classroom and office building is dedicated. I hope you will return to "The Hall" in '97 and join with the next generation of Seton Hall teachers in celebrating our Golden Anniversary.

You are the Star Wars generation. You are the first generation of college graduates to use computers not as toys but as teaching and learning tools. While my generation of college students cruised the local downtown strip in the early 1960s looking for a good "malt shop" (remember the movie, "American Graffiti"?), your generation is now cruising the information superhighway. As you begin your career, remember that you are joining a wonderful and rewarding profession. As Yoda said to Luke SkyWalker, "May the force be with you...always!" That FORCE is your Seton Hall education!

Sincerely,
Sylvester Kohut, Jr., Ph.D.

NURSING

Barbara A. Beeker
Dean
College of Nursing

Throughout the years, the outstanding performance of the graduates of the College of Nursing has been responsible for our continuing "Legacy of Excellence."

Dear Graduates:

By the time you read this, you will have joined the thousands of Seton Hall College of Nursing graduates who have become R.N.s and are delivering high quality, professional nursing care to the clients they serve. Congratulations on your accomplishments!

Your yearbook theme, "A Legacy of Excellence, 140 Years," celebrates the accomplishments of Seton Hall since its founding. The College of Nursing is proud to be a part of that legacy. Founded in 1937, it was the first collegiate nursing program in the state. Since that time, it has maintained a reputation for excellence based on the accomplishments of our students and graduates. The deans were asked to use your yearbook theme to reflect on your accomplishments and those of the College during the past four years. Looking back, it's exciting to see the many accomplishments that have contributed to our "Legacy of Excellence."

The excellence of the nursing program was recognized by the awarding of continuing accreditation from the New Jersey Board of Nursing in January 1995. Further recognition was evidenced by the selection of the College of Nursing for the cover of Nursing Spectrum. Two members of the accelerated program's graduating class were featured in the July 10, 1995 edition. Program modifications, such as adding the Community Health nursing experience to Clinical IV, were made to prepare nursing students for the growing role of community care in the challenging health care delivery system. Computing and information technologies were further integrated into the program with the addition of computer-assisted instruction in many courses and the doubling in size of our computer lab. In the spring of 1995, a new elective course "Advanced Concepts in Adult Nursing," was offered.

Of special significance were the accomplishments of students in the College of Nursing. The Student Nurses Association offered a most successful health fair, a service to the Seton Hall and South Orange communities. The Seton Hall health fair received the New Jersey Student Nurses Association Award for Excellence for the Outstanding Community Health Project 1994-95. During 1995-96, the Association expanded its tradition of service by sponsoring a very successful blood drive and by "adopting" two poverty-stricken families for Christmas.

I am especially proud of those students who participated in the Student Nurse Advisory Program (S.N.A.P.), whose purpose is to act as a vehicle that enables nursing students to enrich one another's education through formal and informal mentoring processes. The enthusiasm and commitment of these students have made the program an outstanding success. The program has been shared at national and international conferences and serves as a model for other nursing schools to follow.

The academic accomplishments of Nursing students contributed significantly to our "Legacy of Excellence." In fall 1995, one of the largest groups ever was inducted into Gamma Nu, Seton Hall's Chapter of Sigma Theta Tau, nursing's international honor society. At the Alumni Brunch and the Undergraduate Honors Program, we recognized the academic and leadership accomplishments of many of your class.

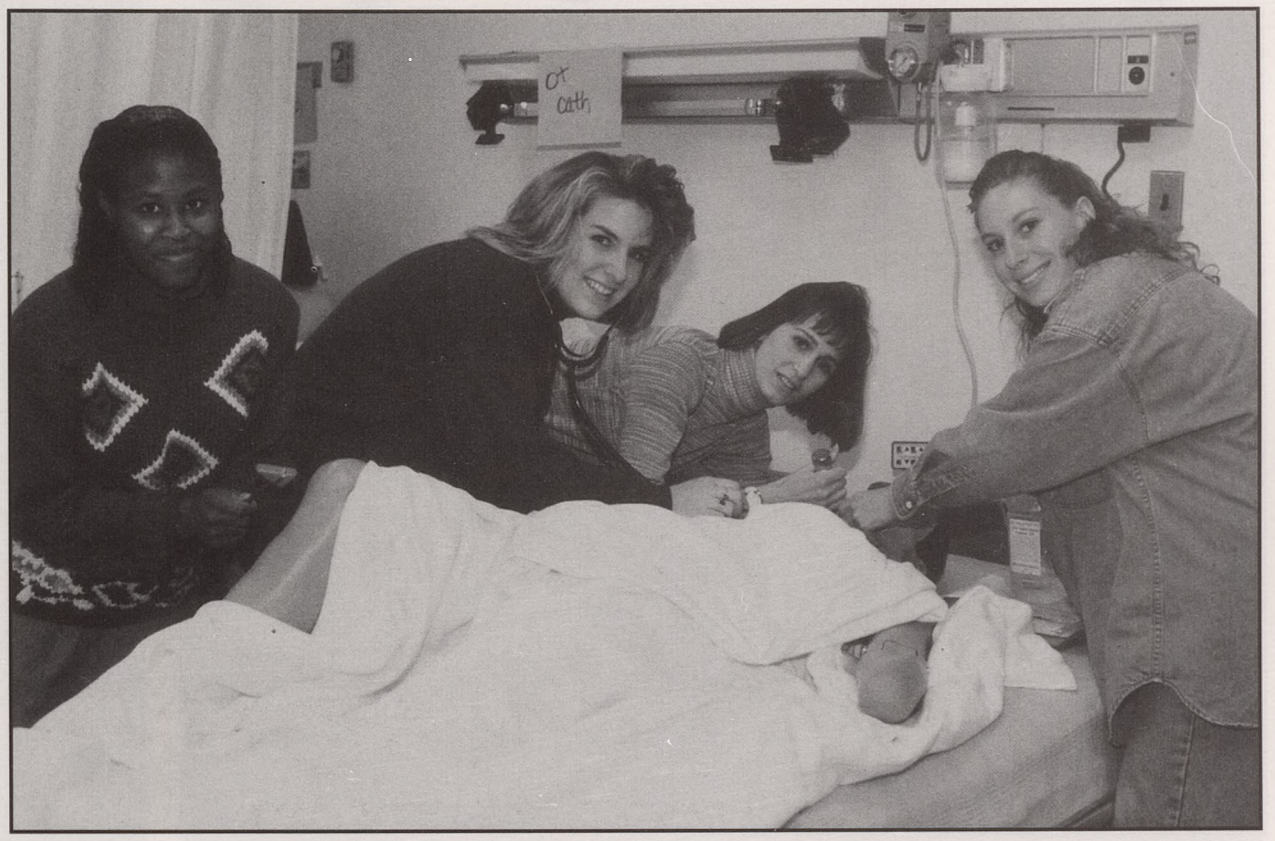

Last, but by no means least, each of you contributed to our "Legacy of Excellence" as you worked long and hard to meet the high standards set by faculty. Your accomplishments demonstrated that you had acquired essential knowledge, skills, and values needed for professional nursing practice.

Graduates of the College of Nursing are part of a very special group. Throughout the years, the outstanding performance of the graduates of the College of Nursing has been responsible for our continuing "Legacy of Excellence." We know that each of you will add to that legacy throughout your nursing career.

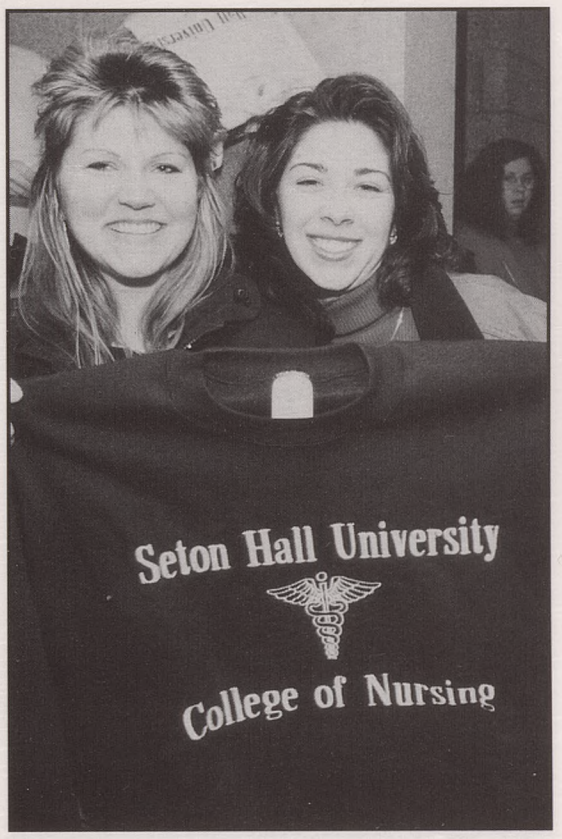

Best wishes for happiness and success.

I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies.

To the ROTC Class of 1996:

"...do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and defend the constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; and that I will obey the orders of the President of the United States and the orders of the officers appointed over me, according to regulations and the uniform code of military justice. So help me God."

As you graduate from college and the ROTC program at Seton Hall and drive out the gate for the last time, keep in mind several important thoughts. When you arrived at the University, ROTC was a vast unknown. However, you quickly learned about the military services and branches of the U.S. Army. You learned about military discipline, law, customs and courtesies. You learned how to navigate using a map and a compass. You graduated from Advanced Camp at Fort Bragg or Fort Lewis. You established a cadet chain of command, ran the battalion and realized the importance of teamwork. You have taken many AFPTs and have done push-ups and sit-ups too numerous to count. You discussed the ethics and morality of war. Words such as Battle Focus Training, Airborne, Ranger, Special Forces, the National Guard and Army Reserve, along with countless acronyms such as ASAP, AWOL, FTX, PX and STRAC, are now part of your everyday vocabulary. And, finally, you made friendships that will last you a lifetime.

The ROTC program has prepared you for what lies ahead. Some of you may make the military your chosen career field. Others will use the experience and knowledge gained to find job opportunities in other professions. Who can tell what the future will hold?

But for now, you have decided to serve your country. You have taken the oath of allegiance and have been commissioned as a second lieutenant. You will continue your military education at basic branch courses and many other schools. You will continue your preparation and training to, if necessary, fight your nation's battles. General Douglas MacArthur once said, "The soldier, above all others, prays for peace. For he/she must be prepared to make the ultimate sacrifice." But he also said:

"But, once war is forced upon us, there is no alternative than to apply every available means to bring it to a swift end. War's very object is victory - not prolonged indecision. In war, indeed, there can be no substitute for victory."

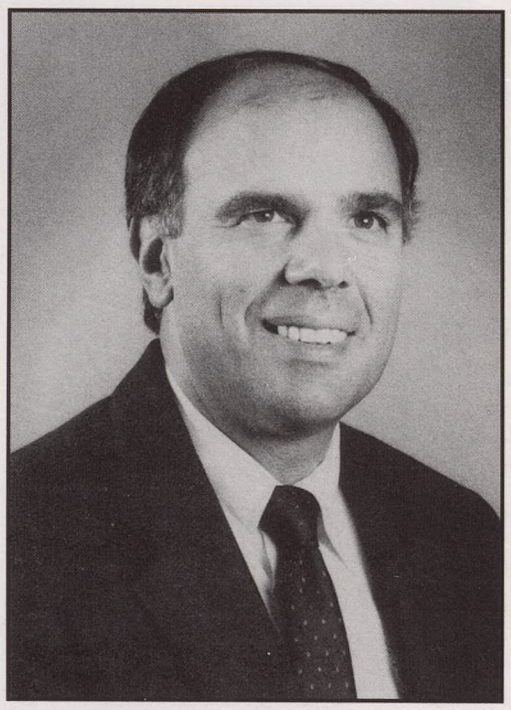

So, Class of 1996, I wish you well. The U.S. Army is a small place, and I am sure we will meet again. Take care and Godspeed.

Seton Hall . . . recognizes untapped potential in students .

Dear Class of 1996:

Seton Hall University will always have special meaning for me, as I am sure it will for you. It was here that I discovered the intellectual side of myself, which, at the time, I was more likely to deny than to admit. When I was a youth growing up in the city, it was through ability in sports and/or aptitude for mischief that peers measured the success of one another. Academic ability was a liability not an asset. An insightful and caring Seton Hall history professor radically changed this mindset for me, and in the process, forever altered the direction of my life.

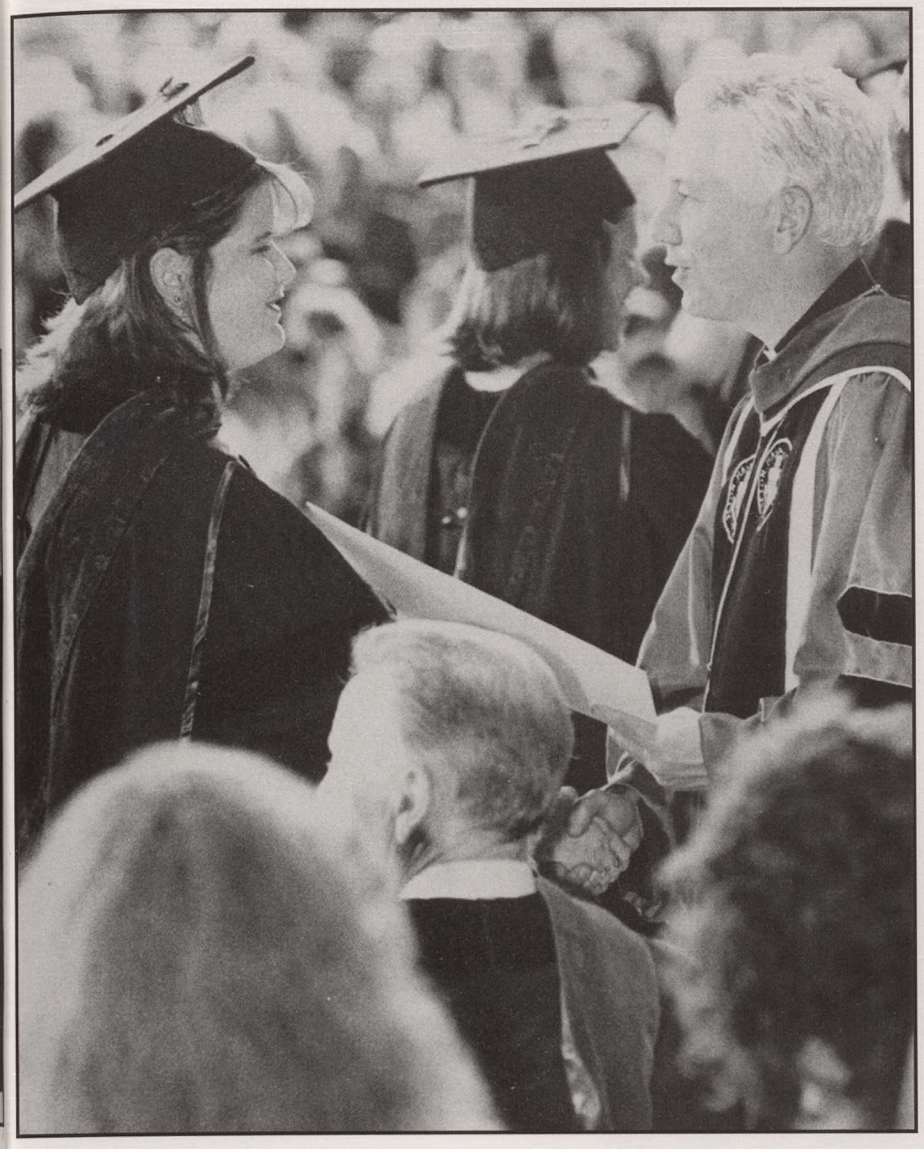

I frequently reflect on my days as an undergraduate and law student at Seton Hall. I realize that but for my Seton Hall education, I would not have those things in life that are important to me – family, friends and the ability to make life better for others. These are the precious gifts that you have the opportunity to gain, thanks to your own Seton Hall experience.

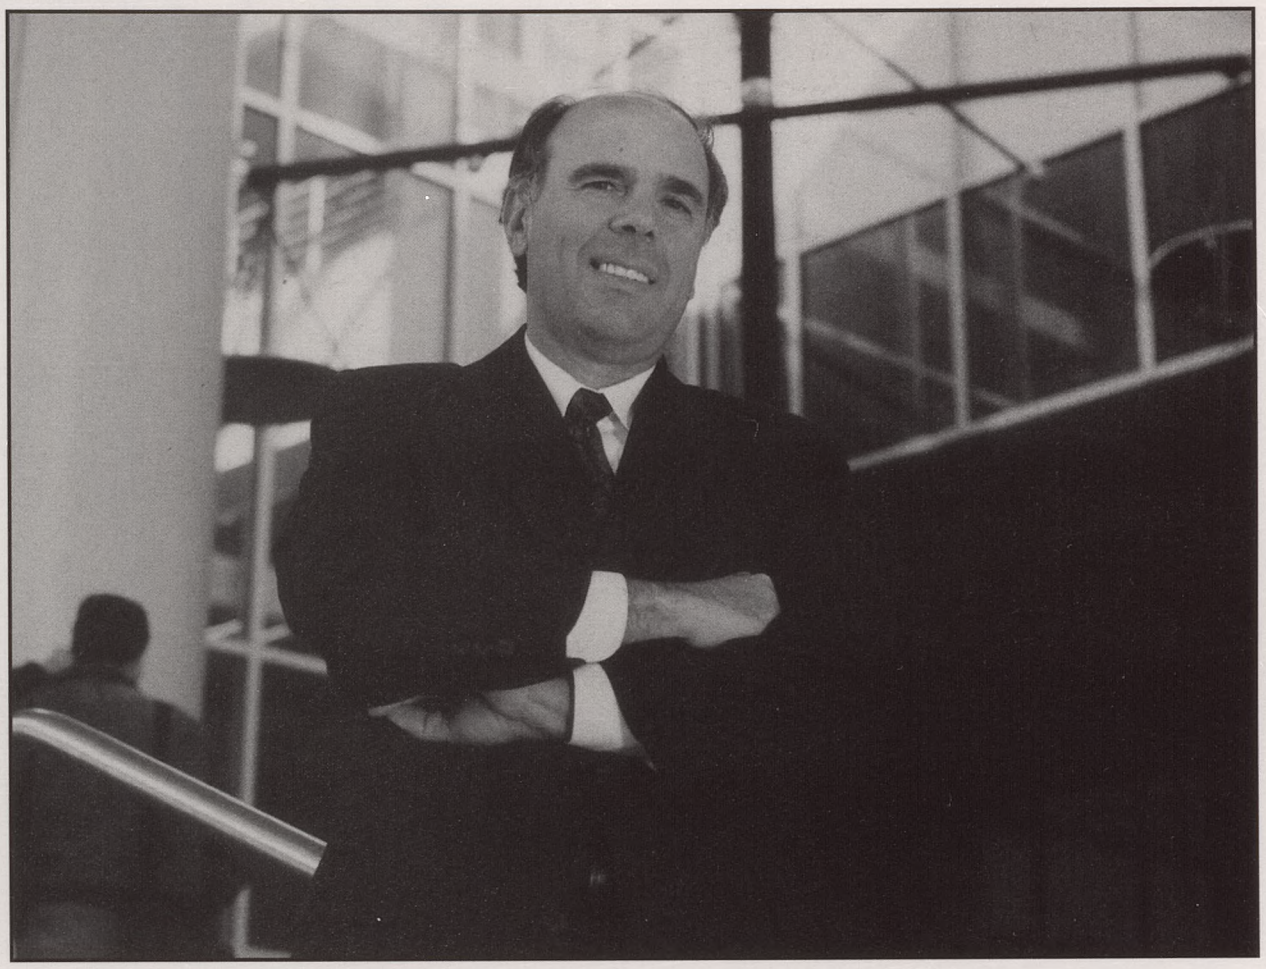

Wherever I go, I am frequently asked, "What makes Seton Hall so special?" My answer is always the same – we successfully combine a rigorous educational program with respect and sensitivity for our students. The result is that our law students and alumni are very happy with our school in all of its many dimensions. This comes as no surprise to me. Seton Hall has long maintained a reputation as an institution that recognizes untapped potential in students, demands that they reach their potential, but extends a helping hand when they stumble. We are rigorous, but we are also collegial and friendly.

The success of our great University is the product of years of effort by thousands of ordinary people doing the extraordinary. In your own life, like that of an institution, you should know that true success is earned, not given. There is no substitute for hard work, integrity and honesty. And please remember, while it is gratifying to receive material rewards for a job done well, this is not the criterion of success. So my wish for each of you is success, the same kind of success our University has enjoyed. Not success which is ephemeral, but success which is timeless, the kind which will, in the words of Emerson, allow you "to laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children...to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others; to leave the world a little better...to know even one life has breathed easier because you lived."

Congratulations and best wishes for a bright future.

Jesus Christ calls men to be His partners.

To the Graduation Class of 1996:

The future is, to a greater degree than we may think, under our influence. Like the past and the present, the future will be largely the result of decisions we make. These decisions include our response to God, our willingness to work hard, our kindness and compassion toward others.

The sands of time will flow with or without our influence. We are participants in the mystery of time. But we know with the certainty of faith that life is good, that it can be holy, and we can use the mystery of time to know and love the Creator who trusts us so with the world's goods.

The College Seminary of Seton Hall University endeavors to make the best use of this time. Our young men are wiser than many their age, because they are consciously striving to do what some run from. That is, they are seeking God's will and His vocation in their lives. Jesus Christ calls men to be his partners in saving souls. He offers the gift of the holy priesthood to certain individuals, giving them the additional burden and glory of working with Him.

You may think this does not apply to you, but it does. Every human must face the centrality of time, the presence of the Lord's providence in his or her life. I hope Seton Hall University will always be able to answer the haunting questions: Where is God leading me? How can I excel in the present moment so the future will be influenced for good? How can I, whether priest or layperson, make Christ more visible in our broken world?

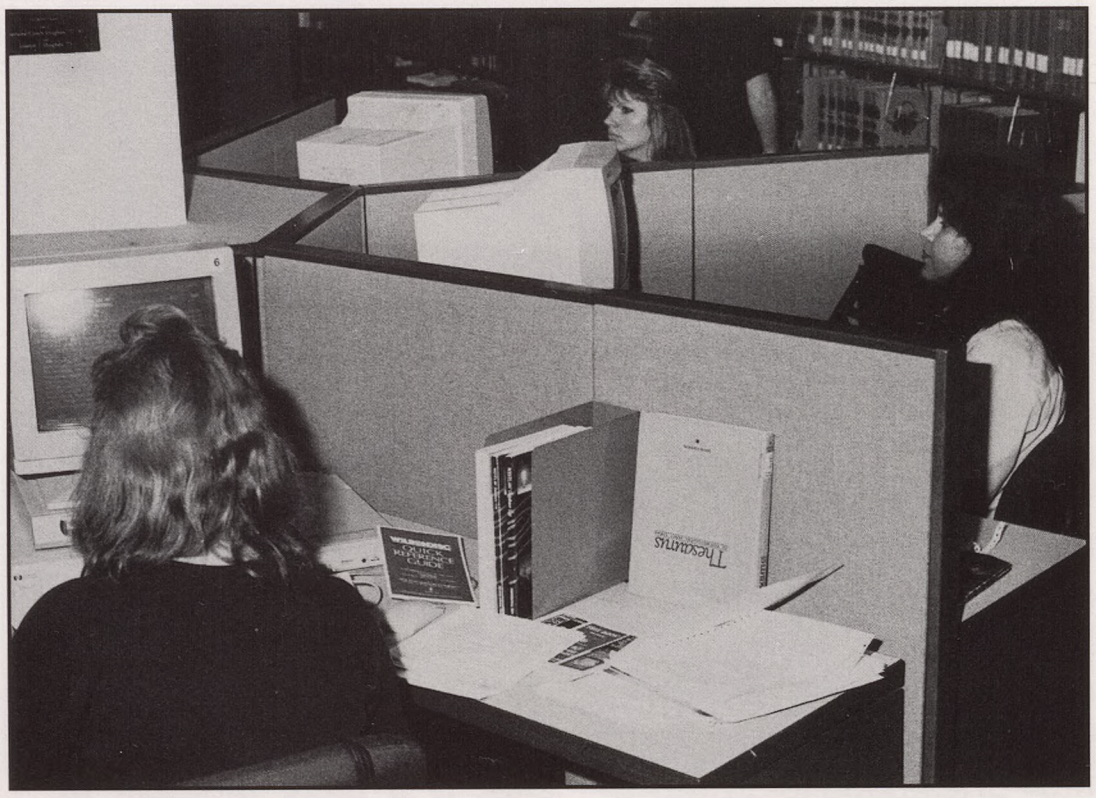

You have now left the University that proudly bears the name of St. Elizabeth Ann Seton. She put time to good use. She influenced the future, and we are among the beneficiaries. The Seton Hall experience is a mere moment in your life, but I hope it is a moment that, in the mystery of time, need never end. You have received a college education. Statistically, only one person in 100 on the earth can say that! It must make you more complete and fulfilled. You must improve things on this earth!

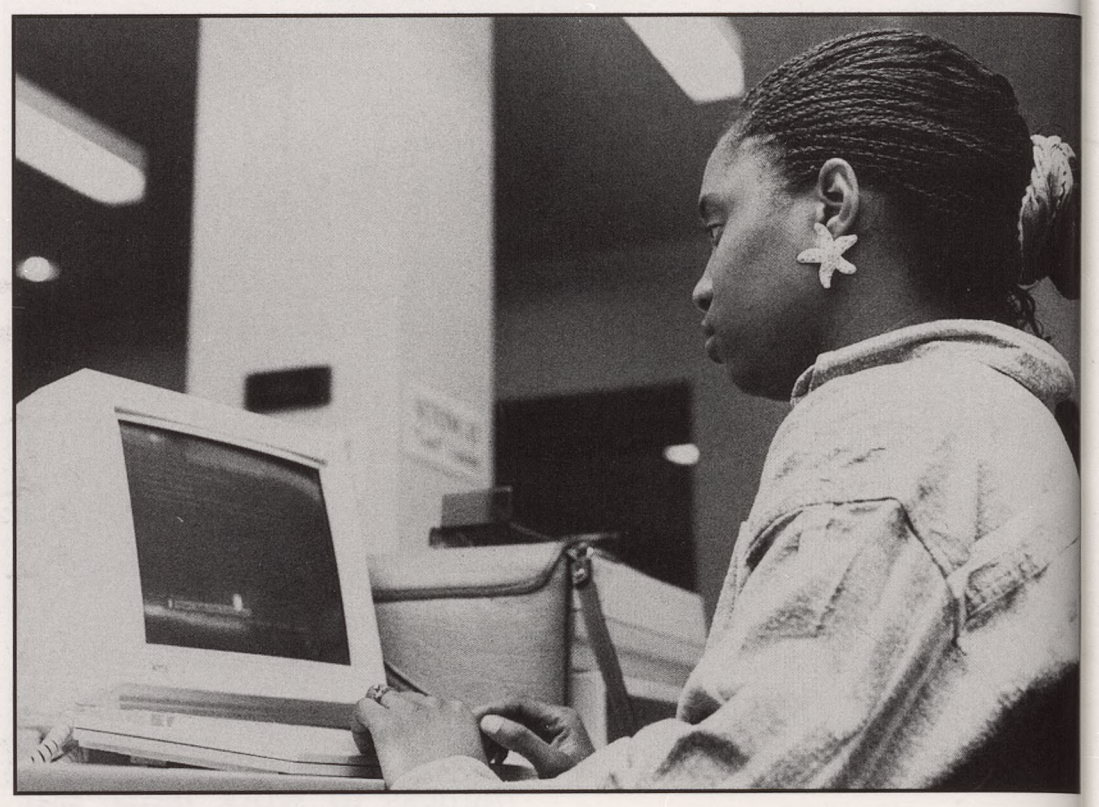

The future is under our influence. With Jesus, His Church, and our intellect to guide us, the future is bright indeed.

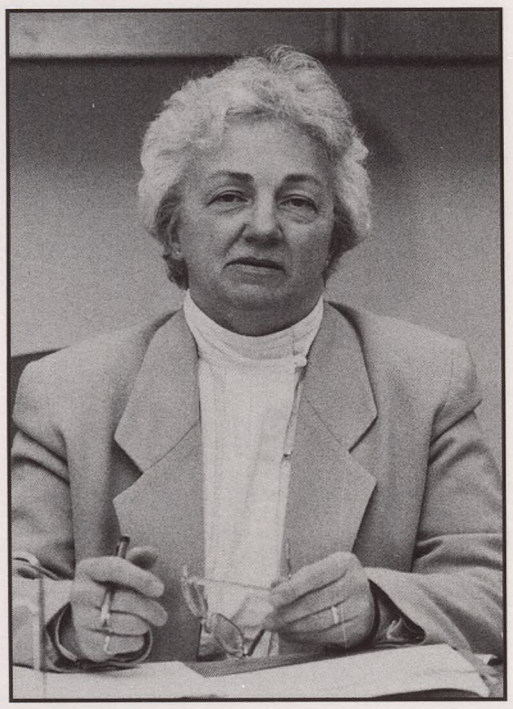

FROM THE RECTOR

WALSH LIBRARY

Sister Anita Talar, R.S.M.
Acting Dean of University Libraries

Dear Members of the Class of 1996:

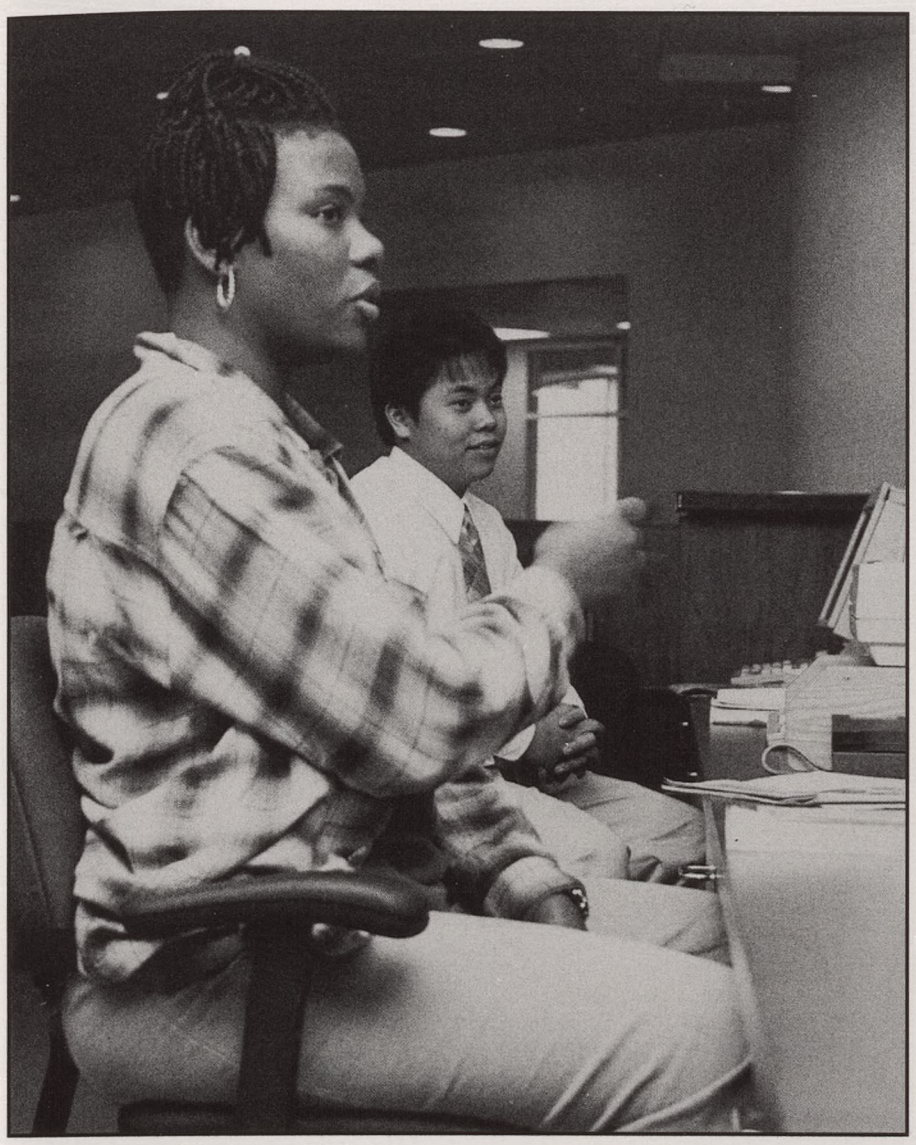

As you read this letter, graduation and years spent at Seton Hall University will be among your memories. You will have this yearbook with its photographs and text to serve as reminders of an important era in your lives. Your years at Seton Hall have brought you to a turning point. Many of you have switched majors two or three times in your quest to find the right niche. One thing has remained constant — the ability to change and adapt! And you will notice that Seton Hall has been no stranger to change during this period.

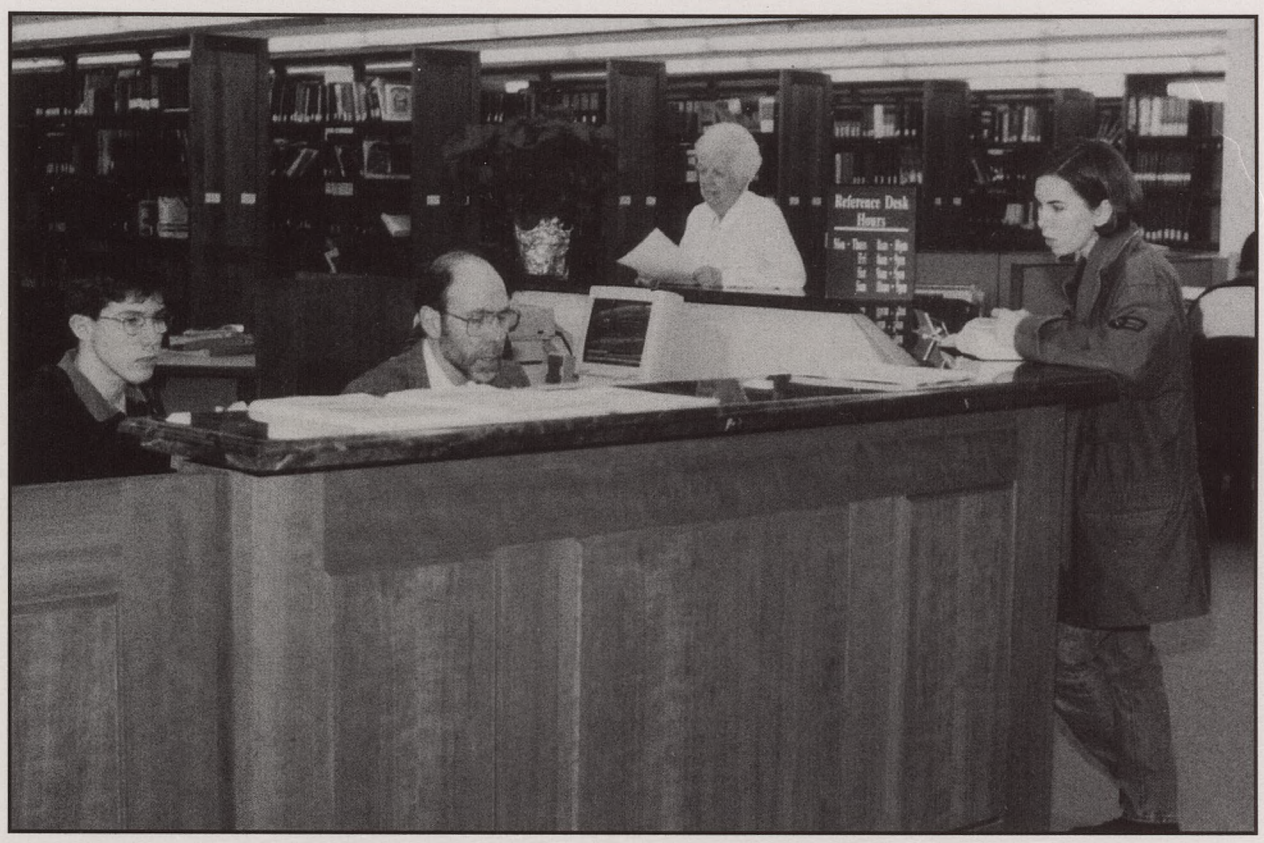

When most of you arrived on campus, Walsh Library was but a huge hole in the ground. In addition to new classes and new friends, you learned to deal with heavy construction equipment and frequent detours around campus. A crowded McLaughlin Library offered very little space in which to study, so you found other areas and looked forward to the completion of the promised "jewel" of the campus. On August 29, 1994, we opened the doors of Walsh Library in time for your junior year. Regardless of your choice of major and your course requirements, you probably made use of the new library.

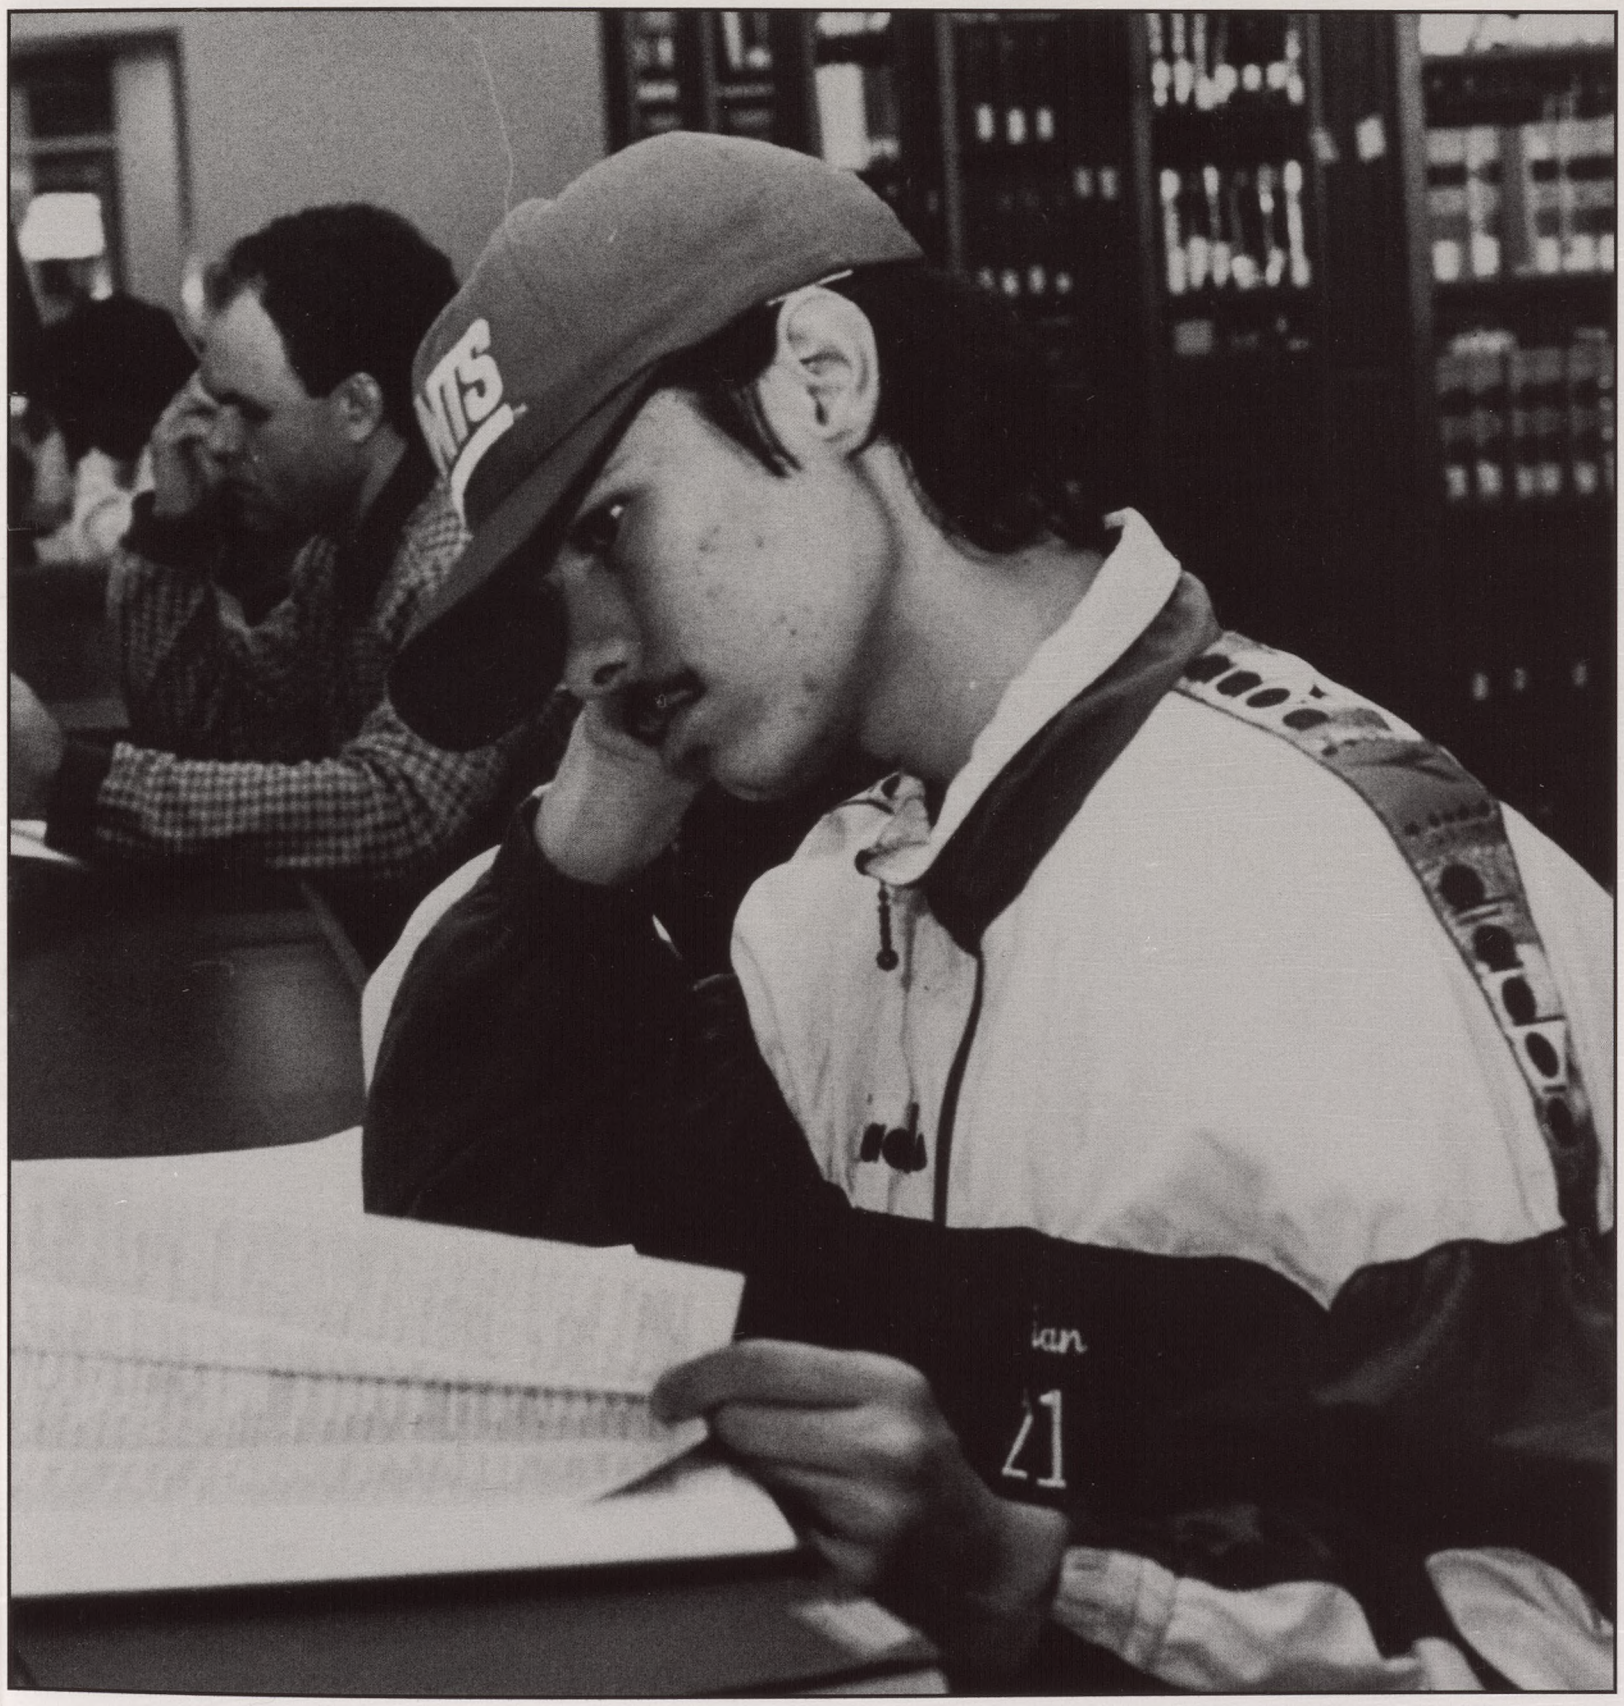

As our newest alums, you are invited to continue using the library as you progress in your choice of profession. Your alumni card will permit borrowing of materials, and we encourage you to take advantage of the extensive resources we have. Library skills are an important tool of lifelong learning. Whether you are using Walsh Library at Seton Hall, or a public library in your hometown, you will find that libraries are friendly places and a constant source of information. Know that we at Seton Hall are always ready to offer assistance.

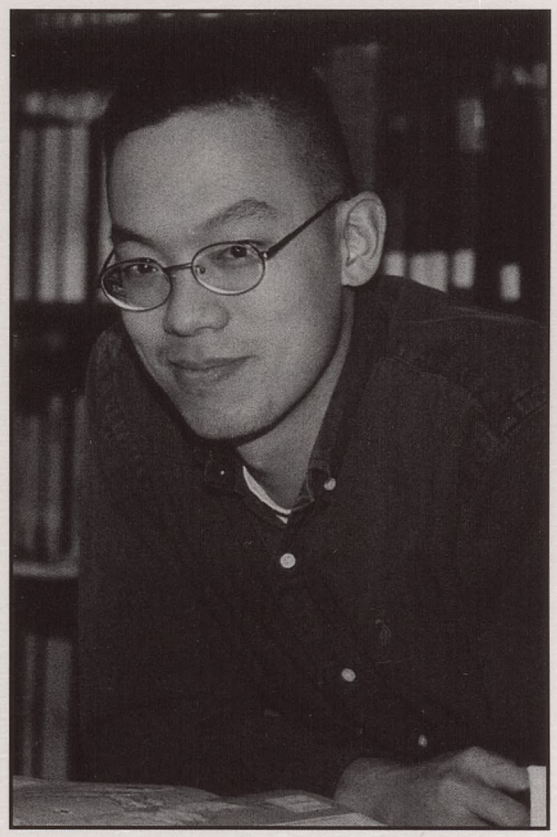

Congratulations, and best wishes in all your future endeavors!

Reference Desk
Hours

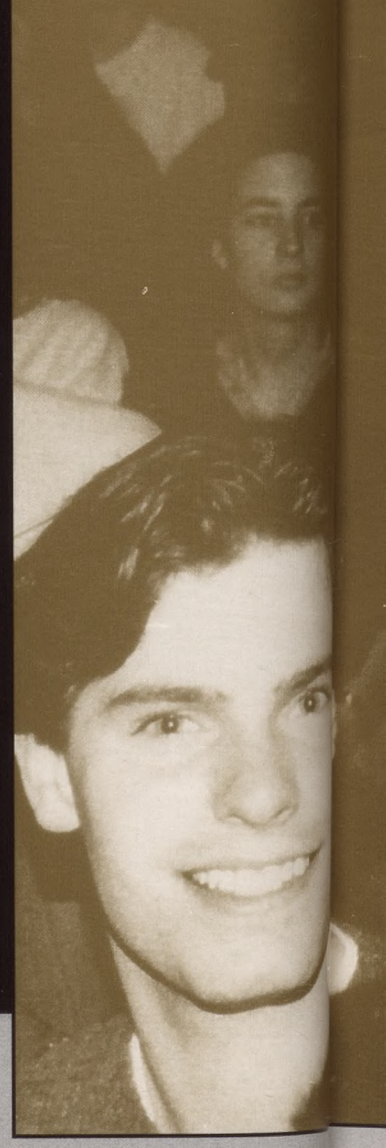

As early as freshman year, we realized that our college experience extended far beyond the class room. It was the various clubs and organizations that we participated in that allowed us to take full advantage of what Seton Hall had to offer us.

While many of us assumed leadership positions, we began to understand the tremendous responsibilities that we assumed. We were no longer regarded as students, but rather as leaders among our peers. We found ourselves scheduling meetings, inductions, trips, lectures and the occasional holiday party. Many times we sacrificed those few hours of sleep or that time we should have been studying for an exam or writing a paper, but in the end we knew it was worth it. Our hard work not only made our life at Seton Hall a little more memorable, but it also influenced the lives of all of those with whom we came in contact. Whether we participated in Student Government, Pirate Television, the Black Student Union, the Student Activities Board or the Accounting Club, each of us gained the opportunity to mature in our leadership skills, and to meet others with similar interests. For that, each of us should be thankful!

There is nothing so fond as that of a memory of a friend. Many of our closest friendships grew in the clubs we were a part of over the four years that we were the heart of the Seton Hall community.

Athletic competition has been a major part of the Seton Hall experience almost since the very beginning of the University 140 years ago, and 1996 was no exception. This year's athletes posted number of team and individual accomplishments which added to the proud tradition of Pirate athletic excellence.

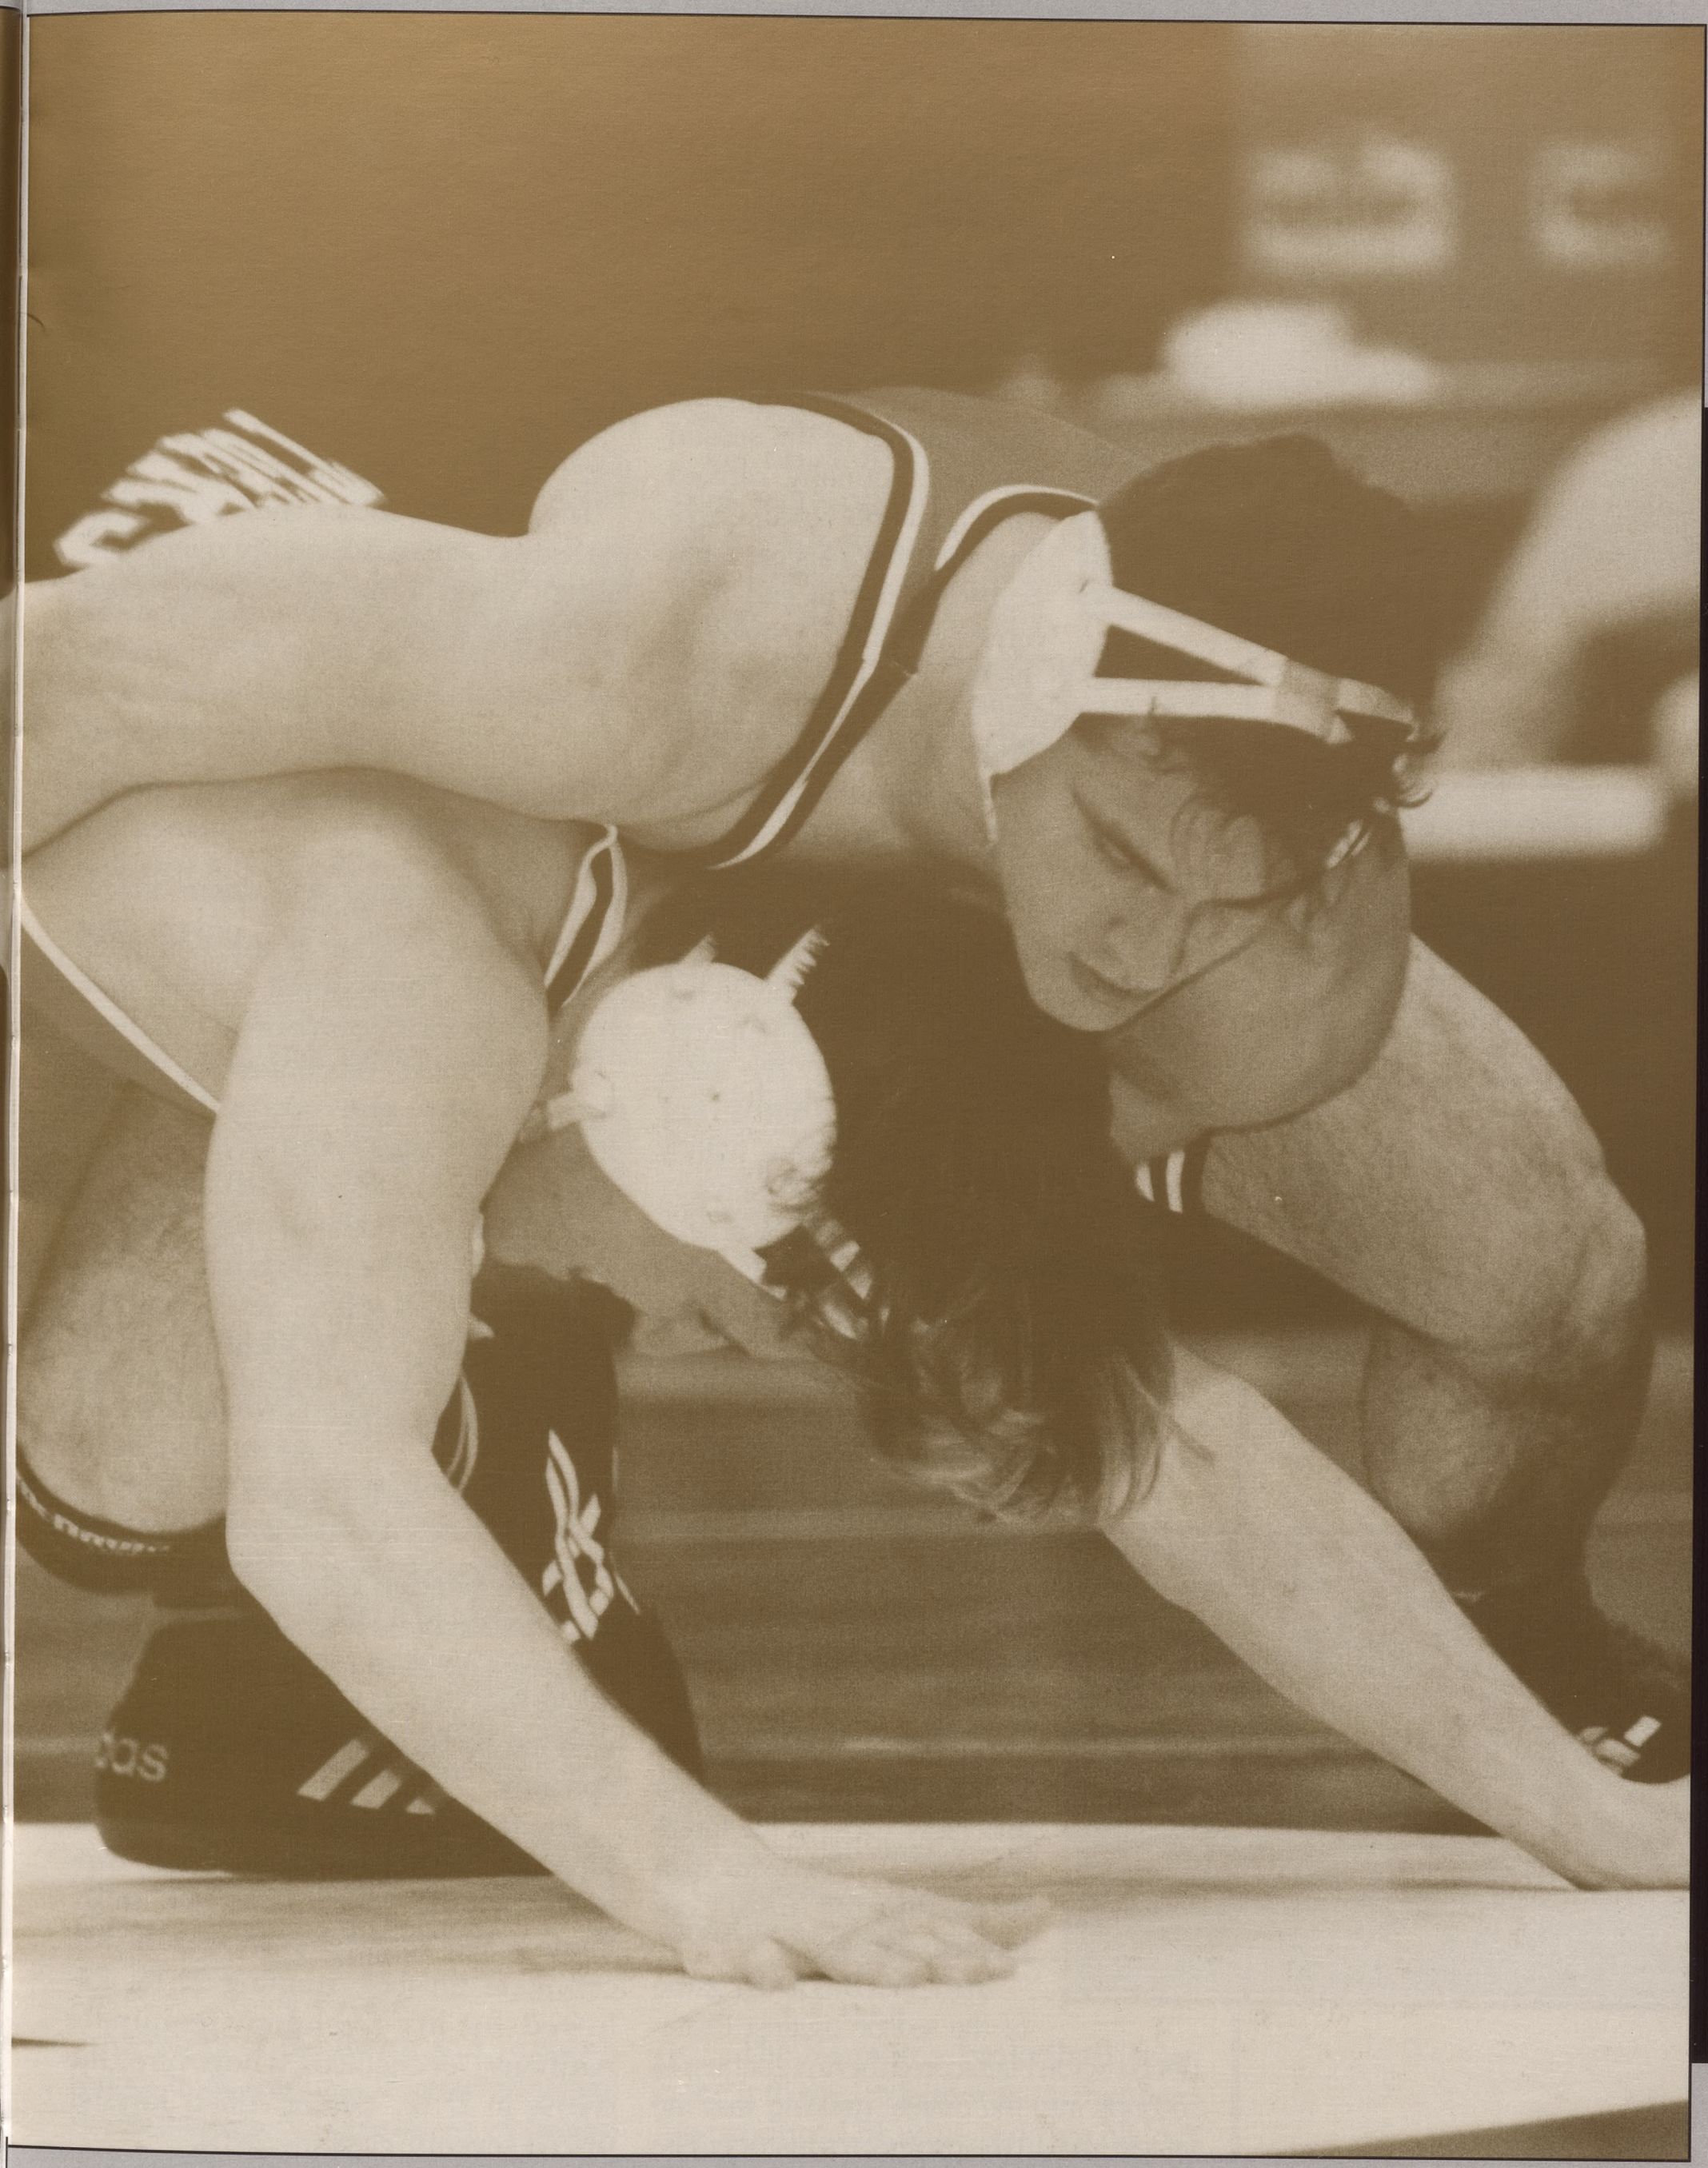

The women's soccer team, in only their second year of play, set a new high for victories in a season with nine, more than doubling their win total from a year ago. The men's soccer team was nationally ranked for five consecutive weeks, and notched a major upset with a victory over Penn State. But it was the women's cross country team that garnered the greatest achievement during the fall semester. The harriers claimed the University's first-ever women's New Jersey College Title, and finished fourth at the E.C.A.C Championships where all five runners achieved a personal best time.

The women's basketball team fashioned a respectable 16-13 record, and won two games in the BIG EAST Tournament before falling to Notre Dame in the semi-finals. The men's basketball team concluded the season at 12-16, but managed a major upset over nationally ranked Syracuse, a team that went all the way to the final game of the NCAA Tournament.

Spring saw Albert Royster qualify for the NCAA Championship and the Olympic trials for his fine showing in the 800 meter run. All in all, it was a year to be proud of.

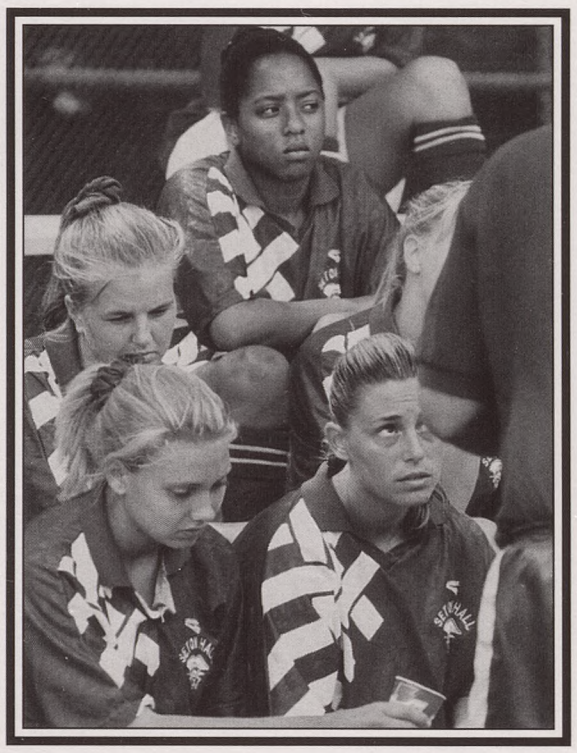

Athletics

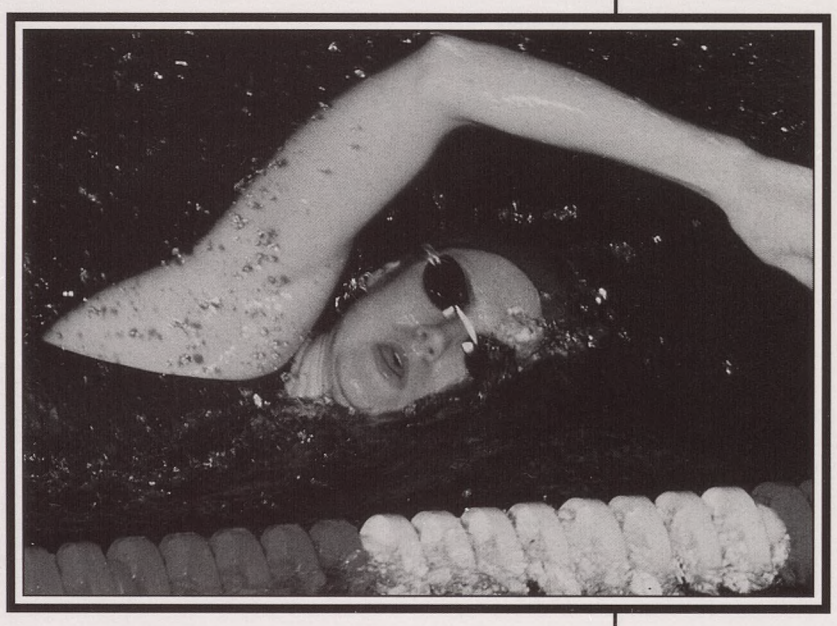

The Year in Sports

Despite losses in the first two matches of the season against nationally ranked Maryland and North Carolina, the men's soccer team bounced back to end their campaign with a 10-7-2 record and a trip to the BIG EAST Tournament.

The Pirates, who were nationally ranked for five consecutive weeks, dented the records of several top-ranked teams. The Pirates upset twelfth-ranked Penn State (2-1) in Seton Hall's first victory over the Nittany Lions since 1991.

The Pirates later earned a 4-1 victory over Notre Dame in the BIG EAST Conference opener, and they tied (1-1) their longtime rival, fourth-ranked Rutgers. The team clinched its ninth BIG EAST Tournament appearance in the last 10 seasons with a hard-fought (1-0) victory over St. John's.

The team concluded its 1995 season in a dramatic first-round game in the BIG EAST Conference Tournament, losing to Pittsburgh 4-3.

• • • • •

In only its second year of existence, the women's soccer team went 9-8-1 on the season and more than doubled the total number of victories won in the 1994 campaign.

Seton Hall jumped to a 2-0 record with victories over Iona and Holy Cross at the Pirate Invitational. The team then secured three BIG EAST Conference victories.

In the first BIG EAST game of the season against Providence, Seton Hall scored the first goal just 44 seconds into the match, making this the fastest goal in the program's history. The Pirates defeated Providence 2-1.

The Pirates also defeated Boston College (1-0) and Georgetown (2-1).

The women's soccer team completed the season with a 2-1 victory over Manhattan College, earning a winning record for the first time ever.

• • • • •

The volleyball team, which graduated three starters in 1994, opened the 1995 season with difficulty but was able to come back and finish 14-17.

The Pirates began at the Louisville Invitational Tournament, where they dropped all three tournament matches.

However, they rebounded the following week when they opened the home portion of the regular season with the 1995 Spikefest. The Pirates defeated Long Island, Iona, LaSalle and Buffalo as they swept the competition for the fifth straight year.

In BIG EAST action, Seton Hall defeated Rutgers 3-0. In addition, the Pirates defeated West Virginia (3-1) and Boston College (3-0).

• • • • •

For the women's cross-country team, this was one of its best seasons yet. For the men's cross-country team, this was a rebuilding year as they looked to fill the void left by BIG EAST champion Bryan Spoonire.

The men had their best finish at the Monmouth Invitational where they captured the team title in a one-two finish. Pirate senior Pascal Bernier was the top collegiate finisher, running 27.16, followed by his freshman teammate Anthony DeBenedictis, who covered the course in 27.17. Senior Albert Royster placed seventh, clocking 28.04.

The women took their first-ever title at the NJ College Championships. They totaled 33 points behind three top-10 finishes, including a tie between sophomore Violet Blake and freshman Marissa DeFreese. Both crossed the line in 19:56, but Blake was awarded fifth place and DeFreese sixth. Junior Shayvonne Goldsby claimed eighth place by clocking 19:57. Freshman Tara Mosier earned points by running 20:23, good enough for 11th place.

When the men and women competed at the BIG EAST Conference Championships, the men took 12th place while the women took 11th.

At the IC4A/ECAC Championships, the women's team garnered its best finish ever, placing fourth in the University Division. The men's team placed 12th in the University Division.

• • • • •

The men's and women's swimming and diving teams finished the season 6-8, 1-5 and 5-9, 0-6 respectively.

Both teams did particularly well as they finished their home seasons against Drexel University.

The men's team, led by Ryan Murphy and Damon Small (each of whom registered double wins), defeated Drexel 64-44.

The women's team, led by Carla Stetter and Jeanine Wolert, defeated Drexel 82-31. Stetter had two first-place finishes while Wolert had three. In diving, Camie Kornely captured both the one-meter and three-meter events.

At the BIG EAST Championships, both men and women finished 11th. The women were led by Stetter, while the men were led by Murphy and Walter Bell. Kornely led the divers.

The men went on to compete in the ECAC Championships. They placed ninth, marking the best-ever finish for the men at this event.

Kornely competed and placed 10th in the one-meter board competition at the NCAA Zone A Diving Championships.

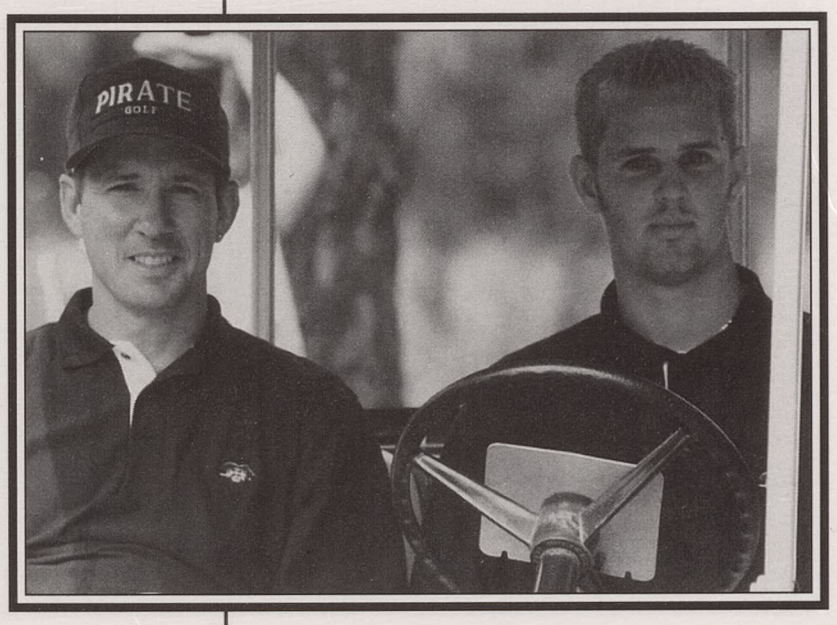

• • • • •

Members of the men's and women's indoor track team made great individual strides this season. The team as a whole also triumphed at several important meets.

Their greatest finish was at the Metropolitan Championship where the men took second and the women took first.

Later in the season, the women finished third and the men took fourth at the 1996 BIG EAST Indoor Track Championships held at the Carrier Dome in Syracuse, New York.

On March 8-9, seven Pirates were present at the NCAA Championships in Indianapolis, Indiana: Nichole Belcher, Tasha Boston, Daisy Bygrave, Katrina Jarrett, Shermaine Ross, Albert Royster and Lou Ann Williams. None of these competitors reached the finals of their events.

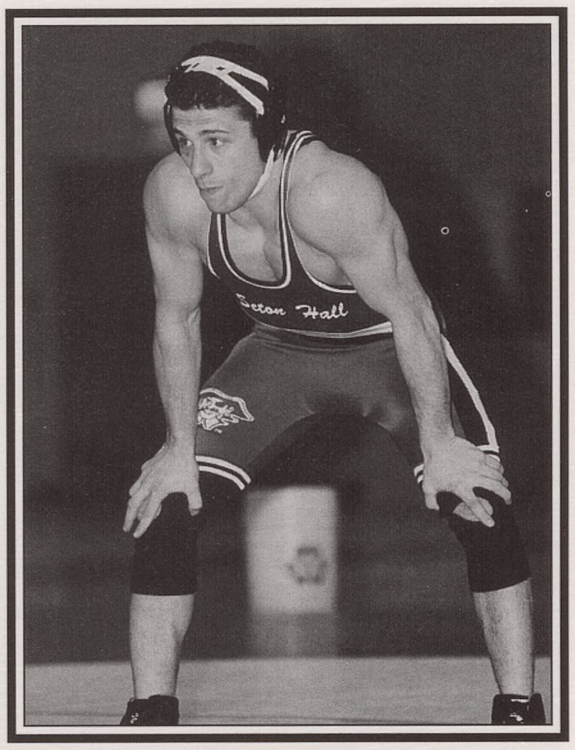

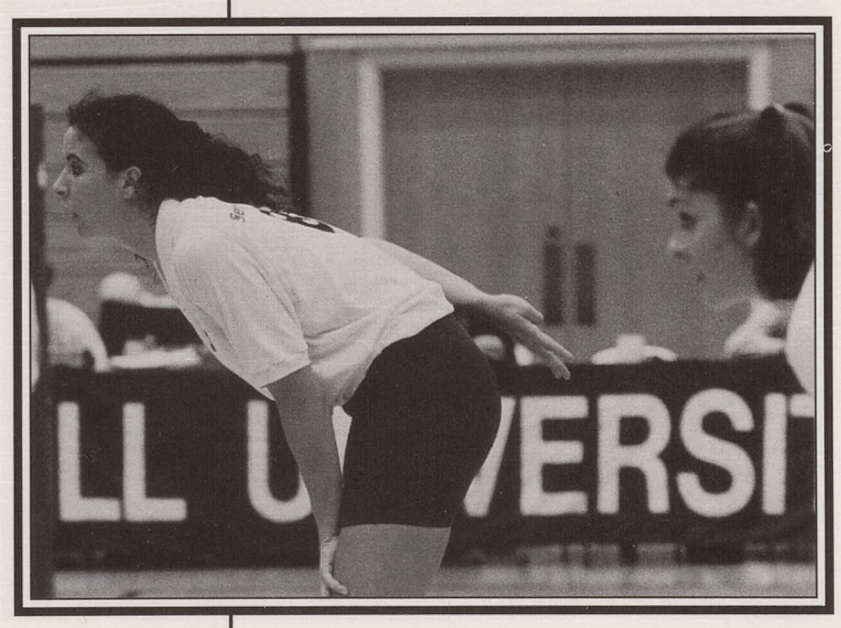

• • • • •

The wrestling team opened the 1995-96 season under new head coach Sonny Greenhalgh with an impressive seventh-place finish at the Keystone Classic in Philadelphia. The team finished the season 7-9-1.

The team had several big wins including a second place finish at the U.S. Coast Guard Invitational and a third place finish at the Eastern Wrestling Invitational. The most exciting victory, however, was the 24-13 Senior Night win over intra-state rival Rutgers.

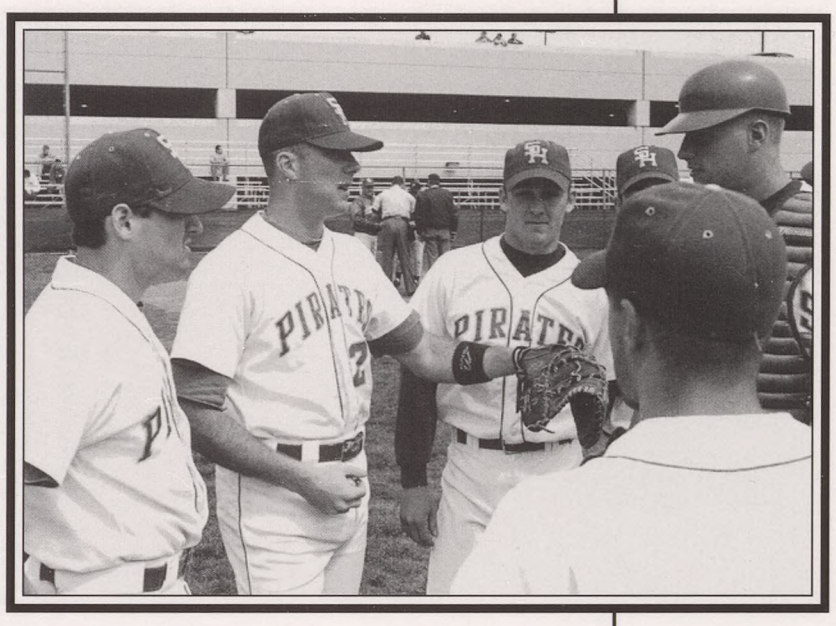

At the ECWA Championships, Emilio Nardone was awarded the tournament's Most Outstanding Performer Award coming out of the second seed to win his weight class. This win advanced him to the NCAA Championships where he defeated Trevor Elliot of Indiana University (7-3), but fell to Oscar Wood of Oregon State (10-6) in the consolation bracket.

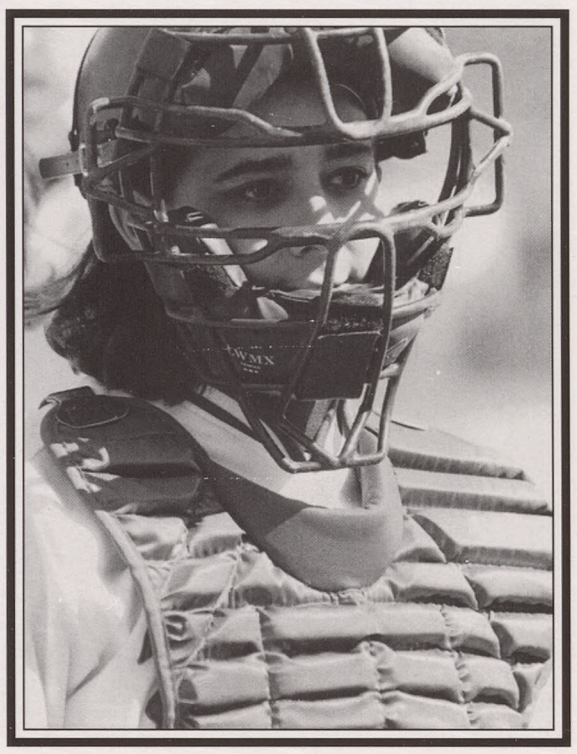

• • • • •

The women's basketball team came into the 1995-96 season after having produced 51 wins and two NCAA Tournament berths in the previous two seasons. They did not get quite as far this season, but they ended their campaign with a winning record, 16-13, 9-9.

Of particular significance was the home victory over the University of Pittsburgh, 82-71, on Senior Day. Pittsburgh cut into a 59-43 deficit to trail by just seven points with just over four minutes to play. Seton Hall freshman Christine Koren delivered the fatal blow, scoring five points in a span of two seconds.

The team closed out the season with wins in the BIG EAST Tournament over Georgetown in the opening round (74-58) and Providence in the quarter-finals (69-67) before a semi-finals loss to Notre Dame, 69-58.

The Pirates, who shared the BIG EAST Seven regular season championship, entered the conference tournament with a No. 7 seed.

• • • • •

The men's basketball team opened the season by winning its 23rd-straight season opener, but ended the season with only a 12-16, 7-11 record.

The Pirates did, however, upset several nationally ranked opponents, including the Syracuse Orangemen (80-79), who then went on to the NCAA Finals.

In the Pirates' defeat of Syracuse, The Hall led by five at the intermission (40-35) and never lost the lead.

The team concluded the 1995-96 campaign with a win over West Virginia (80-78) in the opening round of the BIG EAST Tournament and a 79-58 loss to eventual tournament champion UConn in the quarterfinals.

• • • • •

The golf team concluded its fall season with a strong second place finish at the Fairleigh Dickinson University Knights Tournament held in Ponoma, New York.

Earlier in the fall season, the Pirates took home a second place finish from the St. John's/Walter McLaughlin Invitational and a fourth place finish from the 1995 BIG EAST Tournament.

During the spring season, the team had its best finish at the Metropolitan Championships where it captured first place. The team wrapped up the season with a tenth place finish at the NCAA District II Championships.

• • • • •

Women's Tennis Head Coach Kevin McGlynn returned with one of his most talented squads ever. The team opened the fall season at the highly-competitive Syracuse SUnity Tournament. The Pirates had their best-ever showing and earned the Sports-women Award for Sportsmanship.

Later in the fall, the team competed at the ITA Team Championship, where it posted a 1-2 record over the two-day tournament to take fourth place.

The following week, the team placed third at the ECAC Invitational Championships before sending four team members to the Rolex Regional Individual Championships. There, Kriss Poldma and Kristen Downing were the top two Pirate finishers in the singles competition. Both advanced to the fourth round.

The team concluded the spring competition with an 11-7, 6-1 record. With this tremendous finish, the team received its first-ever NCAA bid in school history, earning a spot in the NCAA East Regional. The Pirates were matched against the top-seeded team from William & Mary and were defeated, 5-0.

Earlier in the spring, the team upset Syracuse (4-3) and won important Conference victories over West Virginia, Rutgers and St. John's.

• • • • •

The men's tennis fall schedule began at the Bloomsburg Invitational. Scott Crichlow led the way by advancing to the quarterfinals of the Flight B singles competition.

At the ECAC Open Tennis Tournament, Perseo Negri captured a pair of victories in the Flight 2 singles bracket. Mark Bednarcyzk and Mike Rumore were also victorious in doubles competition.

The team concluded its fall season at the Rolex Tennis Championships. Davor Barisic made it into the third round before being eliminated.

The team concluded its spring campaign with a 4-11, 2-5 record and an eighth-place finish at the BIG EAST Championships.

Worthy of mention was a 4-3 SHU victory over the UConn Huskies. Barisic won at first singles while Crichlow and Negri took second and third singles respectively. In doubles play, both Crichlow/Negri and Barisic/Bednarcyzk took their matches.

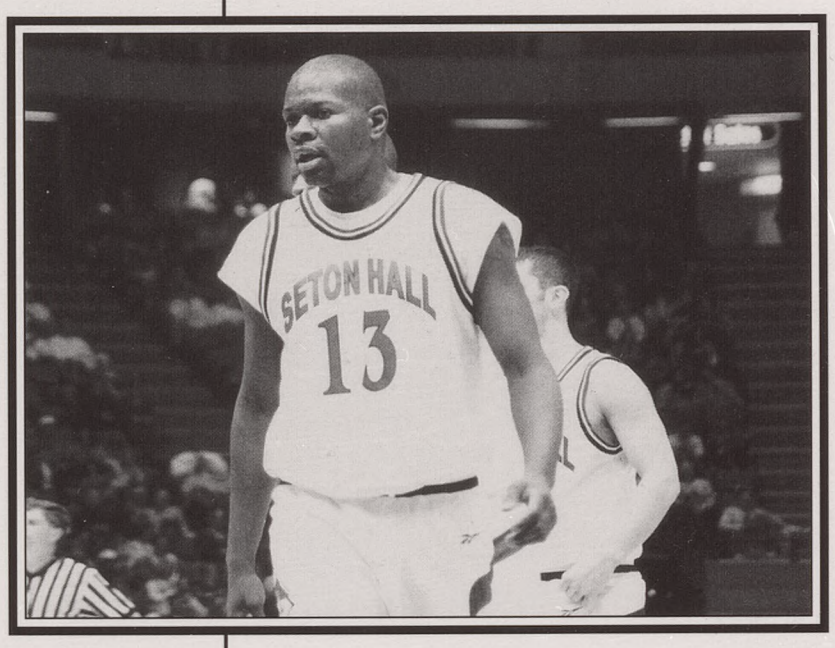

• • • • •

The men's and women's outdoor track and field team concluded the season's team competition at the IC4A/ECAC Championship, where the men tied for ninth place and the women tied for eighth.

At the IC4A meet, Albert Royster placed third in the 800 meters, running 1:46.38. The time was a personal best and automatically qualified him for the NCAA Championship and the U.S. Olympic Trials.

Earlier in the season, the team spent the Easter weekend in Williamsburg, Virginia, competing in the Colonial Relays. Both the men and the women came home with second place team finishes.

Just prior to the IC4A/ECAC Championship, the men's and women's teams competed at the BIG EAST Championship. The women compiled a score of 62 points and a seventh place finish. The men earned sixth place, also with 62 points.

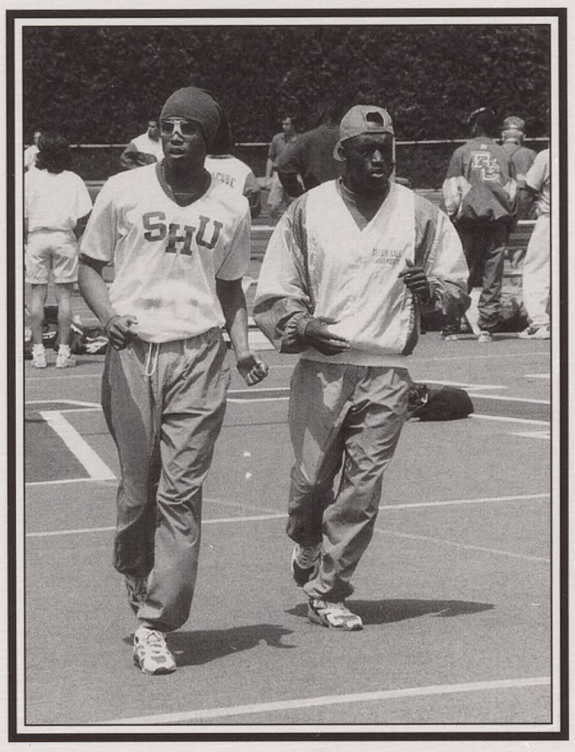

• • • • •

The baseball team closed out the 1996 campaign with a 5-1 victory over Princeton. The Pirates finished the season with an 18-27-1 overall record and a 5-17-1 record in the Conference.

The team picked up its first Conference victory in late March in the second game of a double-header against Georgetown (8-1). Jason Grilli picked up the victory, pitching a complete game and allowing just one run on three hits and striking out 12.

Later in April, the Pirates picked up two important Conference wins in a two-day span. The first was a 5-4 victory over Providence and the second was a 3-1 victory over Boston College.

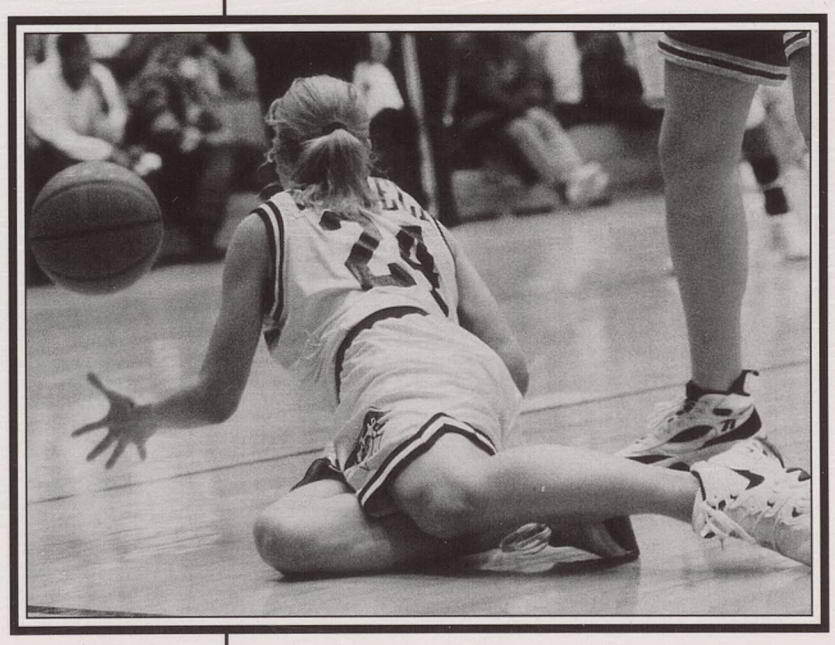

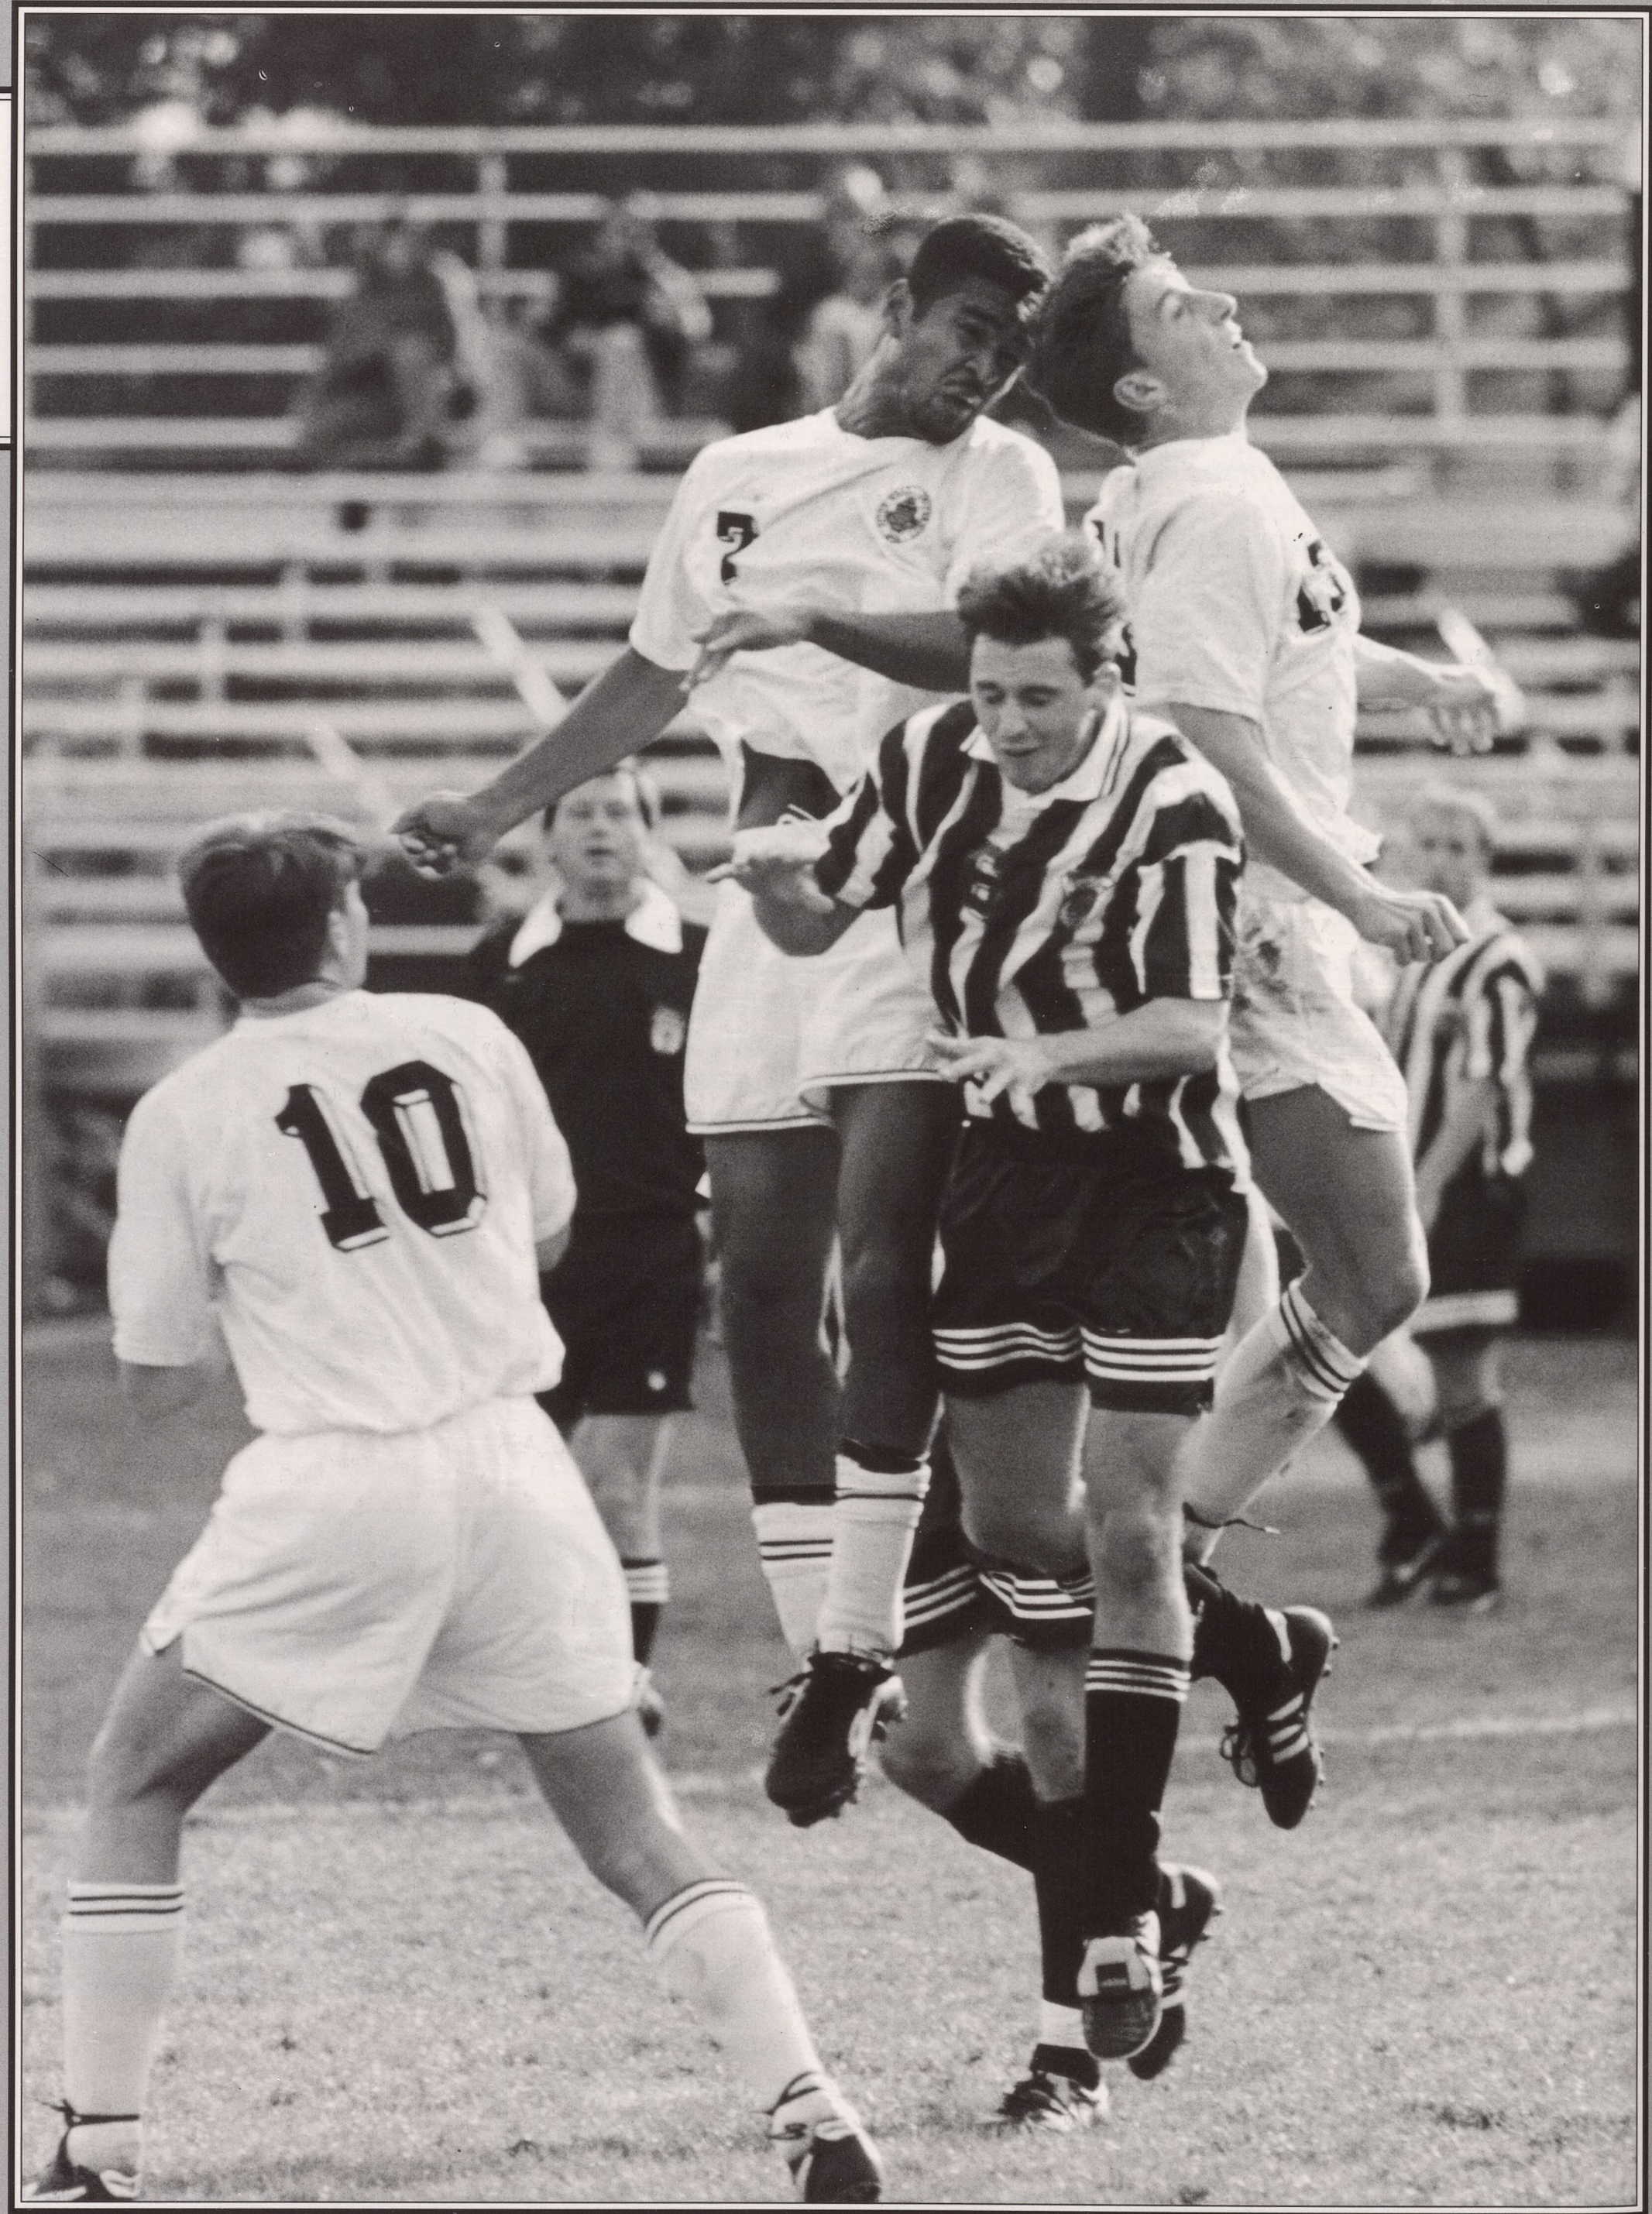

• • • • •

A 5-2 victory over St. Peter's concluded the 1996 season for the Seton Hall Softball Team. The Pirates finished 14-30, and 4-14 in BIG EAST competition.

The team picked up its first Conference win with an 8-0 victory over St. John's in the first game of a double-header on April 4.

They then picked up three Conference wins. First, the Pirates won the second game of a double-header against Rutgers, 4-3. Then, in its first-ever double-header sweep of a BIG EAST Conference opponent, the team defeated Providence (4-0 and 3-1.)

Cheerleaders

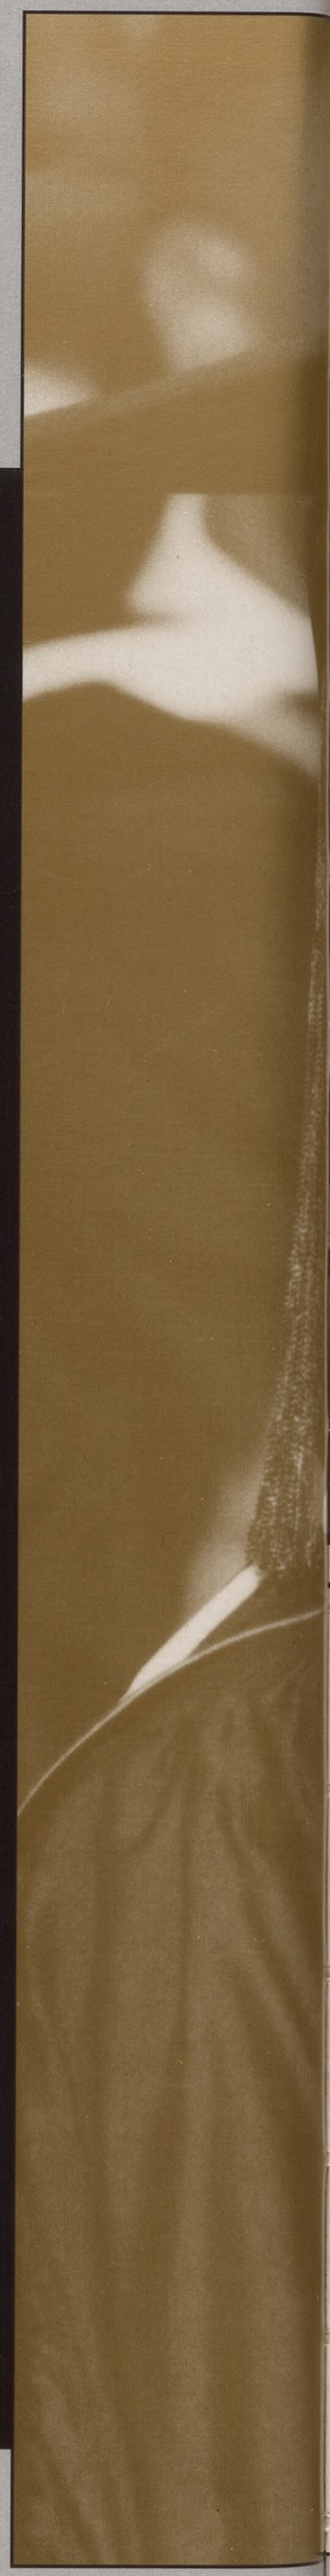

August 1992 marked the first time the entire Class of 1996 met as a group for at the Freshman Convocation in Walsh Gymnasium. As we listened to the various speeches, we wondered what the next four years would hold for us.

Before long, we found ourselves meeting new and exciting people, getting involved in University activities and clubs and looking at life from a new perspective. The time went by, and soon the first year of our college experience was over. Feeling a little more mature and quite a bit wiser, we began planning for our remaining years looking forward to Commencement '96.

Throughout our Seton Hall education, we have endured many stressful times, laughed with friends, learned more about life than we ever could have anticipated and possibly even found our niche in the "real world." Now that we have taken our senior pictures, been measured for our caps and gowns and marched to the sounds of Pomp and Circumstance, we are left with our memories of the time we spent at Seton Hall. Regardless of what we have done to leave our own mark at the Hall, we will be collectively remembered always as the Class of 1996. Farewell in the future, for we are well prepared for life's curve balls.

Nicole Marie Elizabeth Falcone

Tricky Nicki one smooth tune, a song we love to sing, teaching children very soon how great their world is seen. An author of great novels, a daughter of delight, your family truly marvels and prays, God's joy in life.
Love, Mom and Dad

Heather Marie Fedele

Dear Heather,
From the day you were born, until the time you graduated college, you have always made us truly proud of you. We know that you can face whatever life has in store for you.
Love,
Mommy and Daddy

Jason Anton Federici

Fed: "Listen to the mustn'ts, listen to the don'ts, listen to the shouldn'ts, the impossible, the won'ts, listen to the never haves, then listen close to me — anything can happen, anything can be."
Love - Dad, Mom, Fed[2,3,4]

Susan Figueredo

Susan,
Congratulations; may your future be filled with all the joy and love you've given us. We thought this day would never arrive!! We are behind you all the way. Keep up the good work.
Love always,
Mom, Dad & Grand

Desireé Sha Flora Findley

Dear Desireé,
"Lift up your eyes upon this day breaking for you, give birth again to the dream." I am extremely proud of you. Congratulations!
Love now and forever,
Your Mommie

Brian P. Flanagan

Remember that you have your goals to set and achieve. We are very proud of you, son, and will always be there for you. Best wishes.
Love always,

Marie Claire Florentino

Dearest Ate Claire,
I thank God for giving me a sister like you and Ate Chiqui. Mom and Dad say the three of us are very special. Each of us in our own unique way. There is no one like YOU.
Love,
Benjamin

Manisha Naté Ford

Accept all the accolades for your academic achievements. We recognize your accomplishments and are extremely proud of you. Continue to pursue your dreams until they become reality. There is no one like YOU.

Love always,
Mom & Dad

Regina Galano

To borrow a few lines from "Forrest Gump": You're like a box of chocolates -- you're always full of surprises! You are such a joy to us! We love you very much, Regina! We are so proud of you!

Love,
Dad, Mom and Fred

Ursula E. Getek

Ursula,

Job well done. We admire your flexibility, courage and ambition. Congratulations. Best of luck in everything that you do.

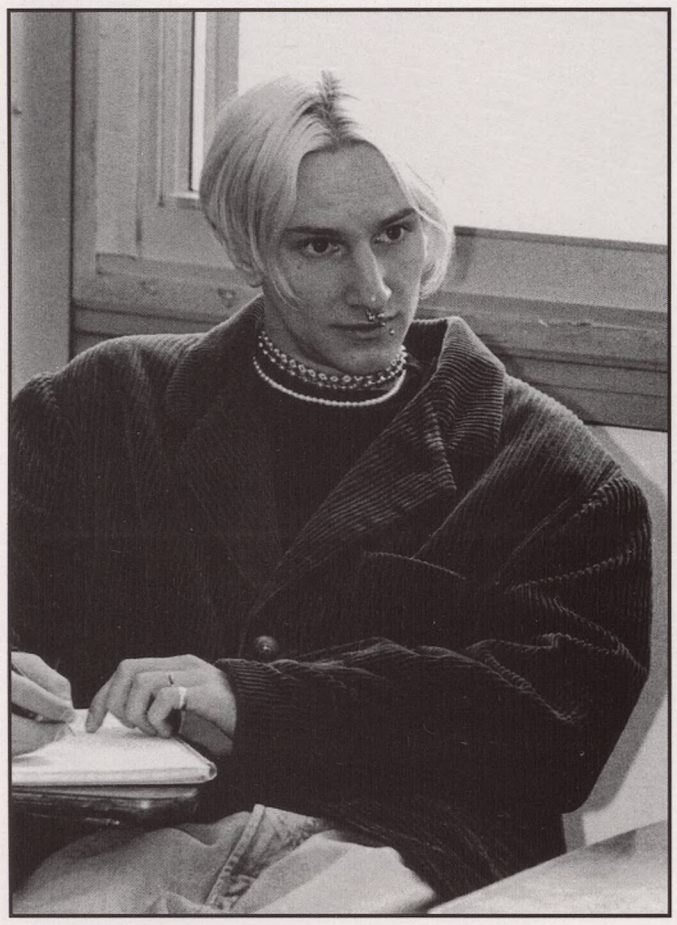

Love always,
Mom, Dad & family

Jeffrey Giambrone

Jeff,

With your charm and good nature you bring out the best in everyone, especially yourself! We are very proud of you and all you have accomplished. This is only the beginning!

We love you very much,
Mom, Dad, Jackie & Lauren

Amy Marie Gibbons

Dear Amy,

Believe in yourself as much as we do, and the future is yours to love and enjoy.

With all our love,
Mom, Elliott, Sean
Bri, Grandma and Grandma

Brendan Wheeler Gill

Brendan,

Knowledge is how you got your fame. The students at The Hall believed your game. You spoke up when others were silent. So how come no one noticed you drove a dirty old Reliant!

Love, Mom and Dad

Robert Francis Glasser

Dear Robert:

You have completed another step in your life and one you must be proud of. Through the years, you have excelled. We are very proud of you and wish you the best of luck and happiness in all you set out to accomplish. We love you.

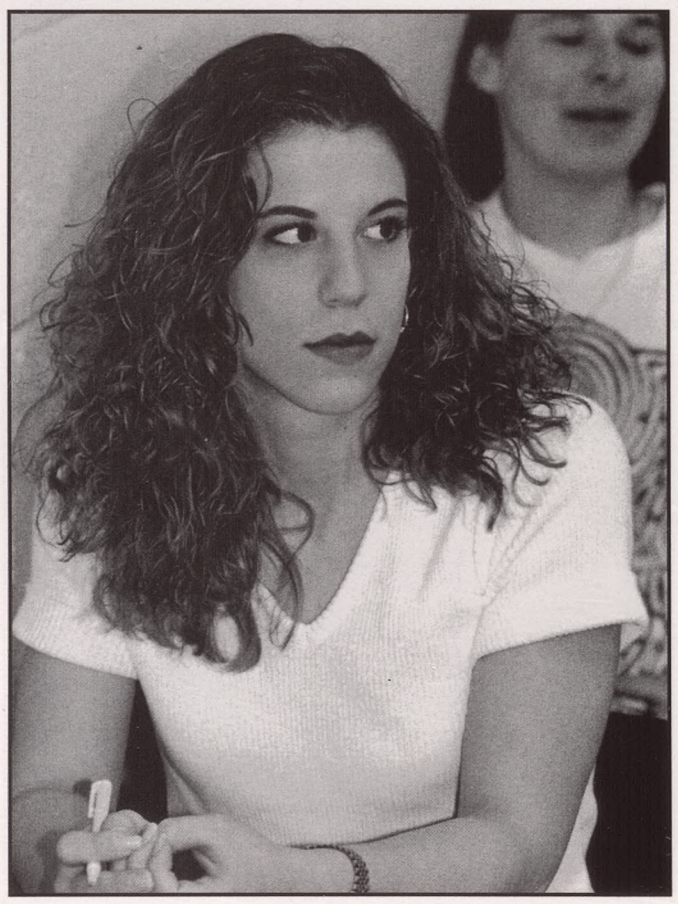

Mom, Dad, Brian and Sean

Sonia Ann Goodluck

Sonia,

Patience is a tree whose root is bitter, but its fruit is very sweet, for it's the number one key to success. Reach for your highest goal.

Love always,
Mom, Harry, Granny
Andre and Iris

Frank Grande

Frank,

You are the best son a Mom can have. At times your family came before your own dreams. Love and goodness speak well of you. My great joy is your achievement and success. You have been my strength and my life saver. May the future bring you much happiness -- you deserve it.

Love, Mom and the gang

Jennifer L. Grant

Jen,

The light within you shines through wherever you go and casts a glow over everyone you are with and everything you do. We love you. You have earned the best life has to offer as life gave us the best by giving us you.

Love, Mom, Dad, Bobby & Yogi

Adrian Darnell Griffin

Adrian, (our baby boy)

It wasn't easy, but you did it. And we are very proud of you! The Lord be with you always.

Love you very much,
Dad, Mom, Grandma, David
Alycia, Faith and Gloria

Douglas Grysko

Doug,

Always remember this: success doesn't come easily. You must work hard for it; set goals high and never give up. The road to today was bumpy. We are proud of you and wish you the best in the future.

Mom, Dad, Nana and Scrub

Victoria Ann Haley

You are a flawless diamond, so precious and rare. Your beauty radiates from deep within and reflects on those around you. Your multi-faceted outlook on life has enabled you to see and do what others can only dream of. We are so very proud of you!

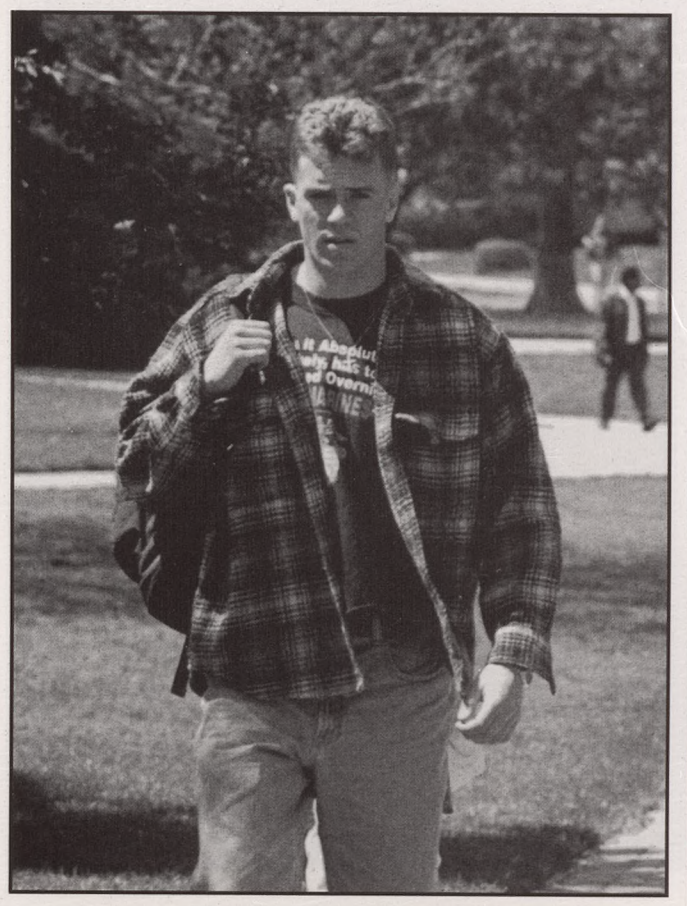

Love, Terri and Eric

Jenene Rene Hansen

Dear Jenene,

"A Nurse's Hands" are skilled in gentle touch, dry the tears of sorrow, soothe the fears of a child, close the eyes in death. With wishes that life's greatest joys will be yours.

Love, Mom and Dad

Nicole Marie Harguindeguy

Dear Nicole:

Great grades, spirit & personality plus Captain (2 years) & Starting Setter for SHU's best ever VB season. Your success to date & plans for the future are admirable. Congratulations!

Love always,
Dad, Mom, Dominique & Vincent

Alma Mater

To Alma Mater all be loyal keep her name in purest light.
Never waver from her precepts, guard her banner blue and white.

O sing her praise to highest skies,
and be ye faithful in her eyes,
for she will foster all your dreams,
her name is Seton Hall,
her name is Seton Hall.

When on life's hard stones you stumble,
pray to God to be your guide.
Think of Seton Hall your mother,
then forge on in steady stride.

O sing her praise to highest skies,

Colophon

The 1996 Galleon yearbook of Seton Hall University, Volume 72, was printed by Jostens Printing and Publishing Division located in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. The Galleon was designed using Jostens Yeartech desktop publishing program and Aldus Pagemaker 4.2.

•Printing
The 320 pages were printed using offset lithography on 90 pound Eloquence Gloss. Photos were reproduced using 175 line screens and flatbed scanner enhancement. Second color pages were selected from Pantone Inks and process colors. Process color pages were printed by Jostens from MSTC prints taken by the Galleon Staff and DaVor Photo, Inc., located in Bensalem, Pennsylvania. Fuji and Kodak color film were used and all photography processing was done by DaVor Photo, Inc.

•Art Work
The cover was designed by Gabriel Adamo, Andrea Cruise, Melissa Fornarotto, Gina M. Pontoriero and Jerry Salomone at the 1996 Printing and Publishing Convention held in Boston, Massachusettes.

•Photography
Senior Portraits and Who's Who photos were taken by Davor photographers. Photographs from the Papal visit were taken by Professor Kenneth Hoffman, Department of Communication, Observatorium Romana, and XXXX. Sports Photography was shot by the Galleon Staff and DaVor. Men's Basketball photos were taken by Jennifer A. Kressaty. Black and white photos in Year-in-Review were purchased from RM Photo Service. The photograph on the first page was by Bill Denison. All candid photography was taken by the Galleon staff and DaVor.

A Legacy of Excellence

The 1996 Galleon captures the laughter, the friendships, the achievements and professionalism of the Class of 1996. The memories that unfold in this volume most represent the graduates "legacy of excellence." The Galleon Yearbook staff has tried to capture the spiritual, cultural and social diversity of Seton Hall, for this is the essence of our University's "legacy of excellence." As one of the only tangible treasures of the graduates over time, the 1996 Galleon will always tell the tale of the Class of 1996.

Over the past year, the Galleon Yearbook staff strove to make this issue more than just a picture book. We wanted the 1996 Galleon to serve as keepsake to the graduates, administration, faculty, staff and alumnus. The entire Yearbook staff wanted all who came to view this yearbook to understand the "legacy of excellence" the Class of 1996 has strived so hard to achieve.

The editorial staff of the 1996 Galleon spent endless hours over the summer months punching out stories, layout designs and eventually pages in the Galleon office. As our friends and family relaxed, we made many sacrifices to complete this quality issue in a timely manner . It was the unequivocal devotion of four editors to an enormous undertaking that brought this yearbook to new heights. Putting the 1996 Galleon together took the hard work and dedication of many great people, to whom I am eternally grateful.

To the editorial staff:

Melissa Fornarotto: I have watched you take on more and more responsibilities in the office over the past two years and am confident you will assume the position as editor-in-chief next year with great success. I am certain your enthusiasm and creativity will ensure the continuation of the Galleon Yearbook's legacy of excellence. Thank you for all your work with the sports section, and best of luck!

Gabriel Adamo: Though you began the year as photography editor, you stepped in to help in other areas whenever someone couldn't seem to make it there. Given such, it was only appropriate that you ended the year as the managing editor of the 1996 Galleon. Your continued creativity and devotion to the Galleon over the past three years has brought another issue to its successful completion. Thank you for always rising to the occasion!

Andrea Cruise: I can't thank you enough for taking on the task of the Student Life section. Whatever the responsibility, you always confronted it head on without a problem. Thank you for hanging in there over the summer even after you began your new job. I don't know where you found the time, but you did an exceptional job. Thank you!

Professionally, I owe thanks to a few great talents who taught me about professionalism, commitment and inspiration.

Katherine Gallagher: Your never ending trust, constant support and exceptional ability has helped make the 1996 Galleon a legacy in itself. You have exceeded the role expected of any adviser and were there for us when we needed you the most both professionally and personally. You devoted much of your personal time to always be by our side and I thank you for that. The Galleon and myself were lucky to be able to have an exceptional person behind us every step of the way! Best of luck and thank you for being there for me until the end.

Jerry Salomone: You told me three years ago not to worry until you said I should. Looking back, that time never seemed to come, thanks to you. Your presence alone served as a great inspiration to the entire Galleon staff. After endless hours of layout, cropping and design we have learned a lot about each other. I regard you as a great friend, an excellent representative and an even better comedian. I truly believe it was your entertaining stories that got us through those hot summer months. Thank you for advancing the creativity and enthusiasm of the entire Galleon staff!

Neil Weidman: I couldn't let this book come to publication without thanking you for those times when I asked for something out of the ordinary. Your "let me see what I can do's" always seemed to work out for us in the end. Thank you for making the second time around a lot smoother for us.

Michael, Mary Ann and Antonette Pontoriero: I could not have produced this publication were it not for the continued support and understanding of my family. You mean the world to me and I just wanted to thank you from the bottom of my heart for all of your help and patience. You have taught me what it means to be devoted to a cause and committed to the goal. Thank you!

The following are individuals who could never go forgotten by the 1996 Galleon staff. Your contributions have made this publication reflective of the "legacy of excellence" Seton Hall University has prided itself in over the past 140 years. Thank you to: Very Reverend Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., University chancellor; Monsignor Robert Sheeran, University president; Dr. Bernhard W.
